Bill would cut inflation from property levies

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — With one obstacle out of the way, at least temporarily, a joint conference committee resumed deliberations today on a major bill designed to protect Ohio homeowners from tax increases caused by inflation.

The committee voted 3-1 Thursday to make the bill effective with the 1976 tax year, instead of an effective date of 1978 set in the Senate version. Under the House version, a complicated system of rollbacks would have sought, despite legal questions, to make some of its provisions retroactive to 1972.

Chairman George D. Tablack, D-52 Campbell, said the vote at least held out hope that the committee might reach further agreements today. If not, he said Thursday, after daylong bickering on the issue, he would be ready to adjourn the panel and ask that another be appointed. He threatened that move several times Thursday when the committee seemed hopelessly deadlocked. Legislative leaders have targeted the measure, by Rep. John E. Johnson, D-68 Orrville, for priority consideration when the legislature returns June 9 for a three-day clean-up session.

Sen. Donald J. Pease, D-13 Oberlin, went along reluctantly with the motion by Johnson to move the effective date up to the current tax year. But he indicated he did so to get the committee moving, and warned he was reserving the right to vote against the committee's final report.

The committee consists of six members—three from each chamber. A final report needs the votes of two members from each house. Both minority Republican members—one senator and one representative—were absent Thursday.

The bill, which attracted major attention early this year when real estate taxpayers were hit by unexpected increases in their taxes resulting from inflation, would hold the line from year to year on property valuations for tax purposes. Thus, the only way taxes would increase would be by a vote of the people.

Pease and others maintain the measure will run into court troubles unless its effective date is put off until 1978 to coincide with the end of Ohio's current six-year reappraisal cycle. During each cycle, counties are reappraised in groups, and nearly two dozen are yet to be reappraised in the cycle which started in 1972.

Senate conferees claim that any effective date for the bill that falls within the six-year period would be unconstitutional because it would have the effect of treating different groups of taxpayers in different ways.

They point out that the board of tax appeals already has ordered a freeze on property values until 1978.

However, Tablack and Johnson, among others, claim the board lacked authority under the law to order such a freeze, and predict it will be disallowed once challenged in the courts.

Further complicating the deliberations was a decision Thursday to make another major tax reform bill a part of the Senate bill which is being used as a working vehicle by the committee.

That measure, by Rep. William E. Hinig, D-96 New Philadelphia, would reduce tangible property (inventories and equipment) assessment rates on business and industry. They would go from their current 45-50 per cent levels to 35 per cent, the same figure set by the tax appeals board for real property several years ago under an Ohio Supreme Court order.

WHERE IS THE EPA?—Although the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency is forever asking Ohioans to clean up their air and water, Kings Island has scheduled the release of 20,000 helium-filled balloons for its grand opening Saturday, May 29. Above is a picture of the scene at the first opening in 1972.

Ohio political scene becomes warmer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — President Ford's son Jack was greeted warmly Thursday on his five city, two-campus campaign tour across Ohio in support of his father's bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

"I'd like to get an idea of what is on your mind, to take impressions back to my father," Ford told students at Bowling Green State University and Ohio State University in Columbus.

Surrounded by a crowd of some 800 students on the Ohio State oval, the shirt-sleeved Ford answered questions about his father's administration and candidly admitted to having smoked marijuana.

Ford, who did not advocate drug use, said the money now used to enforce marijuana laws should be diverted to fighting hard drug use.

"My father and I don't agree on this issue," the 24-year-old Ford said. "But I'm glad he and I could sit down and discuss it like rational human beings." He said his father was definitely against decriminalization of marijuana.

Later at President Ford Committee headquarters in downtown Columbus, he defended his father's stand against busing, saying: "We feel it is important to get back to the real issue of quality education and away from busing. There are better ways to get to the real issue than putting kids on buses for two or three hours a day."

He denied his father was using the busing issue as a timely campaign booster for the West Virginia and Kentucky primaries, saying Atty. Gen. Edward Levi was asked to look into the possibility of a challenge to Supreme Court rulings last November.

At both college stops, Ford said his father is "within easy striking distance" of opponent Ronald Reagan in California and expects to do well in Ohio's June 8 primary.

The President's son said he does not think political campaigning is something "I'd ever do for myself," adding he does not think he will ever seek political office.

At Bowling Green State University Ford told students his father is "within easy striking distance" of opponent Ronald Reagan in California and expects to do well in Ohio's June 8 primary.

After leaving the capital, Ford flew to Mansfield for the opening of the Richland County headquarters of the President Ford Committee. Ford was also attended a reception in Canton to cap the first day's activities of the Ohio Republican Women's Federation state meeting.

The President's son remained overnight in Canton and was to attend the opening of Ford's Canton headquarters today before flying back to Washington.

Meanwhile, Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, in Cincinnati to speak at a Ford fundraiser, told reporters Thursday he will formally support the President's nomination when New York's unpledged convention delegation meets next week to announce its choice in the presidential race.

Rockefeller said he feels the momentum has swung in Ford's favor in view of his Michigan and Maryland primary victories.

"I will vote for him Monday," said Rockefeller. "We like his style, integrity and courage. I think he has restored faith and confidence in the nation."

Rockefeller predicted President Ford, who presently trails Reagan in delegates, would win on the first ballot in Kansas City. He cited Ohio, New Jersey and California as key primary states.

Rockefeller said Ohio "is very important" to Ford because of its large delegation and because "it is a state in the heartland of America."

In local campaigns Thursday, former Sen. Howard Metzenbaum and Rep. James Stanton, D-Ohio, continued appearances in their race for the Democratic nomination to challenge Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio.

Metzenbaum met with students at Miami University in Oxford Thursday afternoon. Later, he appeared in Dayton at a rally of Montgomery County Democrats.

Stanton met with reporters in Columbus in front of police headquarters to publicize legislation to transfer local funding under the Law Enforcement Assistance Act to the revenue sharing program.

He said he would introduce the bill next month.

Stanton said if local officials were given the anticrime funds to use as they saw fit, the money could be used more directly to "develop new strategies of crime control and maintain adequate levels of public safety."

Coffee Break...

THE "WCH FIVE", charged with election law tampering, were represented by their lawyer, C. Patrick Harkins in a pre-trial hearing held in Circleville Municipal Court.

Trial date has not yet been established, as Circleville Judge John Hosterman believes the trial will take longer than one day. The tentative date, June 22, was not convenient for legal counselors.

The trial is being held in Circleville after acting Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case ordered a change of venue upon a motion by City Solicitor Gary Smith.

Panel gets FBI documents

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate intelligence committee is to receive documents from the FBI showing that the bureau knew a CIA plot to kill Fidel Castro was in progress on the same day President John F. Kennedy was assassinated.

The documents, which the FBI apparently never gave to the Warren Commission, are expected to be turned over to the intelligence committee today, according to Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., chairman of the subcommittee investigating the Kennedy slaying.

Schweiker said the new documents "could be very vital" in determining who in the FBI ordered the information about CIA attempts against Castro withheld from the Warren Commission, which investigated Kennedy's Nov. 22, 1963, assassination.

He said the information about the CIA plot against Castro may also have been withheld even from the FBI agents assigned to investigate the Kennedy slaying.

David W. Belin, who was an assistant counsel for the Warren Commission, said, "The fact that they would withhold information from an investigation of this kind has rather chilling implications. One of the things we were looking at was whether there was any Castro involvement in the Kennedy assassination."

Meanwhile, Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, has been named as ranking Democrat and likely chairman of the new Senate panel set up to monitor and control future spy activities. Eight of the 15 members, including Inouye, also serve on committees that have been responsible for monitoring the intelligence agencies in the past.

In another development, the committee released a report showing the CIA opened nearly a quarter-million private letters, even though senior officials knew the program was illegal and of little value. The FBI also opened mail on a smaller but "more intrusive" scale, the staff report said.

"All of these mail-opening programs were initiated by agency officials acting without prior authorization from a president, attorney general or postmaster general," the report stated.

Schweiker released a copy of a May 6 letter to Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi stating that "recently received materials reveal that the FBI, in 1964, had knowledge of the CIA's AM LASH plot and that there even exists an FBI file captioned 'Plans to Assassinate Cuban Leaders.'"

AM LASH was the code name of a highly placed Cuban official who met with a CIA officer in Paris the same day Kennedy was killed and received a poison pen device to be used in killing Castro.

Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C., a member of the old and new intelligence panels, has been quoted as calling AM LASH "a double agent" who kept Castro informed of CIA schemes against his life. "There is no doubt in my mind that John Fitzgerald Kennedy was assassinated by Fidel Castro or someone under his influence in retaliation for our efforts to assassinate him," Morgan was quoted as saying.

Indiana man wins top lottery prize

CLEVELAND (AP) — With a guaranteed income of $1,000 a month for the rest of his life, 45-year-old Fred Fortner says he's looking forward to fulfilling his dream of buying "a little farm—something I can manage and have a couple of calves."

Fortner, of Richmond, Ind., won the top prize Thursday night in the Ohio lottery's Buckeye 1,000 competition. But he said even with the prize that guarantees him or his estate at least $400,000, he plans to keep on working as a painter.

"However, you can bet I'm going to slow down a bit," he added.

Fortner, who is divorced, said he has five children and three grandchildren.

A lottery spokesman said the State Line Truck Stop at Eaton, Ohio, just across the line from Richmond, where Fortner bought his winning ticket, is one of the top lottery ticket agents in the state, averaging $14,165 a week in sales. The spokesman said three Buckeye 1,000 finalists in the past three months have bought their tickets at State Line.

Second prize of $7,500 in the Buckeye 1,000 went to Joseph Krajewski of Toledo. Janette Augustino of Portsmouth won $5,000.

Other winners included: Annie Smith of Columbus, $4,000; Theresa Kuzman, Cleveland, $3,000; Wesley Leimkuhler, Cincinnati $2,000; and June Quillen, Addison, $1,000.

Numbers pulled out in the weekly drawing were: Six digit 370077; five digit 35071; four digit 1356; three digit 237.

Liberty Bell: 27, 50, 51, 68. Spirit of 76: 661469; 07153; 5896.

Political hiring out of control

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hiring abuses involving the federal government's chief employment agency — the Civil Service Commission — are so rampant that disciplinary action is nearly impossible, the head of an investigative team says.

Milton I. Sharon, a retired Civil Service official who headed a special investigation of the reported hiring abuses, said Thursday that the cases of favoritism "were not isolated incidents."

He said it would be no use trying to discipline those involved in such actions as giving some persons favored treatment in job placement, helping them write resumes or assisting them in passing Civil Service tests.

"What are we going to do, discipline one-quarter of the work force, one-half of the work force, 10 per cent?" he asked at a news conference.

The report on the investigation charged that a Civil Service Commission bureau rushing to destroy what were called key documents as the commission's investigation began.

As a result of the disposal of documents, special investigators looking into abuses at the Civil Service Commission itself had to "abandon some lines of inquiry which we believe might have been productive," the report said.

The investigation was an internal probe of the agency started about six months ago after numerous reports of hiring abuses within the commission.

When the abuses were discovered at other agencies, including the General Services Administration and Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the commission moved to take disciplinary action against personnel officers of the agencies.

The investigations in those cases provided leads which eventually took investigators back to the commission itself, where abuses by commission employees were discovered.

Despite the 96-page report, Civil Service Commission Executive Director Raymond Jacobson said he wanted to investigate further before deciding whether Civil Service employees should be disciplined for their actions.

But Jacobson also said he would be looking into the disposal of the documents and that this was one area of the report that continued to trouble him.

Kissinger rejects sphere of influence policy in Europe

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger has told Washington's European allies that America supports the independence of Eastern Europe from Soviet domination and will never accept the sphere-of-influence concept for Europe.

U.S. officials said the secretary of state told North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) foreign ministers in a closed meeting Thursday that America is committed to encouraging the independence of Eastern Europe and has taken positive steps in this direction.

But they said Kissinger cautioned the NATO ministers that any alliance action should be within the limits of what is possible. This meant, they said, that there should be no effort to encourage revolt or a major shift away from Moscow by Eastern European nations.

About 20 youths demonstrated outside the heavily guarded meeting hall Thursday while 5,000 leftists marched in the streets. One group shouted "Out with the war criminal Kissinger" near the U.S. Embassy.

Youths booed delegates headed for a dinner party given by the Norwegian government but there were no incidents.

The demonstrators carried signs denouncing both NATO and Moscow's domination of the Warsaw Pact nations.

The U.S. officials told reporters that Kissinger reviewed the U.S. program of challenging Soviet efforts to impose its ideology on the non-Communist world while still seeking détente. He asked if this was still NATO policy and the other 14 ministers confirmed Kissinger's analysis, the officials reported.

They said Kissinger told the session that the use of Soviet military supplies and Cuban troops to help the pro-Moscow Popular Movement in Angola's civil war violated the concept of coexistence and was an example of ideological aggression. The Popular Movement group defeated two Western-backed factions this spring.

U.S. agencies using private delivery firms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is telling its agencies to try to save money by sending some mail through private delivery firms instead of through the more expensive U.S. Postal Service.

The General Services Administration made the statement about the government's own mail agency in a bulletin circulated last month to federal agencies.

The bulletin, entitled "Reducing Mail Costs," was released Thursday by Rep. Paul Simon, D-Ill.

One of the 10 recommendations contained in the bulletin was: "Use commercial mail parcel carriers as a cheaper alternative to priority mail and U.S. Postal Service-insured parcels."

United Parcel Service, a Connecticut-based company, has surpassed the Postal Service in recent years in the parcel field. Its rates average about 20 per cent below those of the Postal Service.

For example, a two-pound parcel sent from Washington to New York costs 93 cents by the government's parcel post and 75 cents by United Parcel.

A Postal Service spokesman, commenting on the GSA bulletin, said "Government agencies are mandated by law to use the most economical means available to them."

"Since fiscal year 1972, therefore, the average has been over 72 per cent.

Simon, a critic of the Postal Service, said he found the GSA bulletin while looking into the extent of government use of private alternatives to the Postal Service.

"It's another example of how the Postal Service, with its inefficiency and increasing rates, is pricing itself out of the delivery market. There's something seriously wrong when public agencies have to abandon the public mail service in order to save money," he said.

Deaths, Funerals

Infant Johnson

Anthony W. Johnson, son of William and Phyllis (Hall) Johnson, was stillborn Friday morning in Fayette Memorial Hospital.

He is survived by his parents, and two sisters, Michelle Rene and Kimberly Kay. Two other stepisters preceded him in death.

Also surviving are maternal grandparents, William and Wanda Hall, 13147 Ohio 729, Jeffersonville, and his paternal grandparents are Douglas and Wanda Johnson Rt. 1, Lyndon.

Graveside services will be conducted at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Fairview Cemetery, Jeffersonville, with the Rev. Roy Love officiating. Burial is under the direction of the Morrow-Huffman Funeral Home.

Claim press freedom dying out

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A Dominican Republic newspaper publisher said Thursday night Latin American countries are in a headlong retreat from their avowed commitment to press freedom.

German E. Ornes of Santo Domingo said challenges are coming both from dictatorships and the so-called democracies.

Speaking at a banquet held during a three-day conference at Ohio State University on problems in the Western Hemisphere, Ornes said:

"It is true that all of the constitutions of the Americas still recognize the right of freedom of expression. Yet, in an increasing number of nations, this right is either ignored or severely curtailed by censorship, fear or frustration."

Another speaker, Clayton Kirkpatrick, editor and vice president of the Chicago Tribune, said the press in this country basically is healthy, although there are some major threats.

First among them are court gag orders, said Kirkpatrick, who heads the Freedom of Information Committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

"We are moving to some extent toward secret trials," he said, "and I think this should be disturbing to all of us."

He cited another threat as a lack of credibility, saying that following Watergate there is a growing feeling that the press is arrogant, power-mad and abuses its power.

Big oil spill off Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Coast Guard says it is calling a 50-man reserve unit into action to check Lake Erie beaches east of Cleveland to watch for oil spreading from a ruptured barge on the rocks off Cleveland Harbor.

Meanwhile, the Coast Guard kept an eye on the weather, hoping to be able to resume cleanup operations that were suspended Thursday when the winds rose, sending waves crashing against the harbor breakwall.

About 30,000 gallons spilled from one ruptured tank before it was plugged by divers, the Coast Guard reported. The other nine tanks were reported to hold more than 600,000 gallons of oil.

The winds and waves that prevented the start of pumping operation Thursday also caused the oil to spread eastward.

Officials said the oil had turned into

Cooler air spreading across Ohio will drop temperatures tonight into the 40s under mostly cloudy skies.

Variable cloudiness prevailed over most of the state today, with a few isolated showers over central and southern sections. Highs ranged in the upper 60s north to 70s and low 80s central and south.

The weather map shows a slow-moving cold front extending from central Pennsylvania across Lake Erie to southern lower Michigan. The front moved south across Ohio today. By Saturday, it will extend from southern Indiana to North Carolina.

Highs Saturday will be in the 60s north and low to mid 70s south.

Mostly fair Sunday through Tuesday, but a chance of showers Monday. Highs in the upper 60s and 70s. Lows in the mid 40s to low 50s.

OPEN DAILY 7 A.M.-8 P.M., SAT., 7 A.M.-5 P.M.

SPECIAL SESSION — A somewhat unusual order was handed down in Washington C. H. Municipal Court Thursday. Eight students from Miami Trace High School and seven from Washington Senior High were summoned to appear before Judge Robert L. Simpson, Judge John P. Case, City Manager George L. Shapter, and Washington C. H. Police Chief Rodman Scott. After a brief hearing, they were ordered to consume cake, and other party fare. The students were those who had served as bailiffs for the past 17 weeks. Each student was presented a certificate recognizing his contribution to the court by assisting in the processing of cases, handling the files, servicing the judge's needs, and opening court.

Governor signs measures

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Olympic athletes and coaches, who are employed by the State of Ohio, will get full paid leave to take part in the games under a bill signed into law by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The legislation, sponsored by Sen. Ben M. Gaeth, R-1 Defiance, will assure that athletes and coaches get full pay at their regular state salary, while traveling to and from the Olympic site, and during training and competition.

The law, signed Thursday, takes effect Aug. 19 along with another bill clarifying the authority of local boards of education to purchase accident insurance for student athletes. The insurance bill was sponsored by Sen. Donald L. Woodland, D-16 Columbus.

The Ohio State Racing Commission will get an extra $186,000 to cope with expenses created by the longer racing season under a bill that takes effect immediately.

Recent legislation has authorized an additional 276 days of racing annually. The appropriation bill, carried by Rep. Terry Tranter, D-24 Cincinnati, grants $122,000 to the state Controlling Board to replace emergency funds already released to the racing commission.

Rhodes also signed legislation

specifying that all water beneath the surface of Ohio, regardless of depth, is to be considered "waters of the state," subject to pollution controls.

Senate Minority Leader Michael L. Maloney's (R-7 Cincinnati) bill was in response to a 1975 Supreme Court decision upholding a Sandusky County Common Pleas Court ruling that underground waters in the Mt. Simon Formation were not under state jurisdiction.

Mt. Simon, which lies 2,800 feet beneath the surface of Sandusky County, is a layer of bedrock into which wastes are injected from seven licensed injection wells.

The new law, effective immediately, returns Mt. Simon to state jurisdiction and increases the penalties for pollution violation for disposing of sewage or industrial wastes.

Also effective immediately, Rhodes signed legislation authored by Sen. Donald J. Pease, D-13 Oberlin, increasing loan guarantee premiums in the Ohio Student Loan Program.

The governor also signed with an Aug. 19 effective date:

—A bill sponsored by Sen. Robert E. O'Shaughnessy, D-15 Columbus, increasing the opportunities for blind persons to operate vending facilities, such as snack bars, cafeterias and vending machines.

—Legislation sponsored by Rep. Frederick H. Deering, D-84 Monroeville, authorizing the state bureau of children's services to extend free treatment for cystic fibrosis to persons over 21.

—A measure offered by Sen. Oakley C. Collins, R-17 Ironton, permitting counties to sell, lease or transfer unneeded property to senior citizens groups.

—A bill sponsored by Sen. Gene Slagle, D-26 Galion, defining railroad policemen as "peace officers," eligible for the same training as other law enforcement officials.

Challenges to Brown vary among Demos

WASHINGTON (AP)—Jimmy Carter, Morris Udall and Frank Church have signaled they will not make massive efforts fighting California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. in the June 8 California primary because of Brown's home-state power.

Udall and Church bowed out of a televised debate with Brown in Los Angeles next week, spokesmen said Thursday. Carter said he would concentrate on New Jersey and Ohio which also have June 8 primaries.

Udall also indicated he will make major efforts in those two states — and did mention California — while Church is concentrating on the smaller primary states before June 8 to seek momentum for the California voting.

Meanwhile, the candidates were seeking votes in some of the states that are holding their primaries this Tuesday, in addition to states voting on June 8.

Alabama Gov. George Wallace was in Arkansas, Church and Brown were in Nevada and Oregon, Udall in Kentucky and New Jersey and Carter in Nevada and California. Ronald Reagan was in Nevada and President Ford remained in Washington.

About 18 per cent of all Democratic convention delegates will be selected June 8, making it the biggest primary day in terms of numbers.

Mainly About People

Julie Beth Crabtree, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Crabtree of 343 Staunton-Jasper Road, has been dismissed from Children's Hospital, Columbus.

Anthony Ray Stephen's, son of Mrs. Kathryn Stephens, 535 Leesburg Ave., has been accepted as a student for 1976-77 school year at the Columbus College of Art and Design, from whom he received a $450 scholarship. He is also the recipient of an Ohio Instructional Grant.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wright (Nancy Elizabeth) have moved from Elizabethtown, Ky., to Apt. B 102, 600 Northern Ave., Clarkston, Ga. 30021. Mr. Wright will attend Georgia State University, Atlanta, Ga.

Blue Cross hike set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Higher monthly payments for Blue Cross and Blue Shield medical benefits are on the way for about 42,000 state employees.

The state Employee Compensation Board announced Thursday the health care provider would impose a maximum 16 per cent increase beginning July 1. That translates into a $5 million increase in the second year of a two-year agreement between the state and Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

Family plan recipients will pay an additional $3.11, pushing the current $20.10 monthly charge to $23.21. Individual payments will go from $8.65 monthly to $10.20, a $1.60 increase. The compensation board voted 5-0 to continue the state's 70 per cent share of the plan. A spokesman said the provider cited higher costs and more claims than anticipated in implementing the increase.

Stocks drop at opening

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market retreated today from the previous day's gains, reacting to a sharp rise in the nation's basic money supply.

The 10:30 a.m. Dow Jones industrial average fell 3.14 to 994.13, and held a moderate lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers said some profit taking appeared to be sparked by the Federal Reserve as the market was closing on Thursday. Many feared the new rise would touch off a further climb in various interest rates.

Partly balancing that concern, however, was news as the market opened today that Citibank was keeping its prime rate unchanged at 6 1/4 per cent.

Traders appeared not to react either way to news that consumer prices in April rose at a 4.8 per cent annual rate.

Engelhard Minerals, the Big Board volume leader, added 3/4 to 35.

Among early victims of profit taking, General Motors declined 3/4 to 70, Sperry Rand was off 3/4 to 48, and Digital Equipment fell 1 1/4 to 165.

Alone in Waterloo

Lindsey, who resides in Mount Sterling, is representing the Republican ticket. He is a farmer.

Since the last day for write-in candidates to sign up for the coming election has come and gone, it appears that no Democrat will be seeking the post.

Due to the scattered populations on farms, towns were slow to develop in early Ohio; taxable property in the state was about $25 million in 1810.

TV Viewing

NEW YORK (AP) — I've always been a fan of Soupy Sales. His old nighttime TV shows always struck me as a nifty blend of Marx Brothers, Brother Dave "Rejoice, Dear Hearts" Gardner, Ernie Kovacs and flying cream pies.

So it was good news to hear that after too many years spent battling about on game shows and appearing on others' variety shows, Soupy will be back in September headlining his own show for ABC.

No matter that it's a Saturday morning kid show called "Jr. Almost Anything Goes," a pee-wee version of a flop nighttime series that featured citizens participating in outlandish sports contests.

Weird things always happen when Sales runs a show. In fact, weird things were happening this week when he was theoretically being interviewed about the new show at a chow hall theatrical folks favor.

Nearby diners appeared to be looking for the man with the butterfly net as Sales spoke of a new movie he plans to film at his apartment building, where garbage is piling up because of a strike by Fun City's apartment workers.

"It's going to be a musical sequel to 'Ben,'" he said, his voice rising with the thrill of the project. "Right now, we're looking for a rat who can sing."

Sales, a North Carolina boy raised in Huntington, W. Va., hit it big on television in Detroit in 1953. But greater fame came in later years when celebrities started appearing on his shows — Frank Sinatra, among them — for the sole purpose of getting hit in the puss by a pie.

Soupy said it happened in Cleveland, in 1950, at WEXLTV, where he did a live show with a wee budget. The studio was in the country. It was there he happened to meet a farmer with a horse.

"He said, 'Whah doan yew use mah horse on your show?'" Soupy recalled. "I says, 'Okay.' And the director says, 'What are you going to do with a horse?'"

"I say, 'Get me a loin cloth and a feather and a sign that says 'Son of Cochise,' because in those days

'Broken Arrow' with Jeff Chandler and Michael Ansara was a very big movie. 'So we set the camera up, we put the farmer in a U.S. cavalry uniform, and me and my loin cloth and feather come galloping over the hill on his horse, me hanging on for dear life. I got to where he was standing and I fell off.'

"Then I said, 'White man come take away Indian country, take away buffalo, take away squaw, take away happy hunting ground. What is left for Indian?' And the guy hit me with a pie."

Although most people think of Soupy as a pie-thrower, he says he's the one who usually gets hit, "because throwing 'em makes you a heavy. They usually come at the tag line of a joke. 'Like a guy comes to the door, says, 'Would you give ten dollars to help the Old Ladies' Home,' and I say, 'Why, are they out again?' And BLAM!'"

For the record, Soupy's lunch during the interview consisted of the swordfish platter and two glasses of wine. But no pie.

Three bridges to be built over Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three bridges across the Ohio River will be built soon following a meeting between the governors of Ohio and West Virginia on Wednesday.

Govs. James A. Rhodes of Ohio and Arch A. Moore Jr. of West Virginia announced the construction. It will complete the states' long-standing agreement to build seven new structures across the Ohio River.

The new bridges, to be tollfree facilities, will be constructed between Steubenville, Ohio and Weirton, W. Va.; Moundsville, W. Va. and Dills Bottom in Belmont County, Ohio; and Ravenswood, W. Va. and near Portland in Meigs County, Ohio.

Highway Commissioner William S. Ritchie Jr. of West Virginia and Transportation Director Richard D. Jackson of Ohio were directed to place the new bridges under the federal highway system in order to obtain federal funding.

State solon denies charge

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — State Sen. Philip Gutman says he has not done legal work for a firm embroiled in a dispute over a new state office complex.

The firm, Archonics Inc. of Fort Wayne, has received nearly $225,000 in planning fees for the building. Archonics treasurer Leroy Kuhns told the State Office Building Commission Wednesday Gutman was not on retainer but had been paid about $2,000 for legal services.

Gutman, Senate president pro tem, is not seeking re-election.

Kuhns said that for 10 years Gutman was general counsel for Bradley and Bradley, a Fort Wayne architectural firm that merged in 1970 with the Ewing Miller firm to become Archonics. Kuhns said Gutman continued to represent the company after the merger.

Senate's power over research

The Senate in its majesty has decided that the National Institute on Drug Abuse shall not spend any more federal money for what is described as a "study on the effects of marijuana on human sexual response." The definitive word on this action was spoken by Sen. William Hathaway of Maine. "Congress," he said, "seems to have taken upon itself the role of grand inquisitor in scientific research."

Some who share the Senate majority's seeming distaste for an inquiry into marijuana and sexual response may applaud this restrictive action. Those so inclined ought to reconsider their position. The issue is not whether one approves or disapproves of this particular study. The issue is whether the Senate should rule on the propriety of this or that specific scientific research project — whether it should, in Hathaway's pungent phrase, act as "grand inquisitor."

In our view, the Senate should do nothing of the sort. Government decision-making of this kind is a hallmark of authoritarian societies; it has no place in a democracy.

Scientists and administrators of scientific institutions are not infallible; they may make foolish mistakes in allocating research funds. The cost of such mistakes is negligible, however, compared with the potential cost of letting politicians decide which lines of inquiry scientists may follow, and which are barred to them.

Letters from R-H readers

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I sincerely hope that my rights as a United States citizen are never violated in this town of Washington C.H. by an older adult. In my opinion, I feel that my constitutional rights would not be protected, the reason being my age.

I have drawn this conclusion from a recent assault case between two adults, the younger charging the elder with assault.

As defined by The Complete Guide to Everyday Law, assault is an unlawful beating, or any actual physical force or violence unlawfully applied to the person of another. It may be committed by any sort of physical touch.

This is an infringement on a person's rights and should not be taken lightly. It should be mentioned that the defendant admitted touching the plaintiff. However, there was no punishment given to the defendant.

Although not as experienced with the challenges of life, young adults, of legal age, still have constitutional rights granted to all United States citizens. Add ten years to their age, and these rights would be recognized.

However, at their present age, young adults are grossly taken advantage of and are unjustly denied their constitutional rights. This seemed to be evident in the previously mentioned assault case.

As of yet, I have had no confrontations threatening my constitutional rights. However, if an assault can be committed without due punishment, I fear that my rights would be pushed in the background were I to face a similar confrontation. Seniority seemed to take precedence over justice. Is this justice?

Debbie Bullock

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I have lived in the city of Washington C.H. most all my life. I would like to say that I have never seen this town in the shape it is in this day and time.

In these few last years, City Council powers have steadily increased. Every day it seems like they want us to believe that they can do no wrong. They can not even abide by the voters and tax payers wishes. I think that the people on the whole have much more sense than some of them gets credit for.

I would like to say, not only the citizens of Washington C.H. but to all the citizens of Fayette County, if we do not stand up for our rights and make provisions now, stop all this kind of tactics where will it all stop or end. It is so that your vote does not count anymore. It is quite unrealistic to think that in Washington C.H. we are free. From the way it looks now, that those who drew up the constitution sure wasted a lot of time.

When some of the people do stand up and fight for our rights, they go to no end to ridicule (sic) them. I just wonder, how many of their patrons were signed the same way... it is something to think about? Huh.

After reading the Record Herald, listing to the radio, also the city manager's report, it seems to me they have already tried and convicted them before they have ever had a trial.

I would also like to disagree with Mr. (Judge John) Case, is he trying to tell us that we do not have the common sense, to know right from wrong, that in Fayette County there is not enough people to give a fair and just verdict. Not long ago, they had a Dr. Leroy Davis on the committee, but I do not think that ever did they print in the paper what church he precipitated (sic) in like the paper did Mr. C.H. Dety.

I saw a letter to the editor the other night, that told it like it was said that our real estate taxes, the sewer rates, the cost of everything going up, also the city income tax, that they imposed on everyone and they still want a 2.3 million.

Did they really hit the nail on the head, when they said that we were not big enough to stand up like we should and get Washington C.H. back on its feet and stop all this big spending and remember they are representing us, and not representing them. I say, that it is time for us to all stand up for our rights, and get behind and support (sic) those that are fighting for all of us now.

Mrs. Ruth Hartley

Artist burns paintings

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Artist Ted DeGrazia says he plans to burn 1,000 more of his paintings, some of which sell for up to $20,000, as a protest against federal tax laws which he says would burden his heirs.

DeGrazia, 67, whose works depicting Indian and Mexican children have made him famous and wealthy, has threatened for years to destroy paintings because of the tax laws.

Last week he carried through with the threat, setting fire to 100 works he valued at $1.5 million. Now, he says, he is preparing to burn 1,000 oils, watercolors, sketches and pastels.

DeGrazia tried to give the paintings to the University of Arizona, but the university turned them down because it had no space to hang them. He said he had rejected offers from other institutions because he wanted the paintings to stay in Arizona.

"THE QUESTION IS, 'WOULD JERRY BROWN LIVE IN THE WHITE HOUSE IF ELECTED?'"

Ohio Perspective

Reagan barely made ballot

CINCINNATI (AP) — His appearance here was brief, and he never actually crossed the river into Ohio from the Greater Cincinnati Airport in nearby Kentucky.

But the appearance of Ronald Reagan, former California governor and now Republican presidential hopeful, at an airport rally last week marked his first personal campaign appearance in the Ohio presidential primary, an election which he almost missed completely.

Reagan did not decide to enter the Ohio contest until four days before the filing deadline. A frantic effort to gather supporting signatures on nominating petitions got him on the ballot statewide and in 15 of Ohio's 23 congressional districts.

Then, Reagan was an underdog opponent of an incumbent president. But, since then his campaign has blossomed, and he has defeated President Ford in a number of important primary states.

Reagan, 65, a movie star through much of his life, turned increasingly to politics in the 1960s and was a strong backer of the presidential bid of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., in 1964. He was governor of California from 1967 through 1974.

During his years as governor, he followed what he calls a "cut, squeeze and trim" policy in fiscal matters, and Reagan says he would follow the same policy as president.

"The country can't pretend it's having an economic recovery when it's based on deficit spending," Reagan said last month. "We're going into debt faster than in wartime."

Reagan says inflation is caused by deficit spending, "government-engineered expansion and preemption of the nation's money," and says the answer is a balanced budget. He says if the emphasis is on fighting recession with federal spending, the nation will be "right back into the inflationary spiral and eventual destruction of our system."

He acknowledged that "economic dislocation" would follow federal budget cuts but said it would be necessary to keep inflation from recurring.

"I know unemployment, of course, is politically unpopular," he said. "Certainly it's unpopular with the people who are unemployed. And you want to resolve that situation."

"But, if we are really to have a sound economy, you want to do it in such a way that you don't have to deal with inflation in another 18 months," Reagan said.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Give elderly room with a view

DEAR ABBY: I just returned from having visited an elderly friend in a nursing home, and it was so depressing to see all those old people sitting in their rooms just staring at the bare walls I could have cried.

The windows were so high they couldn't look out unless they stood up, and most old people cannot stand for very long if they can stand at all!

Abby, why can't they build the windows in those homes low enough for people to look out of while sitting in their chairs? To see the leaves turn color the flowers blooming, the seasons changing, the people and automobiles pass, or even an occasional bird of squirrel would mean so much to them. It couldn't help but reduce their feeling of isolation and loneliness.

I hope you care enough to print this. SOMEONE WHO CARES
DEAR SOMEONE: I care, too. Thank you for a wonderful letter.

DEAR ABBY: I see so many letters in your column from wives worrying about the "other woman." The smart wife doesn't have to worry. She looks at it this way:

The male animal is an automobile with the key always in the ignition. Just because another woman comes along and wants to steal him even for a joyride she is no more entitled to keep him than the thief who steals an automobile.

The smart wife doesn't panic. She faces the matter forthrightly and takes positive action. After all, the key is in the ignition for HER use, too.

She should run the motor until her Don Juan is completely out of gas, and let the other woman wonder what happened when her lover registers "empty."

SECURE IN LONG ISLAND
DEAR SECURE: In defense of the male animal, I consider your metaphor a prime example of "reverse sexism."

But I'm sure the males won't object. DEAR ABBY: About the "NERVOUS WRECK" whose husband taught their 15-year-old son to mistreat his mother: The poor woman said, "Our preacher is very young and says he's had no training in marriage counseling, so he can't help me. Besides, he won't even talk to people who do not tithe, and my husband is one of them."

First, what kind of lily-livered nincompoop can that preacher be? Ask him how he would have dealt with the Samaritan woman at the well of Sychar (John 4, N.T.)! The Savior this pastor claims to serve broke Jewish Jewish tradition by daring even to speak to the woman: I wonder if she "tithed"?

I further wonder at the attitude this hypocrite would take toward the woman taken in adultery (John 8: 1-11) or the widow who cast a mite into the treasury of the temple (Mark 12: 41-44)? That smart aleck needs to be "shepherding" a flock like I need a hole in my head, and you can see from this letterhead that I am a preacher.

Let's call a spade a spade. That hypocrite pastor should be brought to his knees.

Thanks, kid!

Today is Friday, May 21st, the 142nd day of 1976. There are 224 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1956, the first hydrogen bomb was exploded. The test by the United States took place at Bikini Atoll in the Pacific.

On this date:
In 1471, England's King Henry VI died in the Tower of London.

In 1881, Clara Barton founded the American Red Cross.

In 1948, President Harry Truman sent Congress a special message proposing statehood for Alaska.

In 1967, more than 300 people died in a department store fire in Brussels, Belgium.

Ten years ago: Former President Dwight Eisenhower proposed changing the Atomic Energy Act to permit the sale of nuclear weapons and nuclear submarines to NATO nations.

Five years ago: An international expedition plagued by bad weather and other problems turned back from an attempt to scale the unconquered southwest face of Mount Everest.

One year ago: Three terrorists shot and killed two U.S. Air Force officers in Iran's capital of Teheran.

Today's birthdays: Actor Robert Montgomery is 72. Novelist Harold Robbins is 60.

Thought for today: There is only one thing people like that is good for them: a good night's sleep — Ed Howe, American writer, 1853-1937.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the Continental Congress in Philadelphia named a special committee to publish secret intelligence reports on the treaties Britain had signed to obtain German mercenaries for use against the American Colonists.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Persistence will be the key to advancing your personal plans. Keep trying and friends will rally 'round and give their support.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

Certain family members may seem to be rather demanding, expecting too much of you. Be as cooperative as you can. They may be under some unknown stress.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Sometimes your own impulsiveness gets you into trouble, but some spur-of-the-moment activities launched now could have surprisingly good results.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

Be especially cooperative with associates. Good teamwork will produce better results than lone-wolf action.

Jacob Meets Esau

And Esau ran to meet him, and embraced him, and fell on his neck, and kissed him: and they wept. —Genesis 33: 4

Even though the angel with whom Jacob had wrestled all night had blessed him, Jacob was fearful of meeting his brother Esau who was on his way to meet him, accompanied by an army of four hundred men. After all, it had been over twenty years since they had parted and Esau's wrathful threats at the time still rung in Jacob's ears. But it was God's will that the brothers be reunited so, as Jacob saw Esau approaching, he bowed to the ground seven times. He had nothing to fear, however. Esau came forward, his arms outstretched, and embraced him. Both had done well over the years and time had healed all wounds. Thus the heart-warming reconciliation.

Religion of Carter 'mystifying'

NEW YORK (AP) — A lot of news analysts "are mystified" by Jimmy Carter's religious convictions, he says. "I don't think they doubt my sincerity, but they just don't understand. I don't make a big issue out of it, but neither do I hesitate to say publicly that the most important thing in my life is Jesus Christ."

That outspoken candor about it, a characteristic of the evangelical element in American Christianity, has seemed odd to some more reserved church adherents as well as to secular commentators, but it strikes a familiar chord in broad reaches of U.S. religious life.

"There is a hidden religious power base in American culture which our secular biases prevent many of us from noticing," writes Roman Catholic philosopher Michael Novak of Bayville, N.Y. "Jimmy Carter has found it."

That extensive base is the doctrinally traditional, evangelical sector of the country's churches, and it's a big one, estimated at from 30 million to 40 million of the nation's 132 million church members, about half the 80 million Protestants, a major segment of all mainline denominations, and a dominant part of some of them.

Although the open religious style may seem strange to some Northeasterners, it's a common quality in the country's heartland churches, in the Far West, and particularly in the South, bastion of the nation's biggest Protestant body, the 12-million Southern Baptists, including Carter, who is regarded as the front-runner for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Jim Newton of Memphis, Tenn., editor of World Mission Journal, published by the Southern Baptist Brotherhood Commission of which Carter is a trustee, recently did a taped interview on a campaign plane trip with him about his religious attitudes.

Asked how he handled questions about being a "bornagain" Christian, he said, "It's very difficult for anyone who has not had that experience to understand.... Many of the newsmen who asked about this have never had this experience. Some of them are downright cynical about it. I think it worries some of them."

"I just explain my own spiritual experience openly and honestly. When I was first asked this question, I had to decide how I was going to respond with the same kind of openness and honesty to this question that I would to any question."

Consequently, he adds, he explains that although he had been a church member since childhood, about 10 years ago, in 1967, he sensed some void in his spiritual life, that he was

"missing something important," and began praying about it, discussing it with others, including his sister, evangelist Ruth Carter Stapleton, on a long walk in the woods near his home.

"I had a personal spiritual experience that is difficult to explain to people who have never had such an experience," he went on. "I began to grow. I participated in several pioneer mission efforts (in areas where Southern Baptist work is relatively new) ... I became uniquely aware of the Holy Spirit as an integral part of my life. I learned that I cannot depend on myself for every need and to solve every problem ...

"I feel my limitations more intensely. I used to deny my limitations and conceal them. Now I am much easier in my relations with other people and with God." But he added that his frankness about his faith has puzzled some secular commentators. "Some have been quizzical, some doubtful, some defensive."

While other candidates, both in this campaign and in the past, have espoused religious faith, the difference often cited is that their expression of it usually is broadly amorphous, in contrast to Carter's "specificity" — a common trait of the evangelical wing of U.S. Christianity.

That religious style, however, often is caricatured in the Northeast by "stereotypes and false images" of literature, such as Sinclair Lewis'

Elmer Gantry, observed Rabbi Marc Tanenbaum, interreligious director of the American Jewish Committee.

Rep. McEwen guest speaker

The Gregg Street Church Youth Department will present its annual junior senior banquet at 7 p.m. Saturday, in the Church Fellowship Hall, U.S. 35 and Jamison Road.

This year's featured guest speaker will be Bob McEwen, Republican state representative for the 77th district. His speech will concern the theme, "I Love America."

A special bicentennial salute to America is also on the agenda. A musical and pictorial tribute is planned.

Such scenes as Neil Armstrong's walk on the moon, Casey at the bat, and the signing of the Declaration of Independence will be recreated during the program.

Tickets are available at a cost of $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12. Reservations may be made by calling the church office at 335-1079.

'Time to Run' showing set

A film entitled, "Time to Run", which is a World Wide Pictures Production, and features Ed Nelson, Randall Carver, and Barbara Sigel, with a special appearance by Billy Graham, will be shown at the Church of God, 610 Harrison St., at 7:30 p.m. on May 30.

This film is the story of a family in our contemporary society and the problems the family encounters. The family could be any family, and their story could be called everyone's story.

No admission will be charged and the public is welcome to the viewing. An offering will be taken to cover the expense of the film.

Recognition

As a part of a community-wide event, the Church of God observed "Senior Citizens' Month" by hosting a fellowship dinner after last Sunday's morning worship.

Songs and testimonies were a part of the agenda, and small gifts were presented to senior members of the congregation.

According to Mary L. Burns, secretary of the Church, "the meeting was climaxed by one of our senior citizens, Mr. Loving, receiving Christ back into his life after many years."

City youth graduates

The Circleville Bible College has announced that a Washington C.H. man will be the recipient of a bachelor of Theology degree during graduation ceremonies at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Gary Thompson, son of Mrs. Heber Shields, 1025 Dayton Ave., will be one of 30 students graduating.

SELECTING FABRICS

The fabric on upholstered furniture certainly does get the wear: Alas, there just aren't set rules to tell you how long a fabric will wear—because use of furniture varies with every family. But, some fabric "know-how" will help you when choosing fabric for new furniture or to recover a used item.

Check Weave — look at the fabric carefully—are the threads close together? That tells you how tightly woven the fabric is. The closer the threads, the firmer the fabric—and the more wear it will take. Pull the fabric gently in all directions. A tightly woven fabric won't "give" much. Loosely woven fabrics may show thread slippage and may stretch with wear. They tend to snag easily, too.

Check Fiber Content — another clue to fabric durability is fiber content, so look for labels. A fiber content label may not be on the furniture itself, but it should be on the dealer's fabric samples. You'll probably find the fiber's generic name plus some familiar brand names.

Some upholstery fabrics are blends of two or more fibers. The label will tell you how much of each fiber is present. The fiber used in the largest amount seems to dominate, so the fabric will probably have the qualities of that fiber.

Knowing the qualities of upholstery fibers will help you choose a fabric that fits your needs. No fiber is perfect—each fiber has strong and weak points.

For example, rayon and acetate are the fibers most often used in upholstery fabrics. They are popular because they color well, may have a high luster, and have a good hand—that means they are pleasant to touch. These fibers are fairly inexpensive, too. But—rayon and acetate fibers don't wear too well, they wrinkle, and may be hard to clean.

These natural fibers—cotton, linen, and wool—are often used in blends with other fibers to give strength. If these fibers are used alone, they make strong, long-wearing fabrics. However, these fabrics don't have much luster and may not be very colorfast in a print. Wool fabrics also tend to be a bit scratchy. All three fibers clean well.

Nylon is a very popular upholstery fiber because it is so strong and resistant to abrasion. Nylon is often used with weaker fibers for added strength. Fabrics of 100 per cent nylon wear well. They are available in many colors; the fabrics have some luster and are very easy to clean. But, nylon fabrics are expensive—they also tend to pull and create static electricity.

Olefin is another strong upholstery fiber. It's better known by such brand names as Herculan, Vectra, Marvess, and Durel. This fiber resists stains and is very easy to clean. But, the fiber is difficult to dye and printed colors tend to rub off. Olefin costs less than nylon and has little static electricity. Some olefin fabrics pull and seem sticky which makes lint hard to remove.

Another fiber used in some upholstery fabrics is polyester. This fiber is often combined with other fibers, usually cotton. Polyester adds strength and easy-care qualities to a fabric.

Check Durability Ratings — a new "durability code" may take some of the guess work out of upholstery fabric selection. Recently, the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers Association agreed on a uniform code for fabric performance. It's intended to help consumers choose upholstery fabrics suitable for particular uses.

Here's how the code works: 3 green h's (hhh) means the fabric is rated HEAVY DUTY — suitable for normal use by an active family with children. 3 blue m's (mmm) means the fabric is rated MEDIUM DUTY — suitable for normal use in adult households. 3 yellow l's (lll) means the fabric is rated LIGHT DUTY — suitable for use in adult households where furniture is selected for aesthetic value rather than performance. 3 Red d's (ddd) means the fabric with other respect and care than fabrics with other ratings. Look for this durability information on upholstery and swatches, furniture furniture deck labels, and product tags. The standards are voluntary but should start showing up in most furniture showrooms soon.

Check Cleanability and Care Required — the wearing quality of an upholstery fabric also depends upon the care you give the fabric. Regular vacuuming, prompt stain removal, and professional cleaning as needed extend the life of the fabric. Check this column next week for information on the new cleanability code.

Zeta Upsilon chapter meets

Mrs. Steve Lewis was hostess when the Zeta Upsilon chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority members held a potluck supper and business meeting. Plans for the skating party and cake walk were made for 6:30 until 9:30 p.m. May 26 at Roller Haven. All proceeds will go to the Carol Lowe fund.

Programs were presented by Mrs. Warren Huber on "What Needs To Be Done?" and Mrs. Don Jones, "What's In It For Me?"

Members present were Mrs. Bill Tippet, Mrs. Charles Bowersox, Mrs. Robert Snodgrass, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Huber and Mrs. Lewis, and invited guests were Mrs. Robert Munn, Mrs. Robert Knecht, Mrs. Steve Colburn, Mrs. Willis Geyer Jr., Mrs. Jack Elliott, Mrs. Bruce Houghton, Mrs. Ralph Dolana and Mrs. Doug Grubb.

Grandmothers go 'traveling'

The Fayette Grandmothers traveled to Bellefontaine this week where they met a member of the club, Mrs. William LeVan, at her Town House Home, and were guests at the Black Forest Holiday Inn. A brief business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Walter Taylor, with devotions by Mrs. Robert Harper, chaplain.

The group will meet June 17 at the home of Mrs. Harold Holland in Xenia. Those making the trip to the LeVan home were Mrs. Louis Thomson, Mrs. Bernard Eiselstein, Mrs. Lee Cleland, Mrs. Marvene Deskins, Mrs. Harper, and Mrs. Taylor.

PRESENTS CRIB — Pictured above is the new crib and mattress that the Eagles Ladies Auxiliary no. 423 purchased for Fayette Memorial Hospital. Earning of funds, which allowed these women to purchase the bed, which will be used in the new pediatric area, has been one of their major projects to date, although they contribute to various organizations. The Ladies Auxiliary raises funds for such projects through bake sales, rummage sales, and from bingo. Pictured behind the bed are R.L. Kunz, hospital administrator; Teresa Combs, treasurer of the auxiliary; Kathryn Joslin, past president of the auxiliary, and Agnes Ola Wain, trustee of the auxiliary.

'Rural Life Sunday' observed at Madison Mills Church

"Rural Life Sunday" was observed recently in the Madison Mills United Methodist Church, during the morning service, when the Rev. Herald Messmer introduced area organizations.

Those introduced were the Merry Maidens 4-H Club — Ellen Delay, Lavonne Melvin and Marilyn, Marey, advisers; Country Cooks 4-H Club with Jerry Pendelton, advisor; Fayette Champs 4-H Jerry Pendelton, adviser; Lucky Leaf Livestock 4-H Bill Brust and Alvin Johnson, advisers; Posy Garden Club-Mrs. Jess Schlichter, president; Madison Goodwill Grange-Gary Hidy, Worthy Master; Farm Bureau Council—Leland Dorn, chairman; and Miami Trace Future Farmers of America—Charles Andrews and William Diley, advisers.

In keeping with the Rural Life theme, Rev. Messmer's message pertained to country living. The church choir sang "Love Was When," and participating in the dedication service were Rhonda Dean, Doug Johnson, Micki Swyers, Don Melvin and Cynthia Blue. These youth presented God's altar with soil, water, seed, air, and the sower.

A covered dish meal was enjoyed at noon. The Posy Garden Club provided the floral arrangements for the tables. Martha Stamer, June Dorn, Ellen Delay, Marsha Swyers, and Linda Johnson assisted with hospitalities.

David Dorn was Master of Ceremonies for the afternoon program. He gave the Welcome and introduced Brenda Delay, who sang "Love is Like a Butterfly." Mrs. Ethel Wilson presented a piano solo, "Rock of Ages." Mrs. Esther Barrett told of Farm Bureau Council activities, Cheryl Blue, who sang "The House I Live In," Mark Ford, a piano solo "El Burrito," Fred Melvin, Miami Trace FFA activities, Karen Mowery, Lori Hollar, Jodi and Kathy Hanawalt, a quartet who sang "I Want to Teach the World to Sing," Mrs. Grace Allemang who gave the History of the Grange, Jay Johnson, who told of activities with the Lucky Leaf Livestock 4-H Club, Coleen Blue, a piano solo "I Write the Songs," Jodi Hanawalt, Country Cooks 4-H Club activities, Mrs. Leone Benner who gave several humorous readings, Pam Hollar, Merry Maidens 4-H Club, Linda Johnson gave the closing remarks and Rev. Messmer the Benediction.

Annual Men and Women's Day planned at Rodgers AME Church

Men and Women's Day will be observed Sunday at Rodgers Chapel AME Church 325 N. Main St., Washington C.H.

The public is invited to attend the annual observance at the church, when at the 11 a.m. worship service the Men's guest speaker will be Coach Jackson of Dunbar High School, Dayton. Music will be provided by the Men's Chorus.

At 3:30 p.m. Women's Day will be observed when Mrs. Patricia Lewis of Detroit, Mich., a well-known speaker and singer, will be present. Additional solists will be Mrs. Delores Bell of the Southfield Missionary Baptist Church, Columbus, and the Young People's Department Singers of Quinn Chapel ME Church in Wilmington.

Women hold membership tea

A membership tea sponsored by the United Methodist Women was held in the Madison Mills United Methodist Church Wednesday evening. Organ and piano music was provided by Mrs. Paul Huff and Mrs. Steve Huff preceding the opening of the meeting. Mrs. Harold King presided at the guest book. Each honored guest was presented with a flower.

Mrs. Raymond Anderson, president, welcomed all those present. Mrs. Ethel Sullivan, president of the Big Plain United Methodist Church Women, told of some of the various activities of the UMW in her church.

Mrs. Carl Gerhard, president of the Columbus South District UMW, and Mrs. Torrey Kaatz, district chairman of Program Resources, presented a very informative skit entitled, "Millie and Gertie." The skit explained the workings of the UMW. Mrs. Anderson read "A Psalm for Women Who Serve the Lord," an excerpt from the book.

Wives awards

banquet set May 24

The recent meeting of the Jeffersonville Jaycee Wives took place in the home of Mrs. Ben Allen, when members were told of the potluck supper and awards banquet to be held May 24 at 6:30 p.m. in the Lions Club building in Jeffersonville. Each lady is to bring a meat dish and a side dish.

Members who were present were Mrs. Robert D. Coe, Mrs. Robert Steele, Mrs. Larry Hunt, Mrs. Johnnie Bobbitt, Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Paul L. McDaniel.

Fort Meigs, built under orders of Gen. Harrison in 1813 opposite the site of Maumee, Ohio, was besieged by the British and Indians under Tecumseh. A party of Kentuckians, charging from the fort, ran into an ambush and were slain with such cruelty it led Tecumseh to rebuke the Indians.

CALENDAR

FRIDAY, MAY 21

Spring Concert at 8 p.m. in Washington Middle School by vocal department of Washington schools. Adults—$1, and students, 50 cents.

Sunnyside Willing Workers meet at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Homer Carr.

Garden Club makes plantings

Members of the Washington Garden Club planted red and white cascade petunias, geraniums, lobelia and binca at the two Ward Dead Memorial Sites and the Morris Sharpe Memorial. Those helping with the plantings were Mrs. Jean T. Craig, Mrs. Herbert Dawes, Mrs. Eugene Cook, Mrs. T.N. Willis, Mrs. Eulalia Wade, Mrs. Donald Meredith and Mrs. Robert Wilson.

On Wednesday morning, members of the Washington Garden Club who planted the two tree boxes at the Court House were Mrs. Dale Merritt, Mrs. Herbert Dawes and Mrs. Robert Wilson. They also planted the big circular bed at the Mahan Building at the Fayette County Fairground, with the same kinds of flowers, red, white and blue for the Bicentennial year.

Wilson Circle theme 'Mother'

Wilson Circle of Grace United Methodist Church met with Mrs. Hugh Payton as hostess. Mrs. Sam Wilson, circle leader, opened with the reading of "Mother." Mrs. Dwight Morner read devotions and this consisted of a group of articles regarding "Mother."

Miss Marian Moore reported on "Church Day." Mrs. Denzil Leggett presented the former Pitzer sisters, now Mrs. Kenneth Miller, Mrs. Jack Flax and Mrs. Damon Merritt, who presented a musical program of a Bicentennial theme, in readings and songs. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Frank Dill, Mrs. William Lucas and Miss Janet Vance. The June meeting with Mrs. Richard Ware will feature a picnic.

Senior Citizens attend Tea for 80-year olds

Several members of the Senior Citizens of 723 Delaware St., attended the Tea for 80 year-olds or older, sponsored each year by the F and R Lazarus Company for all citizens. The Tea took place in the Assembly Hall with music by Harry Stull at the piano followed by the Golden Airs, the Senior Citizens Orchestra until 1:30 p.m., when Mr. Roy Briscoe of WBNS TV acted as Master of Ceremonies. He introduced the store management, who in turn extended greetings to all.

The Caldwell's, world travelers, then entertained and presented "The Spirit of 76." There was singing and dancing, and refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Each present was also presented a very lovely gift.

Those attending from Washington C.H. were Mrs. Elva Horney, Mrs. Eulalia Wade, Mrs. Charlotte Timmons, Mrs. Verna Tottle, Mrs. Helen Thornton, Mrs. Verna Grim, Mrs. Louise Drake, Mrs. Florence Porter, Mrs. Mabel McCoy, Mrs. Grace Shaper, Emmitt Shaper, James Wackman and Russell Fouch.

Airplane charter business flourishes

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A round-trip ticket from here to London on a regularly scheduled commercial airliner costs between $666 and $806, depending on the time of year. A charter flight might cost as little as $250.

It is because of this vast price differential that so many Americans are expected to travel by charter this year. About 4.5 million passengers went that way in 1974, and 5.5 million in 1975.

This year, with the additional impetus of a recovering economy and a regulatory change, some charter flight officials are predicting the number of passengers will grow to nearly nine million.

Henry Huff, president of Trans International Airlines estimates that 25 per cent of all transatlantic air travel this summer will be by charter flights, compared to about 5 per cent a decade ago.

"Charter tours are cheaper than individual travel because they operate on the basic economic principle that wholesale is cheaper than retail," said Huff, whose company, based in Oakland, Calif., is the largest in the business.

The new ruling by the Civil Aeronautics Board now makes charter flights available to many millions of Americans who once were barred by government restrictions.

In the past a vacationer needed to belong to a "nontravel" organization.

Now the tours are open to almost anyone who has the cash, because the CAB has created a new group tour called the one-stop charter, or OTC.

To take part in an OTC flight to a foreign country an individual merely signs up through a travel agent at least 30 days before departure and agrees to spend at least $15 a day on hotel accommodations. Cutoff on domestic flights is 15 days.

A tour operator, who is in effect an independent travel wholesaler, "rents" an entire aircraft for a flight or series of flights to a tourist destination. At the same time he books a large number of rooms in one or several hotels. He then marks up a "travel package" which is sold to the public through retail travel agents, of whom there are about 12,000 in the United States. In many instances the package includes meals, sight-seeing and other services.

In most instances almost every seat on the charter plane is sold, compared with only about 50 per cent of seats on scheduled flights, thus making them economically more efficient. Bulk purchasing of meals and rooms does the rest.

As a result, Huff says, a 12-day tour to Hong Kong from East Coast cities, including round-trip air transportation, accommodations at a luxury hotel, breakfasts and sightseeing, costs $699. An individual traveling alone might pay $1,600 for air fare alone.

Meals and in-flight services on charter flights are about the same as those offered in economy class on scheduled service. The types of hotels vary, depending on the cost of the tour.

One of the biggest drawbacks is the lack of flexibility, since members of the group flight must leave and return on specified dates, thus preventing changes of plane en route.

The other brothers were George and Thomas, neither of whom was regarded with the hate that marked Simon and James.

Students form publishing house

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Students at Harvard College, seeking a better chance for a job after graduation, have formed their own publishing house.

"Being a young writer and trying to get into publishing can be frustrating," said John Whitman, a senior from Bethesda, Md., and editorial chairman of The Undergraduate Press. "There is no real set-out route to get into the field of publishing."

Whitman and three other undergraduates were chosen for the executive board in a competition last spring. Another competition now under way is aimed at getting 20 new members.

The Undergraduate Press is chartered as a regular campus organization. Students receive no course credit for their work.

The Press hopes to publish its first three books next fall.

They are planning: "Is There Life After Harvard?" a guide to job hunting and career planning; a book on French mannerisms and gestures, and an anthology of short prose.

The first was written by Harvard students, assisted by members of the staff of Harvard's Office of Career Services and Off-Campus Learning. Text of the French book is by Laurence C. Wylie, professor of French civilization, and photographs are by Rick Stafford, university photographer.

The anthology will contain work by Harvard undergraduates and by college graduates living in the Boston-Cambridge area.

"Our business people are looking around for small presses" to print the books, Whitman said.

Staffers also are looking into distributing firms, although some distribution will be done by the Harvard University Press, which also provided some of the original financing.

"Ultimately, we'd like to set up a college network" to distribute the books, Whitman said. That project would involve getting students at other universities to interest their university bookstores in selling the books.

Ford studies school busing turnabout

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, denying that his offensive against court-ordered school busing is connected with upcoming primary elections, is considering ways to use federal money to help school districts avoid extensive busing, administration sources say.

Ford is also considering seeking new legislation as part of "a whole range of approaches" to limit the use of busing as a desegregation tool, according to a White House source.

The source declined to give details on how federal funds could be used to reduce busing ordered by federal courts.

Though officials are reviewing administrative and legislative proposals to curb busing, the first action in the Ford campaign will come on the judicial front if Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi decides to use the Boston school case as a vehicle for seeking new Supreme Court guidelines on busing. Levi was to explain his views on government intervention in the Boston case at a meeting with Ford this afternoon. Justice Department spokesman Robert Havel said Levi had reached no decision as of late Thursday and that he may not do so until after the session with Ford.

Meeting with a group of visiting reporters from Kentucky on Thursday, Ford suggested the test case could even be made in Louisville, where busing orders led to racial unrest last fall.

Ford's decision to seek alternatives to busing became known as he prepared for a Republican primary campaign in Kentucky where he is considered to be well behind challenger Ronald Reagan in the drive for the state's 37 delegates.

She asks for custody of the child, reasonable allowance for the child's support and reasonable temporary and permanent alimony.

Wilmington businesses offer seniors discounts

WILMINGTON — Dorothy Horney, Clinton County coordinator for the Golden Buckeye Program, said today that 25 businesses in Wilmington and Blanchester have agreed to participate in the program.

"In addition to the businesses signed," Mrs. Horney said, "there are others which are considering signing and others yet to be contacted."

She said that since the program began here early this month, she has not had time to contact all of Wilmington and Blanchester businesses, nor to make any contacts in the smaller villages.

The Golden Buckeye is a program designed to encourage private retail and service establishments to offer discounts to senior citizens.

Mrs. Horney explained that the program will enable people over 65 to increase their buying power, without increasing their income.

She said businesses already signed to participate cover a broad range, including discounts on labor on car repair, meats, clothing, hobby supplies, drugs, and grooming.

State recreational facilities are participating, by allowing as much as 50 per cent discounts on golf courses and lodges, on certain dates.

Mrs. Horney said Wilmington businesses agreeing to participate and the per cent of the discount offered are:

Utah transit riders shares in low fares

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — As other cities raise fares to keep mass transit systems going, the Utah Transit Authority says its 15-cent rides, backed by a sales tax, have lured riders back to its buses.

The secret of the UTA success lies in taxpayer approval in late 1974 of a 1/4-cent sales tax and an infusion, in less than two years, of about $20 million in federal funds.

The rise in ridership follows the lowering of fares to 15 cents for adults, which UTA officials say is the lowest general bus fare they know about anywhere in the United States.

One transportation planner who has had a hand in the growth says arrival of 203 more buses in the coming weeks will relieve the crowded, standing-room-only conditions of commuter hours.

"During the peak riding time now, a lot of people are sticking with their cars because there is standing room only on the buses," he says.

The new popularity of riding the bus in Salt Lake, Weber and Davis counties — with total population of about 760,000 — wasn't an overnight affair.

Two years ago, the bus system was limping along with an annual ridership of 4.4 million, higher than some previous years, but below the 5 million of 1966. The UTA's budget then received a subsidy from a state liquor tax fund.

By contrast, ridership last year was up to 8 million and estimates this year are for 14 million.

UTA general manager John A. Rankin points to long-range planning, the sales-tax subsidy and the low fares for saving the transportation line he's headed since 1970.

"The day of a bus system making it on its own is over in this country and probably everywhere in the world," says Rankin, known to his associates as a no-nonsense administrator who frequently hops a bus to check flaws in scheduling and other irritants to customers.

When he took over the UTA, the system covered only half of Salt Lake County and had 63 vehicles. When new buses, purchased with federal grants and local matching funds, are put on the routes this summer, there will be 360 buses.

The routes will cover a distance, north to south, of about 65 miles, and a passenger can cover that distance for 60 cents, although most rides in the system are only 15 cents.

A ride within two of the system's five zones will cost you only 15 cents, if you're an adult. Children, the elderly and the handicapped ride for a dime, but the elderly can ride free during off-peak hours.

A study indicates one of four elderly riders still pays 10 cents at all hours.

Low fares weren't accepted immediately in all three counties. Salt Lake and Weber voters adopted the sales tax beginning in 1975 and in exchange got fares dropped from 25 cents to the new 15 cents, with an additional 10-cent zone charge eliminated for most riders. That proved so popular that Davis County residents went along this year.

With a guaranteed income from the sales tax, the system went to the Urban Mass Transportation Administration and obtained about $20 million on an 80-to-20 matching basis. The bus authority ordered new buses, added routes and extended service to 11 p.m. in some areas and limited service on weekends and holidays.

The UTA's activities have attracted some criticism. State Rep. Samuel S. Taylor, a Salt Lake City Democrat, argues the rides are not low-fare. They are simply prepaid, he says, and he wants all fares dropped.

He also criticizes UTA promotional advertising, saying: "They're paying for ads when the press will give them publicity at no cost."

Consumers still find frustration

NEW YORK (AP) — The official statistics show that savings and loan associations have record amounts of money to lend, but a builder in upstate New York complains he can't make sales because his customers can't get mortgages.

"The 25 largest lenders around here haven't made more than a few mortgages in the past few months," he said. "You ask any of the real estate people around here and they'll tell you the same thing."

This is but one example of an American who feels he hasn't as yet participated in the economic recovery. You can find his like in a wide variety of pursuits, including unskilled workers and stock market investors.

As always, economic conditions vary geographically, and they vary also among occupations, age groups and industries, and even by sex. But some people seem to feel the exceptions are more common this year.

One explanation seems to be that some of the problem areas are very close to the basic needs of people.

While the employment situation is improving, for example, more than seven million Americans can't find jobs, and while consumer prices in general have been rising less slowly, the price of a new house has rocketed ahead.

Ironically, the news about a recovering economy seems to make the contrast even worse because it tends to raise expectations. The discouraged worker re-enters the labor force, only to find he can't find a job. The young couple, tired of renting, decides to buy — and finds the price too high.

The typical new single-family dwelling now is estimated to cost $43,700 — far beyond the ability of a couple with gross income of $13,000. And the initial cost is only part of the story; operating expenses also are rising.

The frustration of the homeseeker nevertheless is hardly that of the job-seeker who reads about the recovery and then finds it doesn't apply to him.

Many thousands of these people are now counted as unemployed for the first time in a year. That is, they were listed before as discouraged workers — those who had given up looking — and thus not counted in the labor force.

Now that their hopes are up but their opportunities aren't, these saddest of the sad have ascended into the ranks of the officially unemployed. At least they are now counted, if they are not included in the recovery.

Meanwhile, many Americans listen to some monetary and fiscal officials proclaim that the recovery is threatening to get out of hand and therefore needs to be restrained. They can hardly be encouraged.

No proliferation of numbers can convince the discouraged or the non-participant. As does everyone else, they believe that recovery begins with them.

Violence continues to plague Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli troops man the castle-like walls of Jerusalem, firing tear gas at roving demonstrators. Black smoke hangs over Arab towns, where swarms of children light protest bonfires of oil-soaked tires.

Soldiers patrol in armored cars, firing warning shots skyward. Arab students pelt them with stones and chant: "In blood and fire we will redeem our land."

Arab demonstrations and clashes with Israeli troops have become almost daily rituals in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River.

Ten Palestinian Arabs have died in four months of riots, and Israel is worried about the backlash.

To reduce the bloodshed, the Israeli Ministry of Defense has issued tear gas to troops accustomed to only live ammunition and is considering the use of rubber bullets.

Israeli officials admit that the clashes have stirred growing sympathy for the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) among the West Bank's 670,000 Arabs. But authoritative sources concede there is no sign that the demonstrations have been fomented by the PLO.

The demonstrations began last autumn and intensified in February when a court ruling, later repealed, permitted Jews to worship at religious sites revered by both Moslems and Jews but in Moslem zones.

Arabs accuse the Jews of trying to take over their mosques on the holy Temple Mount in Jerusalem, and they are angry at Jewish settlements being built on the West Bank.

The Israeli government is sensitive about the demonstrations damaging its image abroad, with descriptions and photos of Israeli troops pounding and shooting at demonstrators.

Officials point out that throughout the disturbances, the bridges across the River Jordan have been left open for Arab travelers. Some 60,000 Arabs commute daily to work in Israel, and life in the fields and olive groves has been untouched by the violence in the towns.

The military command has made no apologies for the demonstrators killed by Israeli gunfire, except in the case of a 17-year-old girl shot in Nablus. She was the distant relative of a former prime minister of Jordan and a member of an influential family.

The army said she was "a completely innocent girl" and the shooting was an accident.

Investigating the shooting, the chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur, questioned only the sergeant who fired the bullet, and did not interview Arab neighbors who claimed the girl was deliberately shot.

Israeli and Arab versions of almost every death have conflicted.

Military sources admitted that two of the Arabs were beaten before they died.

None of Israel's political parties so far has demanded an investigation into the shootings.

And the Israelis have made no move to soothe Arab fears of more Jewish homesteads being built in the West Bank, where 25 Israeli settlements now stand.

Showers continue in plains

By The Associated Press
Showers and thunderstorms continued late Thursday from the high plains of west Texas and eastern New Mexico into western Nebraska. More thunderstorms extended from South Dakota into southwest Minnesota and northwest Iowa.

Widely scattered showers and thunderstorms dotted the southern Rockies and southern Plateau.

Most of the rain ended in the Northeast, except for scattered showers and thundershowers and some drizzle from east-central Ohio through Pennsylvania and New Jersey. There were also a few showers Thursday along the Texas Gulf Coast.

Portions of Pennsylvania and western New York State had locally dense fog overnight. Fair skies were generally restricted to an area from the eastern portion of the central Plains through the mid and lower Mississippi Valley and eastward to the mid and south Atlantic Coast.

Skies were also mostly fair overnight over the Pacific Northwest.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 34 at Plattsburg, N.Y., to 81 at Phoenix, Ariz.

Pick-your-own fruit booming

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Consumers will have more opportunity to pick their fruits and vegetables on the farm this year, the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation says.

A trend is increasing among farmers, especially strawberry growers, to permit customers to pick their own produce—and save money in the process, said Reed Varian of the farm markets division.

"Pick-your-own allows the customer the best chance to get a full of good berries at a price 15 to 20 per cent lower than retail," said Varian.

15-year-old girl's face rebuilt

NEW YORK (AP) — Next time Ida Hays looks in a mirror, she won't recognize herself. Her hair is gone, her eyes are a bit black and blue. But it's likely Ida will scarcely notice or even care about the temporary embarrassment.

Her eyes will be more than an inch closer together than when she last saw her face; they're the normal distance apart, rather than grotesquely separated. And her nose has been reshaped.

Surgeons performed the facial feats Wednesday in an eight-hour operation, correcting the congenital disfigurement that had put the 15-year-old Ida's eyes twice as far apart as normal — they looked to be at her ears. Her tragic facial appearance was compounded by too wide a nose and a protruding lower jaw.

"Everything went well. We have high hopes of good improvement," said Dr. John Marquis Converse, head of a team of specialists at the Institute for Reconstructive Plastic Surgery who performed Ida's operation at the New York University Hospital.

"It was the most complicated case we've ever had" of its type, and it marked the largest movement yet achieved in placing far-separated eyes closer together, he said.

Ida wasn't transformed into a great beauty, the plastic surgeon said, but her appearance should be greatly improved.

Doctors say it will be about five days before Ida can take a look at the new Ida. She's under intensive care at a hospital with only the tip of her nose and her mouth visible through the bandages.

The surgery to redesign Ida's face was indeed complicated.

First, it involved removing the fore part of her skull, then reaching in to tilt her brain up and backward a bit to provide surgical working room behind her forehead. A drug, mannitol, helped make this possible by shrinking the brain temporarily.

Then surgeons cut out a piece of bone in the center of her face, creating an empty space into which the orbits — the round openings in the skull that contain the eyes — could be pushed closer together after they had been cut free for movement.

Moving the bone orbits inward left a space between them and Ida's temples. So the surgeons took pieces of Ida's hipbone to form wedges filling in those gaps. Her facial skeleton was whole again, but her eyes had moved toward one another.

Her hometown of La Grande, Ore.,

population 11,000, raised money to help her once medical specialists established that she might benefit from reconstructive surgery. Contributions amounted to $10,000.

Ida's father, Bill Hays, said the "experience could make a very special person out of her. She had to be in some torment in growing up, and her understanding can help her help other people. That's the way she's planned her education, so she can help handicapped people."

Man finally gets degree

TIFFIN, Ohio (AP) — On his way to a college degree, Edward J. Handwerk of Orrville got sidetracked by a war—World War I.

It took him 58 years to get back, but Sunday, at the age of 81, Handwerk graduates from Heidelberg College.

Handwerk was 11 hours short of graduation in the fall of 1917 when he entered the Army.

He says financial problems prevented his return, but last summer he began finishing his studies, completing his work at Heidelberg.

Community Ed. report

By HANK SHAFFER

The Fayette County Commissioners signed a proclamation Monday declaring May as "Bicycle Month". Community Education is doing its part in the celebration by performing its annual bicycle safety check at the city schools. The County Extension Office is performing the same type of check at some of the county schools.

The number of bicycles being checked by Community Education is down a little this year as the Optimist Club held its safety check and rodeo earlier in the month. Of the bicycles checked, the biggest offense is the lack of a bicycle license. These licenses are obtained at the City Building and are well worth the small fee, especially if your bicycle is stolen or lost. There have been many cases where youngsters have gotten their bikes back because they had them registered.

The Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority and their Bike Ride for St. Jude Children's Hospital ends the Bicycle Month activities. Their ride is set for Sunday and will begin their festivities at 2 p.m. at the Huntington Bank parking lot. We hope that you will support the people making the 20-mile ride for it is a very worthy cause.

There are a couple of other events happening this weekend. James Francis Patrick O'Neill, of Offices fame, will be here Saturday afternoon to be the auctioneer for DEAF Inc. and their sale at the Kroger's parking lot. Secondly, there will be a gymnastics show by the youngsters at the Washington Middle School on Saturday evening. The show will be in the gym and starts at 7 p.m.

Community Education is going to have a number of activities this summer. The main activity will be the recreation programs in conjunction with City Recreation Board and the County Extension Office. There will also be lessons in golf and tennis, a women's exercise class, and some academic courses. Watch this article for more information each week

Community play begins rehearsals

The "Spirit of '76" community bicentennial musical company held a production staff meeting this week to discuss lighting and set design.

Dance and choral rehearsals were also begun. Dancers are practicing at Hidy Glass, CCC Highway-W, and choral rehearsals will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday in the First Presbyterian Church at Market and Hinde streets.

Assistance is needed for the sewing of costumes, and anyone interested may contact Mrs. Wanda McMurray at 335-3560.

AUDITIONS for three Wilmington College productions will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in Boyd Auditorium on the campus.

The plays to be presented this summer include "1776", "Tom Sawyer", and "Last of the Red Hot Lovers".

Steven Haines, director for "1776" says he will need a large number of adult men to cast the musical.

Children's auditions will be held at 4 p.m. daily. Adults may audition at 7 p.m., and those who seek singing roles should bring a prepared song.

The Indians in the early frontier days of Ohio were never as numerous as many supposed, perhaps as many as 15,000 of which only 3,000 might have been fighting braves. But their guerilla type of warfare kept the frontier in a turmoil for many decades.

Windshield damaged by thrown rock

A reported $185 in damage was sustained to the windshield of a car Thursday when it was allegedly struck by a rock.

Alan Witherspoon, 18, of 606 Charlotte Court, told Washington C.H. police officers that as he was driving south on High Street at 8 p.m. Thursday a juvenile threw a rock at his car and it damaged the windshield. The incident occurred near Belle Aire Elementary School. Witherspoon reportedly identified the subject who threw the rock, although no charges have yet been filed.

Esta Mustain, 1203 S. Fayette St., returned home Thursday after an absence of over two weeks, and found her house ransacked, she told police officers. The rear door had been pried open.

Lisa D. Ginn, aged nine, of 1300

Dayton Ave., was riding her bicycle on Jupiter Street sometime Thursday when it struck a parked car, and she was thrown to the pavement. She was injured, but not treated at the time.

Air patrol encampment

Squadron 206 of the Ohio Civil Air Patrol located in Washington C.H. conducted a weekend training exercise at Cave Lake.

The cadets practiced formation drills and ran obstacle courses under the supervision of Lt. Commander Jerry Curnutte.

There were classes on military customs and courtesies, first aid, navigation by stars and nature.

Other training exercises included work on communications, knot tying, measuring distances by pacing and sighting as well as search and rescue missions.

A second training camp is being planned for sometime in July.

Dave Tod, Ohio's Civil War governor, was one of the state's early mine operators. In 1842 he experimented with mining of coal in the Youngstown area and by the late 1840's he was producing about 100 tons per day in one operation and 60 tons in another. The coal speeded successful operation of blast furnaces in the area.

Windmills to be power source

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tens of thousands of giant windmills could supply as much as 18 per cent of the nation's energy needs by 1995, far more than previously estimated, a federally sponsored study says.

Spinning silently in huge circles, wing-like blades as long as football fields could drive generators producing a total electrical output equivalent to 2 billion barrels of oil per year, the report said.

Spokesmen for Lockheed-California Co., prime contractor on the study presented at an energy symposium Wednesday, said past estimates put the contribution of solar energy — of which wind energy is a form — at only 2 to 3 per cent by 1995.

The report, sponsored by the federal Energy Research and Development

Administration, envisions 54,000 windmills placed in remote, out-of-sight locations mainly in the Western United States.

Ugo Coty, co-author of the study, said the year-long investigation was more thorough in its search for windy areas than any previous study.

About 87,000 reports from 768 weather stations were surveyed, he said. The team concluded that 20,000 square miles of open land is available and constantly windy enough for wind turbines. An average wind speed of about 16 miles per hour is required if a windmill is to be practical, said Coty.

Production of B1 bomber postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — After voting to delay production of the controversial B1 bomber, the Senate now faces decisions on whether to approve other weapons requested by the Pentagon.

Votes are expected Monday on proposals to deny $322 million for production of 60 additional Minuteman III missiles and to delay building of additional Airborne Warning and Control System aircraft until NATO decides to buy the AWACS for European defense.

Reversing an earlier decision by the House, the Senate Thursday voted 44 to 37 to delay production of the B1 bomber until next Feb. 1, which is 12 days after the next presidential inauguration.

Production of the first of a 244-bomber fleet could then proceed only if the president certified that it is in the national interest.

Sen. John Culver, D-Iowa, sponsor of the delaying amendment, said the proposal would allow "the next president" to review completed test data on the B1 and make a judgment "free of election year politics."

The House voted 210-177 on April 8 against a similar proposal to defer spending $860 million in B1 production money until Feb. 1.

The issue now goes to a House-Senate conference and will be subject to final votes in both chambers.

After the Senate vote, Pentagon spokesman William Greener said, "It was a shame that almost one-fifth of the Senate was not present to participate in the vote."

Culver said the Pentagon had already decided to begin B1 production to replace the aging U.S. fleet of B52 bombers, although tests of prototypes are only about half completed and costs continue to mount.

Estimating the cost of the B1 program at $21.6 billion, Culver argued that Congress would be "buying a pig in the poke" in approving production before tests are completed and alternatives are reviewed.

Before agreeing to delay the B1 program, the Senate voted 48-33 to turn down an amendment by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., to kill the B1 by denying all funding.

Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee defended the B1 as an essential part of the nation's "triad" of strategic bombers, land and sea-based missiles.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who has piloted a B1 test model, supported production of the supersonic aircraft, but said he would rather see the program killed outright than delayed.

He said B1 workers will face layoffs and begin quitting their jobs if Washington signals "we're not going to buy this plane or that we're going to delay four, five, or six months."

READY FOR ACTION — In front of the Washington Area City Chamber of Commerce building, 131 S. Main St., stand John Lachat, president of the chamber, Dave Six, Bill Mathison, and Bucky Dumford, captains of the annual membership drive teams, and Dick Kilian, executive vice president of the chamber. The drive for new members is now underway, and the captains are ready to contact anyone who is interested.

Chamber of Commerce membership campaign

Members of the Washington Area City Chamber of Commerce are currently engaged in their annual membership campaign. Bucky Dumford, Dave Six and Bill Mathison are serving as captains of teams, in which approximately 50 Chamber persons are involved, who are responsible for canvassing particular areas.

Dumford's team has been soliciting members in the agricultural sector of the community, while Dave Six and his group visits all the local retail and professional persons who might want to renew their membership or join the chamber for the first time.

Bill Mathison's team has been covering the industrial area.

According to Chamber President,

Car demolished, minor injury

A Fayette County man was injured, a utility pole was broken, and two sign posts were damaged following a Friday accident, Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported.

A car driven by Walter H. Steinhauer, 60, of Marysville, was travelling north-west on U.S. 35, when it ran off the right side of the road at the junction with the Camp Grove Road. The car struck two sign posts, broke a utility pole, and was severely damaged after the 12:25 a.m. Friday accident. Steinhauer was injured, but not treated at the time.

Backing from a space in the Seaway

John Lachat, the chamber has been holding an annual membership since 1941. "So far we have had a total of 394 membership renewals and we are hoping to obtain 50 new members."

The drive, which is lasting for 11 days, will end on May 28. Lachat said that if anyone was interested in becoming a chamber member, they could call 335-0761 and ask for Dick Kilian, who is the executive vice president of the chamber.

The memberships are good for one year and will commence on July 1, 1976.

Lachat will announce that the chamber's annual dinner-meeting will be held on June 23 at the Mahan Building with guest speaker, Eldon Miller, the new basketball coach at Ohio State.

Senior citizens hall of fame arrangements now completed

Fayette County residents are invited to attend the first annual Senior Citizens Hall of Fame banquet to be held on Wednesday, June 9, at the Rhodes Center in Columbus, Ohio.

Chuck White, from WBNS-TV, will be emcee for the day, with activities beginning at 12 a.m. when lunch will be served. Following this, the Olivedale Senior Citizen Chorus, of Lancaster, will entertain and introduction of guests and those who have won prizes will be announced by Martin Janis, executive director of the Ohio Commission on Aging. The Goldenaires, from the McDowell Senior Center, will provide music for dancing during the afternoon.

Chairman of the Fayette County Board of Commissioners, Robert Mace, will present to B.E. Kelley the hall of fame award from Fayette County. Other nominees for this honor were Homer Gleadell, Dr. John G. Jordan,

Mrs. Walter Parrett, Fred Rost and Mrs. Pearl Stoughton.

Those interested in attending the event may make reservations by calling the Help-Anonymous office, 335-4144, between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. by June 2. Cost of the luncheon and transportation from Washington C.H. will be $4.50. Mrs. Marsha Davis, from Help-Anonymous, said that those going to the activity will leave from St. Andrew's Church at 10 a.m. and travel on a Washington School bus to the Rhodes Center.

The bus will return to Washington C.H. around 5 p.m. Should anyone need transportation to St. Andrews, it can be provided for by Mrs. Davis knows of this need in advance.

Oberlin College was the first college in the nation to have a music department, opened in 1865. Dana Institute at Warren, Ohio, came four years later.

Teays Valley to enter SCOL

County athletes honored

CHILLICOTHE—The South Central Ohio League honored over 70 athletes at Thursday night's annual Spring Sports Banquet at Unioto High School. Twenty-two of the athletes were from Fayette County: eight from Washington Senior High School and 14 from Miami Trace High School. Trace's Allan Conner and Court Housers' Randy Sparkman were repeaters on the all-SCOL baseball team. Conner was again picked for the outfield while Sparkman led all league third basemen in the voting by league coaches.

Joining Sparkman on the first team were teammates Scott Johnson and

Jeff Elliott. Johnson, a junior, was picked for the first base slot while Elliott, who is the only sophomore on the squad, was one of two pitchers selected.

Joining Elliott as an all-league hurler was Circleville's Biff Bumgarner. He was also named the honorary league captain. Circleville won the SCOL baseball crown this year.

Although Washington C.H. finished near the bottom of the league standings with a 5-9 record, the Blue Lions placed the most players, three, on the 12-man team.

Circleville had two with utility man Brent Mancini. Hillsboro and Wilmington also placed two on the list. The second-place Indians placed catcher Steve Zink and shortstop Randy Sanders on the team while Wilmington placed Rick Newell at second base and Tony Berlin in left field.

Unioto shortstop Steve Uhrig, Greenfield outfielder Jim Ganger and Madison Plains' Dave Saunders rounded out the all-star squad.

Blue Lions Mark Fisher and Jeff DeWees were listed as honorable mention choices as were Miami Trace's Gary English, Jack James, Stuart Foster and Ken Darling.

Wilmington, which went undefeated in softball this year, led the all-SCOL girls team with four players. Miami Trace placed two, Sherri Graf at second base and utility player Sally Gaylord. Washington C.H. had one player first baseman Sharon Redden, selected.

Redden, Zime Halem of Hillsboro and Tammy Zimmerman of Wilmington were named honorary tri-captains of the all-star team.

Greenfield's Mindy Gosset, Cindy Howland, and Pam Shady were chosen. Jeri Masters, Kerry Baker and Beth Harle of Wilmington and Linda Holvack and Darla Hughes from Circleville were also mentioned.

Fayette County also had six honorable mention selections in Tammy Matson, Gail Graff, Jodi Hatfield, Alicia Upthegrove, Val Brown and Debby Morarity.

League tracksters were also recognized at the banquet.

Receiving awards for first place finishes in the league meet were Miami Trace's Dan Gifford (high jump), Bill Hanners (mile run), Bill Warnock (quarter-mile dash) and Greg Cobb, Bruce Ervin, Frank Dunn and Warnock (mile relay). The Washington C.H. half-mile relay team of Joe Cox, Greg Greene, Ed DeWees and Mark Forsythe were also honored.

Five Miami Trace girls were honored for their winning performances in the league's first girls' track meet.

Vicki Bennett, winner of the long jump, and the mile relay team of Gail Camstra, Cheryl Hale, Christy Stockwell and Laura Bailey were given awards.

IN THE MEETING previous to the league banquet, it was announced by school principals that Teays Valley High School from Pickaway County will be admitted to the South Central Ohio league in 1977.

The class AA school will put the league's membership back to eight schools. Unioto High School has dropped from the league and will not participate in SCOL sports next year.

Teays Valley will become the 13th school to have enrolled in the league since its inception in 1923.

Curtis Fleisher, principal of Miami Trace High School, was named president of the league Thursday succeeding Dr. John Muth of Wilmington.

In other league action, the principals voted to keep ticket prices for 1976-77 league sporting events at $1.50 for adults and $1 for students.

Frisco edges Reds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With a little more help from Phoenix, the San Francisco Giants may yet rise from the ashes of last place in the National League West.

"Bring up some more players from Phoenix and we'll win a lot of games," newcomer Rob Dressler joked Thursday after his former Pacific Coast League teammate Larry Herndon had three of the Giants' 17 hits in a badly needed 6-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Tonight, right-hander Dressler who was 5-1 for Phoenix with a 1.12 earned run average through six PCL appearances, faces the Atlanta Braves' Andy Messersmith in the opener of a four-game series between the clubs stuck at the bottom of the NL West standings.

Dressler said, "There's a lot of talent down at Phoenix, like the right fielder Jack Clark who I think will be the National League's next big hitting star. All those guys need is a shot up here."

Gary Matthews' eighth inning sacrifice fly Thursday scored Herndon with the run that broke a 5-5 tie. The rookie center fielder, in his third major league start, led off with a single and went to third on a bunt single by Derrell Thomas and a throwing error by Reds' reliever Will McEnaney.

Dave Heaverlo and Gary Lavelle held the Reds scoreless in the ninth and San Francisco had snapped its latest losing streak at four games. The Giants had lost 19 of their last 23 games to drop 11 games out of first place.

"With guys like Matthews, Bobby Murcer and Willie Montanez in the heart of the batting order, the Giants are going to get their share of hits," said Cincinnati's Pete Rose, who has more than his share and a .385 batting average after two singles Thursday.

"I hope they keep getting hits now and beat the (Los Angeles) Dodgers for us," said Rose. He added, "Being 11 games behind in May is nothing to worry about. They shouldn't push the panic button."

Why, only a year ago, the Reds were mired in fifth place, five games behind Los Angeles. They finished first with a 20-game lead.

Herndon had a triple after entering Tuesday night's game, which the Giants lost 5-4, and Manager Bill Rigney decided to start him against the Reds' hard-throwing Don Gullett.

"He almost made the club in spring training," Rigney said about the 22-year-old outfielder recalled from Phoenix two weeks ago. "He can cover ground and he's shown us he can hit. We're going to give him a good look."

Five Giants had two hits apiece Thursday including Chris Speier who had a two-run single in the first inning. Chris Arnold stroked a two-run pinch hit single in the fifth, sending San Francisco ahead 5-4, but George Foster tied it with a homer in the eighth off Heaverlo, the winning pitcher.

Hey, Tom Seaver, where's that Cy Young-winning form?

"I'm just not being aggressive enough," says the righthander.

Seaver's lack of aggression is making pacifists out of the New York Mets. The high-salaried right-hander has lost three straight games, including Thursday's 5-3 decision to the Philadelphia Phillies.

Since Seaver has turned from hawk to dove, the Mets have been tailing off — losing seven of their last nine decisions.

The Phillies even teed off on Seaver's best pitches. Mike Schmidt hit a strong Seaver curve ball over the fence.

"It was a good curve ball, down and away," said a disconsolate Seaver, now 4-3.

At one point, the three-time Cy Young winner looked so unlike himself that Manager Joe Frazier walked out to the mound and asked him, "Are you sick?" Seaver replied, "No." To which Frazier replied, "Well, the ball's not getting up to the plate fast enough."

In the other National League games, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-1; the San Francisco Giants nudged the Cincinnati Reds 6-5; the Houston Astros nipped the San Diego Padres 5-4; the Montreal Expos blanked the Chicago Cubs 3-0 and the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Atlanta Braves 3-2.

The Phillies jumped on Seaver for four runs in the first inning, two on Greg Luzinski's double, and held on to beat New York behind Jim Lonborg and Tug McGraw. Dave Kingman of the Mets also belted a home run, his 15th of the season, to keep abreast of Schmidt in the home run race.

The unbeaten Lonborg scattered nine hits in 6 2-3 innings to pick up his sixth victory of the season. McGraw, the onetime ace of the Mets' relief corps, pitched one-hit, threestrikeout ball for the final 2 2-3 innings to get his fourth save of the season.

Cardinals 4, Pirates 1

Mike Tyson's two-run single capped a four-run first inning and sent St. Louis over Pittsburgh. Right-hander John Denny, 2-2, scattered 11 Pittsburgh hits — nine singles and two doubles — in registering his first complete game of the season.

Astros 5, Padres 4

Joe Niekro and Ken Forsch combined to pitch a four-hitter and Forsch drove in the winning run with an eighth-inning single as Houston beat San Diego. Niekro went the first six innings but had to be removed from the game after he was shaken up in a home plate collision with the Padres' Willie Davis. Forsch came on to handle the Padres over the final three innings and record his eighth save of the year. The only hit he surrendered was Dave Winfield's fifth home run of the season in the bottom of the ninth.

Expos 3, Cubs 0

Andre Thornton, playing his first game with Montreal after being acquired from Chicago, drilled a two-run homer to spark the Expos over the Cubs. Thornton came to Montreal Monday in exchange for pitcher Steve Renko and outfielder Larry Bittner. Thornton was a first baseman for Chicago, but played right field for the first time since the 1973 season when he was with Richmond of the International League.

Dodgers 3, Braves 2

Steve Garvey lined a single to left with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning, scoring Bill Buckner from second base and giving Los Angeles its third victory over Atlanta. The Dodgers' third straight triumph and eighth in their last 10 games moved them 1 1/2 games ahead of Cincinnati in the National League West.

Royals 8, A's 4

Triplets by Fred Patek and George Brett keyed a five-run seventh inning as Kansas City whipped Oakland and plunged the A's seven games behind the Royals in the American League West.

The A's took a 4-2 lead in the top of the seventh on Don Baylor's second solo home run of the game and Phil Garner's RBI double. The Royals then batted around.

White Sox 3, Twins 2

Rich Coggins, Chet Lemon and Jack Brohamer each drove in a run and Rich Gossage scattered seven hits to lead the White Sox over the Twins. Lemon, who also scored a run and stole two bases, put the White Sox ahead to stay when he broke a 1-1 tie

MEMORIAL DAY CHAMPIONSHIP NEXT WEEK

Andretti goes after Indy pole

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Mario Andretti is expected to challenge Johnny Rutherford's pole position-winning speed of 188.957 miles an hour when the final weekend of qualification for the May 30 Indianapolis 500 begins Saturday morning.

Janet Guthrie, meanwhile, seemed almost in need of a miracle to get her speed up within reasonable striking distance for a spot in the 33-car lineup.

Andretti, with a reputation as an outstanding qualifier, has already topped 188 m.p.h. in practice in his McLaren and has consistently been the fastest of the two dozen or so cars still hoping to fight their way into the lineup in trials Saturday and Sunday.

"It's fun to run for the pole and have the fastest car," Andretti said after turning in the quickest practice run Thursday. "But I had a commitment to Formula 1 last weekend, so I'm just going to have to be satisfied with getting in the field and doing well in the race."

"If this was the first weekend of qualifying, I would really hang it out and go for the pole. But now it doesn't mean anything, except maybe to your pride. We'll just have to see what happens. I'll do what is comfortable, without taking unnecessary chances — with myself or the equipment."

Andretti said the extra week of practice, which he might not have gotten if he had qualified the first weekend, has resulted in some discoveries that may help build even more speed.

"I feel like I'll be able to race real hard in the race itself," Andretti added. "I'm really looking forward to it."

Andretti set the pace Thursday with a top speed of 185.529 m.p.h., which he said was not a "flat out" lap.

Miss Guthrie managed only 168.004 m.p.h. and had various minor problems, including a tow-in once when she stopped on the course. Teammate Dick Simon hit 173.210 m.p.h. in a test of the car — still well below what observers predict will be needed.

Only 10 spots remain and, so far, Miss Guthrie is not among the 10 fastest cars yet to qualify. The slowest driver already in the field is Jim McElreath at 179.122 m.p.h.

Unqualified cars which have turned in speeds at better than McElreath's speed already in practice include those driven by Andretti, Salt Walther, George Snider, Steve Krisloff, Jerry Grant, Al Loquasto and David Hobbs.

Expected to make his first appearance on the track today was Lloyd Ruby, another driver likely to exceed 180 m.p.h. in qualifying.

The fastest 33 qualifiers will start the 60th annual running of the world's most prestigious auto race May 30.

Jr. Champ competition scheduled for Sunday

The Washington C.H. Jaycees in connection with K-Mart will sponsor their annual Junior Champ Competition Sunday at Gardner Park.

Junior Champ gives boys and girls between the ages of six and 16 a chance to exhibit their track and field skills.

Bill Beatty, track coach at Miami Trace High School, is this year's honorary chairman of the event. Beatty in his first year as the Panthers coach led them to a second-place finish in the league this season.

For the first time, boys and girls will compete together in the 7-8 year old, the 9-10 year old and the 15-16 year old groups.

Boys and girls events will be separate in the 11-12 year old and 13-14 year old divisions.

The meet will consist of the long jump, the football throw, high jump, baseball throw and softball throw, and 20, 40, 60, 100, 220 and 440 yard runs.

Awards will be given to the top six finishers in each event. There will also be exhibition running matches for six-year olds at the meet.

Registration will begin at noon Sunday at Gardner Park and the competition will begin at 1 p.m. There is no entry fee and any youth is eligible to compete in his age group.

May 30 has been set as the rain date for this year's competition.

Consumer price data released for April

WASHINGTON (AP) — Led by the first rise in retail food costs in four months, consumer prices increased four-tenths of a per cent in April, the government said today.

The increase was the biggest price rise since January and was twice as large as the March increase of two-tenths of a per cent. However, it still was well within the Ford administration's prediction for an over-all 6 per cent increase in prices during all of 1976.

The Labor Department said the price of food rose six-tenths of a per cent during April, the first rise since a six-tenths of a per cent rise in December. Food prices had declined during the first three months of 1976 by a total of 2 per cent.

There were higher prices during April for fresh fruits and vegetables, coffee, pork, poultry and dairy products. The price of beef fell six-tenths of a per cent, but the decline was smaller than in the previous two months.

The department said the Consumer Price Index stood at 168.2 in April, meaning that goods which cost $100 in a base period in 1967 cost $168.20 last month.

During the first three months of the year, consumer prices rose at an annual rate of 2.9 per cent, a low rate that most economists believe could not be maintained for long.

Food prices actually declined by 2 per cent during the January-March period. The Agriculture Department said this week had additional good news for consumers, saying the over-all increase for food prices this year might be between 2 and 5 per cent, which would be the smallest annual increase in four years.

Economists, however, are more concerned about the trend in industrial goods, since food prices are considered volatile and not indicative of the overall inflation rate.

Prices for commodities other than food increased during the first three months at an annual rate of nearly 4 per cent.

One indication that the very low inflation rate may be about over was seen in the April wholesale price index, which showed an increase during the month of eight-tenths of 1 per cent, the biggest increase since last October.

Another potential trouble spot in the inflation outlook results from the pace of the economy's recovery from recession.

The Commerce Department reported Thursday that the nation's over-all economic output increased at an annual rate of 8.5 per cent during the first quarter.

The gain in the nation's Gross National Product was up from a preliminary estimate of 7.5 per cent and exceeded all predictions. Some concern now is being expressed by economists that if the economy continues to grow at such rates, it could lead to a big increase in demand for goods of all kinds, which would put new pressures on prices.

Meanwhile, there were these economic developments:

—Shell Oil Co. said it has raised its nationwide gasoline price by one cent a gallon, Shell said the hike was to account for increased costs of crude oil.

JA scholarship award

COLUMBUS — Bob Spangler, 7390 White Oak Rd., was awarded a $1,000 Eymann Fund scholarship by the Fayette County Junior Achievement Board of Directors Tuesday at a banquet in Columbus.

The scholarship is awarded each year to a senior Junior Achiever in Fayette County. The money is to be used for the recipients college education.

Spangler, a senior at Miami Trace High School, was a member of the Loofteam mini-corporation this past year.

There are three such corporations operated by area high school students in Fayette County. The mini-corporations design, manufacture and sell small products each year.

The scholarship award was given at the Central Ohio Junior Achievement Banquet in Columbus.

Kim Wheaton of Greenfield received the Central Ohio Junior Achievement scholarship for $250 and another Greenfield student, Brian Buck, who is a member of the local program, was honored as the second place finisher in the Central Ohio district's best purchasing agent poll.

Ava Hansel, a Miami Trace student, and Kevin Curren of Greenfield will represent the local program as well as the district at the Junior Achievement National Convention this August at Bloomington, Ind. The two students expenses will be paid by Junior Achievement.

Nearly 40 local Junior Achievers attended the district banquet and 60 students completed the local program this year.

The county Junior Achievers are preparing to start their annual fund drive. The program is sponsored by businessmen in Fayette County and Greenfield.

Variances approved

The Washington C.H. Board of Zoning Appeals approved four variances during its meeting Wednesday.

John and Patricia Lyons, 728 W. Elm St., received a variance to erect and occupy a building for business in a R-3 district. They will construct a 40-by-100 foot building at 222 and 224 W. Temple Street to house Washington Paint and Glass.

Although the area is zoned residential, there are other businesses on three sides of the site. Conditions for approval included that all signs, lighted or unlighted, be flush with the building and face other businesses, not homes. They must also seek a zoning change within one year.

The former Washington Paint and Glass location on N. Fayette Street was sold to the Huntington Bank.

Donald E. Smith, 205 Kathryn St., was permitted to encroach six feet onto the 30-foot clearance between the residence and the street. This allows an extension of the front porch.

Elva M. Schreckengast, 932 E. Temple St., received a variance to erect a larger sign and sell both new and used furniture at her upholstery shop at the corner of Temple and Lewis streets.

The board allowed only an unlighted

sign, flush with the building, no larger than 2-by-3 feet.

Shirley Oates, 514 E. Market St., was permitted to operate a beauty shop at the rear of her home. Conditions for the variance included a restriction to only one operator, and that any signs be unlighted and no larger than one foot square.

3 plead guilty to welfare fraud

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three women pleaded guilty Wednesday to charges of receiving welfare payments while on the state payroll, the Franklin County prosecutor's office said.

A trial on the charges had been scheduled this week until the employees decided to plead guilty to one count each of theft by deception, the prosecutor's office said. Other charges were dropped.

The employees are Mildred Deese, 31, a licensed practical nurse at the Central Ohio Psychiatric Hospital; Charley J. Hughes, 29, a clerk-typist for the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation; and Charlotte M. Gossett, 27, a clerk-typist for the Ohio Youth Commission.

Delay new truce in Lebanese war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Bolstered by pledges of support from radical Arab states, leftist Moslem forces delayed action today on a new truce to end Lebanon's civil war.

Hisham Shaar, general director of internal security, said that the number of dead reported by police from nearly 14 months of warfare exceeds 25,000, with 79,000 wounded.

He said this terrible toll did not include casualties among Palestinian refugees or Palestinian guerrillas fighting with the Moslem forces.

Scattered fighting was reported between Moslem and Christian militias overnight, including battles with rockets and mortars around Moslem enclaves in the Christian-held half of Beirut. Police said the clashes killed at least 23 persons.

The over-all leader of the Moslem militants, Kamal Jumblatt, scheduled a meeting with Lebanese leftists, Palestinians and delegates of radical Arab states, calling it the Arab Front for Participation in the Palestinian Resistance.

They were to discuss the Moslem-leftist posture toward a cease-fire plan proposed by President-elect Elias Sarkis.

Jumblatt's position was strengthened by strong new expressions of support from Iraq and Algeria.

Aly Ghannam, member of the ruling Iraqi Baath party's national command, arrived in Beirut for the front meeting and said Iraq "supports the Lebanese nationalist movement and protection of the Palestinian resistance."

Algerian envoy Mohammed Yazid returned to Beirut Thursday and delivered a message of support to Jumblatt from Algerian President Houari Boumedienne.

Earlier this week, Libyan Prime Minister Abdul Salam Jalloud, during a Beirut visit, expressed support for Jumblatt "in war or peace."

Iraq, Libya and Algeria are known to have been supplying Lebanon's Moslem-leftist side with arms and money.

The entry by Iraq and Algeria through the new alliance highlights the political and diplomatic division in the Arab world over Lebanon.

Sarkis' peace plan, as reported in various Beirut papers, includes a cease-fire in place, renouncing of force by both sides, and a round-table discussion of reforms demanded by the Moslems.

Tax progress reported Bill would cut inflation from property levies

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — With one obstacle out of the way, at least temporarily, a joint conference committee resumed deliberations today on a major bill designed to protect Ohio homeowners from tax increases caused by inflation.

The committee voted 3-1 Thursday to make the bill effective with the 1976 tax year, instead of an effective date of 1978 set in the Senate version. Under the House version, a complicated system of rollbacks would have sought, despite legal questions, to make some of its provisions retroactive to 1972.

Chairman George D. Tablack, D-52 Campbell, said the vote at least held out hope that the committee might reach further agreements today. If not, he said Thursday, after daylong bickering on the issue, he would be ready to adjourn the panel and ask that another be appointed. He threatened that move several times Thursday when the committee seemed hopelessly deadlocked. Legislative leaders have targeted the measure, by Rep. John E. Johnson, D-68 Orrville, for priority consideration when the legislature returns June 9 for a three-day clean-up session.

Sen. Donald J. Pease, D-13 Oberlin, went along reluctantly with the motion by Johnson to move the effective date up to the current tax year. But he indicated he did so to get the committee moving, and warned he was reserving the right to vote against the committee's final report.

The committee consists of six members—three from each chamber. A final report needs the votes of two members from each house. Both minority Republican members—one senator and one representative—were absent Thursday.

The bill, which attracted major attention early this year when real estate taxpayers were hit by unexpected increases in their taxes resulting from inflation, would hold the line from year to year on property valuations for tax purposes. Thus, the only way taxes would increase would be by a vote of the people.

Pease and others maintain the measure will run into court troubles unless its effective date is put off until 1978 to coincide with the end of Ohio's current six-year reappraisal cycle. During each cycle, counties are reappraised in groups, and nearly two dozen are yet to be reappraised in the cycle which started in 1972.

Senate conferees claim that any effective date for the bill that falls within the six-year period would be unconstitutional because it would have the effect of treating different groups of taxpayers in different ways.

They point out that the board of tax appeals already has ordered a freeze on property values until 1978.

However, Tablack and Johnson, among others, claim the board lacked authority under the law to order such a freeze, and predict it will be disallowed once challenged in the courts.

Further complicating the deliberations was a decision Thursday to make another major tax reform bill a part of the Senate bill which is being used as a working vehicle by the committee.

That measure, by Rep. William E. Hinig, D-96 New Philadelphia, would reduce tangible property (inventories and equipment) assessment rates on business and industry. They would go from their current 45-50 per cent levels to 35 per cent, the same figure set by the tax appeals board for real property several years ago under an Ohio Supreme Court order.

Ohio political scene becomes warmer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — President Ford's son Jack was greeted warmly Thursday on his five city, two-campus campaign tour across Ohio in support of his father's bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

"I'd like to get an idea of what is on your mind, to take impressions back to my father," Ford told students at Bowling Green State University and Ohio State University in Columbus.

Surrounded by a crowd of some 800 students on the Ohio State oval, the shirt-sleeved Ford answered questions about his father's administration and candidly admitted to having smoked marijuana.

Ford, who did not advocate drug use, said the money now used to enforce marijuana laws should be diverted to fighting hard drug use.

"My father and I don't agree on this issue," the 24-year-old Ford said. "But I'm glad he and I could sit down and discuss it like rational human beings." He said his father was definitely against decriminalization of marijuana.

Later at President Ford Committee headquarters in downtown Columbus, he defended his father's stand against busing, saying: "We feel it is important to get back to the real issue of quality education and away from busing. There are better ways to get to the real issue than putting kids on buses for two or three hours a day."

He denied his father was using the busing issue as a timely campaign booster for the West Virginia and Kentucky primaries, saying Atty. Gen. Edward Levi was asked to look into the possibility of a challenge to Supreme Court rulings last November.

At both college stops, Ford said his father is "within easy striking distance" of opponent Ronald Reagan in California and expects to do well in Ohio's June 8 primary.

The President's son said he does not think political campaigning is something "I'd ever do for myself," adding he does not think he will ever seek political office.

At Bowling Green State University Ford told students his father is "within easy striking distance" of opponent Ronald Reagan in California and expects to do well in Ohio's June 8 primary.

After leaving the capital, Ford flew to Mansfield for the opening of the Richland County headquarters of the President Ford Committee. Ford was also attended a reception in Canton to cap the first day's activities of the Ohio Republican Women's Federation state meeting.

The President's son remained overnight in Canton and was to attend the opening of Ford's Canton headquarters today before flying back to Washington.

Meanwhile, Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, in Cincinnati to speak at a Ford fundraiser, told reporters Thursday he will formally support the President's nomination when New York's unpledged convention delegation meets next week to announce its choice in the presidential race.

Rockefeller said he feels the momentum has swung in Ford's favor

in view of his Michigan and Maryland primary victories.

"I will vote for him Monday," said Rockefeller. "We like his style, integrity and courage. I think he has restored faith and confidence in the nation."

Rockefeller predicted President Ford, who presently trails Reagan in delegates, would win on the first ballot in Kansas City. He cited Ohio, New Jersey and California as key primary states.

Rockefeller said Ohio "is very important" to Ford because of its large delegation and because "it is a state in the heartland of America."

In local campaigns Thursday, former Sen. Howard Metzenbaum and Rep. James Stanton, D-Ohio, continued appearances in their race for the Democratic nomination to challenge Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio.

Metzenbaum met with students at Miami University in Oxford Thursday afternoon. Later, he appeared in Dayton at a rally of Montgomery County Democrats.

Stanton met with reporters in Columbus in front of police headquarters to publicize legislation to transfer local funding under the Law Enforcement Assistance Act to the revenue sharing program.

He said he would introduce the bill next month.

Stanton said if local officials were given the anticrime funds to use as they saw fit, the money could be used more directly to "develop new strategies of crime control and maintain adequate levels of public safety."

Coffee Break . .

THE "WCH FIVE", charged with election law tampering, were represented by their lawyer, C. Patrick Harkins in a pre-trial hearing held in Circleville Municipal Court.

Trial date has not yet been established, as Circleville Judge John Hosterman believes the trial will take longer than one day. The tentative date, June 22, was not convenient for legal counselors.

The trial is being held in Circleville after acting Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case ordered a change of venue upon a motion by City Solicitor Gary Smith.

Kissinger rejects sphere of influence policy in Europe

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger has told Washington's European allies that America supports the independence of Eastern Europe from Soviet domination and will never accept the sphere-of-influence concept for Europe.

U.S. officials said the secretary of state told North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) foreign ministers in a closed meeting Thursday that America is committed to encouraging the independence of Eastern Europe and has taken positive steps in this direction.

But they said Kissinger cautioned the NATO ministers that any alliance action should be within the limits of what is possible. This meant, they said, that there should be no effort to encourage revolt or a major shift away from Moscow by Eastern European nations.

About 20 youths demonstrated outside the heavily guarded meeting hall Thursday while 5,000 leftists marched in the streets. One group shouted "Out with the war criminal Kissinger" near the U.S. Embassy.

Youths booed delegates headed for a dinner party given by the Norwegian government but there were no incidents.

The demonstrators carried signs denouncing both NATO and Moscow's domination of the Warsaw Pact nations.

The U.S. officials told reporters that Kissinger reviewed the U.S. program of challenging Soviet efforts to impose its ideology on the non-Communist world while still seeking detente. He asked if this was still NATO policy and the other 14 ministers confirmed Kissinger's analysis, the officials reported.

They said Kissinger told the session that the use of Soviet military supplies and Cuban troops to help the pro-Moscow Popular Movement in Angola's civil war violated the concept of coexistence and was an example of ideological aggression. The Popular Movement group defeated two Western-backed factions this spring.

U.S. agencies using private delivery firms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is telling its agencies to try to save money by sending some mail through private delivery firms instead of through the more expensive U.S. Postal Service.

The General Services Administration made the statement about the government's own mail agency in a bulletin circulated last month to federal agencies.

The bulletin, entitled "Reducing Mail Costs," was released Thursday by Rep. Paul Simon, D-Ill.

One of the 10 recommendations contained in the bulletin was: "Use commercial small-parcel carriers as a cheaper alternative to priority mail and U.S. Postal Service-insured parcels."

United Parcel Service, a Connecticut-based company, has surpassed the Postal Service in recent years in the parcel field. Its rates average about 20 per cent below those of the Postal Service.

For example, a two-pound parcel sent from Washington to New York costs 93 cents by the government's parcel post and 75 cents by United Parcel.

A Postal Service spokesman, commenting on the GSA bulletin, said "Government agencies are mandated by law to use the most economical means available to them."

"Since fiscal year 1972, therefore, the increase has been over 72 per cent.

Simon, a critic of the Postal Service, said he found the GSA bulletin while looking into the extent of government use of private alternatives to the Postal Service.

"It's another example of how the Postal Service, with its inefficiency and increasing rates, is pricing itself out of the delivery market. There's something seriously wrong when public agencies have to abandon the public mail service in order to save money," he said.

Panel gets FBI documents

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate intelligence committee is to receive documents from the FBI showing that the bureau knew a CIA plot to kill Fidel Castro was in progress on the same day President John F. Kennedy was assassinated.

The documents, which the FBI apparently never gave to the Warren Commission, are expected to be turned over to the intelligence committee today, according to Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., chairman of the subcommittee investigating the Kennedy slaying.

Schweiker said the new documents "could be very vital" in determining who in the FBI ordered the information about CIA attempts against Castro withheld from the Warren Commission, which investigated Kennedy's Nov. 22, 1963, assassination.

He said the information about the CIA plot against Castro may also have been withheld even from the FBI agents assigned to investigate the Kennedy slaying.

David W. Belin, who was an assistant counsel for the Warren Commission, said, "The fact that they would withhold information from an investigation of this kind has rather chilling implications. One of the things we were looking at was whether there was any Castro involvement in the Kennedy assassination."

Meanwhile, Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, has been named as ranking Democrat and likely chairman of the new Senate panel set up to monitor and control future spy activities. Eight of the 15 members, including Inouye, also serve on committees that have been responsible for monitoring the intelligence agencies in the past.

In another development, the committee released a report showing the CIA opened nearly a quarter-million private letters, even though senior officials knew the program was illegal and of little value. The FBI also opened mail on a smaller but "more intrusive" scale, the staff report said.

"All of these mail-opening programs were initiated by agency officials acting without prior authorization from a president, attorney general or postmaster general," the report stated.

Schweiker released a copy of a May 6 letter to Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi stating that "recently received materials reveal that the FBI, in 1964, had knowledge of the CIA's AM LASH plot and that there even exists an FBI file captioned 'Plans to Assassinate Cuban Leaders.'"

AM LASH was the code name of a highly placed Cuban official who met with a CIA officer in Paris the same day Kennedy was killed and received a poison pen device to be used in killing Castro.

Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C., a member of the old and new intelligence panels, has been quoted as calling AM LASH "a double agent" who kept Castro informed of CIA schemes against his life. "There is no doubt in my mind that John Fitzgerald Kennedy was assassinated by Fidel Castro or someone under his influence in retaliation for our efforts to assassinate him," Morgan was quoted as saying.

Indiana man wins top lottery prize

CLEVELAND (AP) — With a guaranteed income of $1,000 a month for the rest of his life, 45-year-old Fred Fortner says he's looking forward to fulfilling his dream of buying "a little farm—something I can manage and have a couple of calves."

Fortner, of Richmond, Ind., won the top prize Thursday night in the Ohio lottery's Buckeye 1,000 competition.

But he said even with the prize that guarantees him or his estate at least $400,000, he plans to keep on working as a painter.

"However, you can bet I'm going to slow down a bit," he added.

Fortner, who is divorced, said he has five children and three grandchildren.

A lottery spokesman said the State Line Truck Stop at Eaton, Ohio, just across the line from Richmond, where Fortner bought his winning ticket, is one of the top lottery ticket agents in the state, averaging $14,165 a week in sales. The spokesman said three Buckeye 1,000 finalists in the past three months have bought their tickets at State Line.

Second prize of $7,500 in the Buckeye 1,000 went to Joseph Krajewski of Toledo. Janette Augustino of Portsmouth won $5,000.

Other winners included: Annie Smith of Columbus, $4,000; Theresa Kuzman, Cleveland, $3,000; Wesley Leimkuhler, Cincinnati $2,000, and June Quillen, Addison, $1,000.

Numbers pulled out in the weekly drawing were:

Liberty Bell: 27, 50, 51, 68, Spirit of 76: 661469; 07153; 5896.

Political hiring out of control

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hiring abuses involving the federal government's chief employment agency — the Civil Service Commission — are so rampant that disciplinary action is nearly impossible, the head of an investigative team says.

Milton I. Sharon, a retired Civil Service official who headed a special investigation of the reported hiring abuses, said Thursday that the cases of favoritism "were not isolated incidents."

He said it would be no use trying to discipline those involved in such actions as giving some persons favored treatment in job placement, helping them write resumes or assisting them in passing Civil Service tests.

"What are we going to do, discipline one-quarter of the work force, one-half of the work force, 10 per cent?" he asked at a news conference.

The report on the investigation charged that a Civil Service Commission bureau began rushing to destroy what were called key documents as the commission's investigation began.

As a result of the disposal of documents, special investigators looking into abuses at the Civil Service Commission itself had to "abandon some lines of inquiry which we believe might have been productive," the report said.

The investigation was an internal probe of the agency started about six months ago after numerous reports of hiring abuses within the commission.

When the abuses were discovered at other agencies, including the General Services Administration and Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the commission moved to take disciplinary action against personnel officers of the agencies.

The investigations in those cases provided leads which eventually took investigators back to the commission itself, where abuses by commission employees were discovered.

Despite the 96-page report, Civil Service Commission Executive Director Raymond Jacobson said he wanted to investigate further before deciding whether Civil Service employees should be disciplined for their actions.

But Jacobson also said he would be looking into the disposal of the documents and that this was one area of the report that continued to trouble him.

Deaths, Funerals

Infant Johnson

Anthony W. Johnson, son of William and Phylliss (Hall) Johnson, was stillborn Friday morning in Fayette Memorial Hospital.

He is survived by his parents, and two sisters, Michelle Rene and Kimberly Kay. Two other sisters preceded him in death.

Also surviving are maternal grandparents, William and Wanda Hall, 13147 Ohio 729, Jeffersonville, and his paternal grandparents are Douglas and Wometta Johnson Rt. 1, Lyndon.

Graveside services will be conducted at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Fairview Cemetery, Jeffersonville, with the Rev. Roy Love officiating. Burial is under the direction of the Morrow-Huffman Funeral Home.

Claim press freedom dying out

Columbus, Ohio (AP)—A Dominican Republic newspaper publisher said Thursday night Latin American countries are in a headlong retreat from their avowed commitment to press freedom.

German E. Ornes of Santo Domingo said challenges are coming both from dictatorships and the so-called democracies.

Speaking at a banquet held during a three-day conference at Ohio State University on problems in the Western Hemisphere, Ornes said:

"It is true that all of the constitutions of the Americas still recognize the right of freedom of expression. Yet, in an increasing number of nations, this right is either ignored or severely curtailed by censorship, fear or frustration."

Another speaker, Clayton Kirkpatrick, editor and vice president of the Chicago Tribune, said the press in this country basically is healthy, although there are some major threats.

First among them are court gag orders, said Kirkpatrick, who heads the Freedom of Information Committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

"We are moving to some extent toward secret trials," he said, "and I think this should be disturbing to all of us."

He cited another threat as a lack of credibility, saying that following Watergate there is a growing feeling that the press is arrogant, power-mad and abuses its power.

Big oil spill off Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Coast Guard says it is calling a 50-man reserve unit into action to check Lake Erie beaches east of Cleveland to watch for oil spreading from a ruptured barge on the rocks off Cleveland Harbor.

Meanwhile, the Coast Guard kept an eye on the weather, hoping to be able to resume cleanup operations that were suspended Thursday when the winds rose, sending waves crashing against the harbor breakwall.

About 30,000 gallons spilled from one ruptured tank before it was plugged by divers, the Coast Guard reported. The other nine tanks were reported to hold more than 600,000 gallons of oil.

The winds and waves that prevented the start of pumping operation Thursday also caused the oil to spread eastward.

Officials said the oil had turned into

Cooler air spreading across Ohio will drop temperatures tonight into the 40s under mostly cloudy skies.

Variable cloudiness prevailed over most of the state today, with a few isolated showers over central and southern sections. Highs ranged in the upper 60s north to 70s and low 80s central and south.

The weather map shows a slow-moving cold front extending from central Pennsylvania across Lake Erie to southern lower Michigan. The front moved south across Ohio today. By Saturday, it will extend from southern Indiana to North Carolina.

Highs Saturday will be in the 60s north and low to mid 70s south.

Mostly fair Sunday through Tuesday, but a chance of showers Monday. Highs in the upper 60s and 70s. Lows in the mid 40s to low 50s.

I wish to thank all my friends and relatives for the cards, flowers and gifts I received while a patient at the Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Special thanks to ministers, nurses and Dr. Gebhart.

SPECIAL SESSION — A somewhat unusual order was handed down in Washington C. H. Municipal Court Thursday. Eight students from Miami Trace High School and seven from Washington Senior High were summoned to appear before Judge Robert L. Simpson, Judge John P. Case, City Manager George L. Shapter, and Washington C. H. Police Chief Rodman Scott. After a brief hearing, they were ordered to consume cake, and other party fare. The students were those who had served as bailiffs for the past 17 weeks. Each student was presented a certificate recognizing his contribution to the court by assisting in the processing of cases, handling the files, servicing the judge's needs, and opening court.

Governor signs measures

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Olympic athletes and coaches, who are employed by the State of Ohio, will get full paid leave to take part in the games under a bill signed into law by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The legislation, sponsored by Sen. Ben M. Gaeth, R-1 Defiance, will assure that athletes and coaches get full pay at their regular state salary, while traveling to and from the Olympic site, and during training and competition.

The law, signed Thursday, takes effect Aug. 19 along with another bill clarifying the authority of local boards of education to purchase accident insurance for student athletes. The insurance bill was sponsored by Sen. Donald L. Woodland, D-16 Columbus.

The Ohio State Racing Commission will get an extra $186,000 to cope with expenses created by the longer racing season under a bill that takes effect immediately.

Recent legislation has authorized an additional 276 days of racing annually. The appropriation bill, carried by Rep. Terry Tranter, D-24 Cincinnati, grants $122,000 to the state Controlling Board to replace emergency funds already released to the racing commission.

Rhodes also signed legislation

specifying that all water beneath the surface of Ohio, regardless of depth, is to be considered "waters of the state," subject to pollution controls.

Senate Minority Leader Michael L. Maloney's (R-7 Cincinnati) bill was in response to a 1975 Supreme Court decision upholding a Sandusky County Common Pleas Court ruling that underground waters in the Mt. Simon Formation were not under state jurisdiction.

Mt. Simon, which lies 2,800 feet beneath the surface of Sandusky County, is a layer of bedrock into which wastes are injected from seven licensed injection wells.

The new law, effective immediately, returns Mt. Simon to state jurisdiction and increases the penalties for pollution violation for disposing of sewage or industrial wastes.

Also effective immediately, Rhodes signed legislation authored by Sen. Donald J. Pease, D-13 Oberlin, increasing loan guarantee premiums in the Ohio Student Loan Program.

The governor also signed with an Aug. 19 effective date:

—A bill sponsored by Sen. Robert E. O'Shaughnessy, D-15 Columbus, increasing the opportunities for blind persons to operate vending facilities, such as snack bars, cafeterias and vending machines.

—Legislation sponsored by Rep. Frederick H. Deering, D-84 Monroeville, authorizing the state Bureau of children's services to extend free treatment for cystic fibrosis to persons over 21.

—A measure offered by Sen. Oakley C. Collins, R-17 Ironton, permitting counties to sell, lease or transfer unneeded property to senior citizens groups.

—A bill sponsored by Sen. Gene Slagle, D-26 Galion, defining railroad policemen as "peace officers," eligible for the same training as other law enforcement officials.

Challenges to Brown vary among Demos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter, Morris Udall and Frank Church have signaled they will not make massive efforts fighting California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. in the June 8 California primary because of Brown's home-state power.

Udall and Church bowed out of a televised debate with Brown in Los Angeles next week, spokesmen said Thursday. Carter said he would concentrate on New Jersey and Ohio which also have June 8 primaries.

Udall also indicated he will make major efforts in those two states — and did mention California — while Church is concentrating on the smaller primary states before June 8 to seek momentum for the California voting.

Meanwhile, the candidates were seeking votes in some of the states that are holding their primaries this Tuesday, in addition to states voting on June 8.

Alabama Gov. George Wallace was in Arkansas, Church and Brown were in Nevada and Oregon, Udall in Kentucky and New Jersey and Carter in Nevada and California. Ronald Reagan was in Nevada and President Ford remained in Washington.

About 18 per cent of all Democratic convention delegates will be selected June 8, making it the biggest primary day in terms of numbers.

Mainly About People

Julie Beth Crabtree, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Crabtree of 343 Staunton-Jasper Road, has been dismissed from Children's Hospital, Columbus.

Anthony Ray Stephen's, son of Mrs. Kathryn Stephens, 535 Leeburg Ave., has been accepted as a student for 1976-77 school year at the Columbus College of Art and Design, from whom he received a $450 scholarship. He is also the recipient of an Ohio Instructional Grant.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wright (Nancy West) have moved from Elizabethtown, Ky., to Apt. B 102, 600 Northern Ave., Clarkston, Ga. 30021. Mr. Wright will attend George State University, Atlanta, Ga.

Delegates in New Jersey and Ohio will be selected on a winner-take-all basis at the district level, while California's delegation will be selected proportionally.

Carter, admitting Brown will get many of California's delegates, told an Oregon news conference Wednesday, "He will have to fight me for every one." Carter aides said he planned to spend at least $300,000 in the California fight.

Udall said in a New Jersey campaign appearance Thursday that he plans to spend $150,000 to $200,000 of the federal matching funds he is due in that state. He added he would spend as many days seeking the 108 Jersey delegates as he will spend in search of the 152 Ohio delegates.

A Udall spokesman in Washington denied Udall had written off California, but said no California campaigning is now planned.

Church is pinning his hopes on doing well in the next two weeks' primaries, including ones in Oregon and his home state of Idaho, and carrying some momentum into California.

Church press secretary Bill Hall also denied the Idaho senator is bowing out of an active fight in California.

"Of course, Gov. Brown starts with an advantage," he said. "He (Church) is going for broke in California."

Blue Cross hike set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Higher monthly payments for Blue Cross and Blue Shield medical benefits are on the way for about 42,000 state employees.

The state Employee Compensation Board announced Thursday the health care provider would impose a maximum 16 per cent increase beginning July 1. That translates into a $5 million increase in the second year of a two-year agreement between the state and Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

Family plan recipients will pay an additional $3.11, pushing the current $20.10 monthly charge to $23.21. Individual payments will go from $8.65 monthly to $10.20, a $1.60 increase.

The compensation board voted 5-0 to continue the state's 70 per cent share of the plan. A spokesman said the provider cited higher costs and more claims than anticipated in implementing the increase.

Stocks drop at opening

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated today from the previous day's gains, reacting to a sharp rise in the nation's basic money supply.

The 10:30 a.m. Dow Jones industrial average fell 3.14 to 994.13, and held a moderate lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers said some profit taking appeared to be sparked by the Federal Reserve as the market was closing on Thursday. Many feared the new rise would touch off a further climb in various interest rates.

Partly balancing that concern, however, was news as the market opened today that Citibank was keeping its prime rate unchanged at 6 1/2 per cent.

Traders appeared not to react either way to news that consumer prices in April rose at a 4.8 per cent annual rate.

Engelhard Minerals, the Big Board volume leader, added 3/4 to 35.

Among early victims of profit taking, General Motors declined 3/4 to 70, Sperry Rand was off 3/4 to 48, and Digital Equipment fell 1 1/2 to 165.

Alone in Waterloo

Lindsey, who resides in Mount Sterling, is representing the Republican ticket. He is a farmer.

Since the last day for write-in candidates to sign up for the coming election has come and gone, it appears that no Democrat will be seeking the post.

Due to the scattered populations on farms, towns were slow to develop in early Ohio; taxable property in the state was about $25 million in 1810.

State solon denies charge

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — State Sen. Philip Gutman says he has not done legal work for a firm embroiled in a dispute over a new state office complex.

The firm, Archonics Inc. of Fort Wayne, has received nearly $225,000 in planning fees for the building. Archonics treasurer Leroy Kuhns told the State Office Building Commission Wednesday Gutman was not on retainer but had been paid about $2,000 for legal services.

Gutman, Senate president pro tem, is not seeking re-election.

Kuhns said that for 10 years Gutman was general counsel for Bradley and Bradley, a Fort Wayne architectural firm that merged in 1970 with the Ewing Miller firm to become

TV Viewing

NEW YORK (AP) — I've always been a fan of Soupy Sales. His old nighttime TV shows always struck me as a nifty blend of Marx Brothers, Brother Dave "Rejoice, Dear Hearts" Gardner, Ernie Kovacs and flying cream pies.

So it was good news to hear that after too many years spent battling about on game shows and appearing on others' variety shows, Soupy will be back in September headlining his own show for ABC.

No matter that it's a Saturday morning kid show called "Jr. Almost Anything Goes," a pee-wee version of a flop nighttime series that featured citizens participating in outlandish sports contests.

Weird things always happen when Sales runs a show. In fact, weird things were happening this week when he was theoretically being interviewed about the new show at a chow hall theatrical folks favor.

Nearby diners appeared to be looking for the man with the butterfly net as Sales spoke of a new movie he plans to film at his apartment building, where garbage is piling up because of a strike by Fun City's apartment workers.

"It's going to be a musical sequel to 'Ben,'" he said, his voice rising with the thrill of the project. "Right now, we're looking for a rat who can sing."

Sales, a North Carolina boy raised in Huntington, W. Va., hit it big on television in Detroit in 1953. But greater fame came in later years when celebrities started appearing on his shows — Frank Sinatra, among them — for the sole purpose of getting hit in the puss by a pie.

Pie-throwing and receiving is a Sales legend. For historians of the art, he was asked about the first time a pie flew on one of his shows.

Soupy said it happened in Cleveland, in 1950, at WEXLTV, where he did a live show with a wee budget. The studio was in the country. It was there he happened to meet a farmer with a horse.

"He said, 'Whah doan yew use mah horse on your show?'" Soupy recalled. "I says, 'Okay,' And the director says, 'What are you going to do with a horse?'"

"I say, 'Get me a loin cloth and a feather and a sign that says 'Son of Cochise,' because in those days

'Broken Arrow' with Jeff Chandler and Michael Ansara was a very big movie. 'So we set the camera up, we put the farmer in a U.S. cavalry uniform, and me and my loin cloth and feather come galloping over the hill on his horse, me hanging on for dear life. I got to where he was standing and I fell off.'

"Then I said, 'White man come take away Indian country, take away buffalo, take away squaw, take away happy hunting ground. What is left for Indian?' And the guy hit me with a pie."

Although most people think of Soupy as a pie-thrower, he says he's the one who usually gets hit, "because throwing 'em makes you a heavy. They usually come at the tag line of a joke."

"Like a guy comes to the door, says, 'Would you give ten dollars to help the Old Ladies' Home,' and I say, 'Why, are they out again?' And BLAM!"

For the record, Soupy's lunch during the interview consisted of the swordfish platter and two glasses of wine. But no pie.

Three bridges to be built over Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three bridges across the Ohio River will be built soon following a meeting between the governors of Ohio and West Virginia on Wednesday.

Govs. James A. Rhodes of Ohio and Arch A. Moore Jr. of West Virginia announced the construction. It will complete the states' long-standing agreement to build seven new structures across the Ohio River.

The new bridges, to be tollfree facilities, will be constructed between Steubenville, Ohio and Weirton, W. Va.; Moundsville, W. Va. and Dilles Bottom in Belmont County, Ohio; and Ravenswood, W. Va. and near Portland in Meigs County, Ohio.

Highway Commissioner William S. Ritchie Jr. of West Virginia and Transportation Director Richard D. Jackson of Ohio were directed to place the new bridges under the federal highway system in order to obtain federal funding.

Senate's power over research

The Senate in its majesty has decided that the National Institute on Drug Abuse shall not spend any more federal money for what is described as a "study on the effects of marijuana on human sexual response." The definitive word on this action was spoken by Sen. William Hathaway of Maine. "Congress," he said, "seems to have taken upon itself the role of grand inquisitor in scientific research."

Some who share the Senate majority's seeming distaste for an inquiry into marijuana and sexual response may applaud this restrictive action. Those so inclined ought to reconsider their position. The issue is not whether one approves or disapproves of this particular study. The issue is whether the Senate should rule on the propriety of this or that specific scientific research project — whether it should, in Hathaway's pungent phrase, act as "grand inquisitor."

In our view, the Senate should do

nothing of the sort. Government decision-making of this kind is a hallmark of authoritarian societies; it has no place in a democracy.

Scientists and administrators of scientific institutions are not infallible; they may make foolish mistakes in allocating research funds. The cost of such mistakes is negligible, however, compared with the potential cost of letting politicians decide which lines of inquiry scientists may follow, and which are barred to them.

Letters from R-H readers

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I sincerely hope that my rights as a United States citizen are never violated in this town of Washington C.H. by an older adult. In my opinion, I feel that my constitutional rights would not be protected, the reason being my age.

I have drawn this conclusion from a recent assault case between two adults, the younger charging the elder with assault.

As defined by The Complete Guide to Everyday Law, assault is an unlawful beating, or any actual physical force or violence unlawfully applied to the person of another. It may be committed by any sort of physical touch.

This is an infringement on a person's rights and should not be taken lightly. It should be mentioned that the defendant admitted touching the plaintiff. However, there was no punishment given to the defendant.

Although not as experienced with the challenges of life, young adults, of legal age, still have constitutional rights granted to all United States citizens. Add ten years to their age, and these rights would be recognized.

However, at their present age, young adults are grossly taken advantage of and are unjustly denied their constitutional rights. This seemed to be evident in the previously mentioned assault case.

As of yet, I have had no confrontations threatening my constitutional rights. However, if an assault can be committed without due punishment, I fear that my rights would be pushed in the background were I to face a similar confrontation. Seniority seemed to take precedence over justice. Is this justice?

Debbie Bullock
824 Clinton Avenue

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I have lived in the city of Washington C.H. most all my life, I would like to say that I have never seen this town in the shape it is in this day and time.

In these few last years, City Council powers have steadily increased. Every day it seems like they want us to believe that they can do no wrong. They can not even abide by the voters and tax payers wishes. I think that the people on the whole have much more sense than some of them gets credit for.

I would like to say, not only the citizens of Washington C.H. but to all the citizens of Fayette County, if we do not stand up for our rights and make provisions now, stop all this kind of tactics where will it all stop or end.

It is so that your vote does not count anymore. It is quite unrealistic to think that in Washington C.H. we are free. From the way it looks now, that those who drew up the constitution sure wasted a lot of time.

When some of the people do stand up and fight for our rights, they go to no end to ridicule (sic) them. I just wonder, how many of their patrons were signed the same way. . . it is something to think about? Huh.

After reading the Record Herald, listing to the radio, also the city manager's report, it seems to me they have already tried and convicted them before they have ever had a trial.

I would also like to disagree with Mr. (Judge John) Case, is he trying to tell us that we do not have the common sense, to know right from wrong, that in Fayette County there is not enough people to give a fair and just verdict. Not long ago, they had a Dr. Leroy Davis on the committee, but I do not think that ever did they print in the paper what church he precipitated (sic) in like the paper did Mr. C.H. Dety.

I saw a letter to the editor the other night, that told it like it was it said that our real estate taxes, the sewer rates, the cost of everything going up, also the city income tax, that they imposed on everyone and they still want a 2.3 milage.

Did they really hit the nail on the head, when they said that we were not big enough to stand up like we should and get Washington C.H. back on its feet and stop all this big spending and remember they are representing us, and not representing them. I say, that it is time for us to stand up for our rights, and get behind and support (sic) those that are fighting for all of us now.

Artist burns paintings

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Artist Ted DeGrazia says he plans to burn 1,000 more of his paintings, some of which sell for up to $20,000, as a protest against federal tax laws which he says would burden his heirs.

DeGrazia, 67, whose works depicting Indian and Mexican children have made him famous and wealthy, has threatened for years to destroy paintings because of the tax laws.

Last week he carried through with the threat, setting fire to 100 works he valued at $1.5 million. Now, he says, he is preparing to burn 1,000 oils, watercolors, sketches and pastels.

DeGrazia tried to give the paintings to the University of Arizona, but the university turned them down because it had no space to hang them. He said he had rejected offers from other institutions because he wanted the paintings to stay in Arizona.

Ohio Perspective

Reagan barely made ballot

CINCINNATI (AP) — His appearance here was brief, and he never actually crossed the river into Ohio from the Greater Cincinnati Airport in nearby Kentucky.

But the appearance of Ronald Reagan, former California governor and now Republican presidential hopeful, at an airport rally last week marked his first personal campaign appearance in the Ohio presidential primary, an election which he almost missed completely.

Reagan did not decide to enter the Ohio contest until four days before the filing deadline. A frantic effort to gather supporting signatures on nominating petitions got him on the ballot statewide and in 15 of Ohio's 23 congressional districts.

Then, Reagan was an underdog opponent of an incumbent president. But, since then his campaign has blossomed, and he has defeated President Ford in a number of important primary states.

Reagan, 65, a movie star through much of his life, turned increasingly to politics in the 1960s and was a strong backer of the presidential bid of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., in 1964. He was governor of California from 1967 through 1974.

During his years as governor, he followed what he calls a "cut, squeeze and trim" policy in fiscal matters, and Reagan says he would follow the same policy as president.

"The country can't pretend it's having an economic recovery when it's based on deficit spending," Reagan said last month. "We're going into debt faster than in wartime."

Reagan says inflation is caused by deficit spending, "government-engineered expansion and preemption of the nation's money," and says the answer is a balanced budget. He says if the emphasis is on fighting recession with federal spending, the nation will be "right back into the inflationary spiral and eventual destruction of our system."

He acknowledged that "economic dislocation" would follow federal budget cuts but said it would be necessary to keep inflation from recurring.

"I know unemployment, of course, is politically unpopular," he said. "Certainly it's unpopular with the people who are unemployed. And you want to resolve that situation."

"But, if we are really to have a sound economy, you want to do it in such a way that you don't have to deal with inflation in another 18 months," Reagan said.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Give elderly room
with a view

DEAR ABBY: I just returned from having visited an elderly friend in a nursing home, and it was so depressing to see all those old people sitting in their rooms just staring at the bare walls I could have cried.

The windows were so high they couldn't look out unless they stood up, and most old people cannot stand for very long if they can stand at all!

Abby, why can't they build the windows in those homes low enough for people to look out of while sitting in their chairs? To see the leaves turn color the flowers blooming, the seasons changing, the people and automobiles pass, or even an occasional bird of squirrel would mean so much to them. It couldn't help but reduce their feeling of isolation and loneliness.

I hope you care enough to print this. SOMEONE WHO CARES
DEAR SOMEONE: I care, too. Thank you for a wonderful letter.

DEAR ABBY: I see so many letters in your column from wives worrying about the "other woman." The smart wife doesn't have to worry. She looks at it this way:

The male animal is an automobile with the key always in the ignition. Just because another woman comes along and wants to steal him even for a joyride she is no more entitled to keep him than the thief who steals an automobile.

The smart wife doesn't panic. She faces the matter forthrightly and takes positive action. After all, the key is in the ignition for HER use, too.

She should run the motor until her Don Juan is completely out of gas, and let the other woman wonder what happened when her lover registers "empty."

SECURE IN LONG ISLAND
DEAR SECURE: In defense of the male animal, I consider your metaphor a prime example of "reverse sexism."

But I'm sure the males won't object. DEAR ABBY: About the "NERVOUS WRECK" whose husband taught their 15-year-old son to mistreat his mother: The poor woman said, "Our preacher is very young and says he's had no training in marriage counseling, so he can't help me. Besides, he won't even talk to people who do not tithe, and my husband is one of them."

First, what kind of lily-livered ninnypoop can that preacher be? Ask him how he would have dealt with the Samaritan woman at the well of Sychar (John 4, N.T.)! The Savior this pastor claims to serve broke Jewish Jewish tradition by daring even to speak to the woman: I wonder if she "tithed"?

I further wonder at the attitude this hypocrite would take toward the woman taken in adultery (John 8: 1-11) or the widow who cast a mite into the treasury of the temple (Mark 12: 41-44)? That smart aleck needs to be "shepherding" a flock like I need a hole in my head, and you can see from this letterhead that I am a preacher.

Let's call a spade a spade. That hypocrite pastor should be brought to his knees.

Thanks, kid!

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Friday, May 21st, the 142nd day of 1976. There are 224 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1956, the first hydrogen bomb was exploded. The test by the United States took place at Bikini Atoll in the Pacific.

On this date:

In 1471, England's King Henry VI died in the Tower of London.

In 1881, Clara Barton founded the American Red Cross.

In 1927, Charles Lindbergh reached Paris, completing the first solo flight across the Atlantic.

In 1948, President Harry Truman sent Congress a special message proposing statehood for Alaska.

In 1967, more than 300 people died in a department store fire in Brussels, Belgium.

Ten years ago: Former President Dwight Eisenhower proposed changing the Atomic Energy Act to permit the sale of nuclear weapons and nuclear submarines to NATO nations.

Five years ago: An international expedition plagued by bad weather and other problems turned back from an attempt to scale the unconquered southwest face of Mount Everest.

One year ago: Terrorists shot and killed two U.S. Air Force officers in Iran's capital of Teheran.

Today's birthdays: Actor Robert Montgomery is 72. Novelist Harold Robbins is 60.

Thought for today: There is only one thing people like that is good for them: a good night's sleep — Ed Howe, American writer, 1853-1937.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the Continental Congress in Philadelphia named a special committee to publish secret intelligence reports on the treaties Britain had signed to obtain German mercenaries for use against the American Colonists.

Jacob Meets Esau

And Esau ran to meet him, and embraced him, and fell on his neck, and kissed him: and they wept. —Genesis 33: 4

Even though the angel with whom Jacob had wrestled all night had blessed him, Jacob was fearful of meeting his brother Esau who was on his way to meet him, accompanied by an army of four hundred men. After all, it had been over twenty years since they had parted and Esau's wrathful threats at the time still rung in Jacob's ears. But it was God's will that the brothers be reunited so, as Jacob saw Esau approaching, he bowed to the ground seven times. He had nothing to fear, however. Esau came forward, his arms outstretched, and embraced him. Both had done well over the years and time had healed all wounds. Thus the heart-warming reconciliation.

Religion of Carter 'mystifying'

NEW YORK (AP) — A lot of news analysts "are mystified" by Jimmy Carter's religious convictions, he says. "I don't think they doubt my sincerity, but they just don't understand. I don't make a big issue out of it, but neither do I hesitate to say publicly that the most important thing in my life is Jesus Christ."

That outspoken candor about it, a characteristic of the evangelical element in American Christianity, has seemed odd to some more reserved church adherents as well as to secular commentators, but it strikes a familiar chord in broad reaches of U.S. religious life.

"There is a hidden religious power base in American culture which our secular biases prevent many of us from noticing," writes Roman Catholic philosopher Michael Novak of Bayville, N.Y. "Jimmy Carter has found it." That extensive base is the doctrinally traditional, evangelical sector of the country's churches, and it's a big one, estimated at from 30 million to 40 million of the nation's 132 million church members, about half the 80 million Protestants, a major segment of all mainline denominations, and a dominant part of some of them.

Although the open religious style may seem strange to some Northerners, it's a common quality in the country's heartland churches, in the Far West, and particularly in the South, bastion of the nation's biggest Protestant body, the 12-million Southern Baptists, including Carter, who is regarded as the front-runner for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Jim Newton of Memphis, Tenn., editor of World Mission Journal, published by the Southern Baptist Brotherhood Commission of which Carter is a trustee, recently did a taped interview on a campaign plane trip with him about his religious attitudes.

Asked how he handled questions about being a "bornagain" Christian, he said, "It's very difficult for anyone who has not had that experience to understand.... Many of the newsmen who asked about this have never had this experience. Some of them are downright cynical about it. I think it worries some of them."

"I just explain my own spiritual experience openly and honestly. When I was first asked this question, I had to decide how I was going to respond with the same kind of openness and honesty to this question that I would to any question."

Consequently, he adds, he explains that although he had been a church member since childhood, about 10 years ago, in 1967, he sensed some void in his spiritual life, that he was

"missing something important," and began praying about it, discussing it with others, including his sister, evangelist Ruth Stapleton, on a long walk in the woods near his home.

"I had a personal spiritual experience that is difficult to explain to people who have never had such an experience," he went on. "I began to grow. I participated in several pioneer mission efforts (in areas where Southern Baptist work is relatively new) ... I became uniquely aware of the Holy Spirit as an integral part of my life. I learned that I cannot depend on myself for every need and to solve every problem ...

"I feel my limitations more intensely. I used to deny my limitations and conceal them. Now I am much easier in my relations with other people and with God." But he added that his frankness about his faith has puzzled some secular commentators. "Some have been quizzical, some doubtful, some defensive."

While other candidates, both in this campaign and in the past, have espoused religious faith, the difference often cited is that their expression of it usually is broadly amorphous, in contrast to Carter's "specificity" — a common trait of the evangelical wing of U.S. Christianity.

That religious style, however, often is caricatured in the Northeast by "stereotypes and false images" of literature, such as Sinclair Lewis'

Elmer Gantry, observed Rabbi Marc Tanenbaum, interreligious director of the American Jewish Committee.

Rep. McEwen guest speaker

The Gregg Street Church Youth Department will present its annual junior senior banquet at 7 p.m. Saturday, in the Church Fellowship Hall, U.S. 35 and Jamison Road.

This year's featured guest speaker will be Bob McEwen, Republican state representative for the 77th district. His speech will concern the theme, "I Love America."

A special bicentennial salute to America is also on the agenda. A musical and pictorial tribute is planned.

Such scenes as Neil Armstrong's walk on the moon, Casey at the bat, and the signing of the Declaration of Independence will be recreated during the program.

Tickets are available at a cost of $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12. Reservations may be made by calling the church office at 335-1079.

'Time to Run' showing set

A film entitled, "Time to Run", which is a World Wide Pictures Production, and features Ed Nelson, Randall Carver, and Barbara Sigel, with a special appearance by Billy Graham, will be shown at the Church of God, 610 Harrison St., at 7:30 p.m. on May 30.

This film is the story of a family in our contemporary society and the problems the family encounters. The family could be any family, and their story could be called everyone's story.

No admission will be charged and the public is welcome to the viewing. An offering will be taken to cover the expense of the film.

Recognition

As a part of a community-wide event, the Church of God observed "Senior Citizens' Month" by hosting a fellowship dinner after last Sunday's morning worship.

Songs and testimonies were a part of the agenda, and small gifts were presented to senior members of the congregation.

According to Mary L. Burns, secretary of the Church, "the meeting was climaxed by one of our senior citizens, Mr. Loving, receiving Christ back into his life after many years."

City youth graduates

The Circleville Bible College has announced that a Washington C.H. man will be the recipient of a bachelor of Theology degree during graduation ceremonies at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Gary Thompson, son of Mrs. Heber Shields, 1025 Dayton Ave., will be one of 30 students graduating.

SELECTING FABRICS

The fabric on upholstered furniture certainly does get the wear: Alas, there just aren't set rules to tell you how long a fabric will wear—because use of furniture varies with every family. But, some fabric "know-how" will help you when choosing fabric for new furniture or to recover a used item.

Check Weave — look at the fabric carefully—are the threads close together? That tells you how tightly woven the fabric is. The closer the threads, the firmer the fabric—and the more wear it will take. Pull the fabric gently in all directions. A tightly woven fabric won't "give" much. Loosely woven fabrics may show thread slippage and may stretch with wear. They tend to snag easily, too.

Check Fiber Content — another clue to fabric durability is fiber content, so look for labels. A fiber content label may not be on the furniture itself, but it should be on the dealer's fabric samples. You'll probably find the fiber's generic name plus some familiar brand names.

Some upholstery fabrics are blends of two or more fibers. The label will tell you how much of each fiber is present. The fiber used in the largest amount seems to dominate, so the fabric will probably have the qualities of that fiber.

Knowing the qualities of upholstery fibers will help you choose a fabric that fits your needs. No fiber is perfect—each fiber has strong and weak points.

For example, rayon and acetate are the fibers most often used in upholstery fabrics. They are popular because they color well, may have a high luster, and have a good hand—that means they are pleasant to touch. These fibers are fairly inexpensive, too. But—rayon and acetate fibers don't wear too well, they wrinkle, and may be hard to clean.

These natural fibers—cotton, linen, and wool—are often used in blends with other fibers to give strength. If these fibers are used alone, they make strong, long-wearing fabrics. However, these fabrics don't have much luster and may not be very colorfast in a print. Wool fabrics also tend to be a bit scratchy. All three fibers clean well.

Nylon is a very popular upholstery fiber because it is so strong and resistant to abrasion. Nylon is often used with weaker fibers for added strength. Fabrics of 100 per cent nylon wear well. They are available in many colors; the fabrics have some luster and are very easy to clean. But, nylon fabrics are expensive—they also tend to pull and create static electricity.

Olefin is another strong upholstery fiber. It's better known by such brand names as Herculan, Vectra, Marvess, and Durel. This fiber resists stains and is very easy to clean. But, the fiber is difficult to dye and printed colors tend to rub off. Olefin costs less than nylon and has little static electricity. Some olefin fabrics pull and seem sticky which makes lint hard to remove.

Another fiber used in some upholstery fabrics is polyester. This fiber is often combined with other fibers, usually cotton. Polyester adds strength and easy-care qualities to a fabric.

Check Durability Ratings — a new "durability code" may take some of the guess work out of upholstery fabric selection. Recently, the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers Association agreed on a uniform code for fabric performance. It's intended to help consumers choose upholstery fabrics suitable for particular uses.

Here's how the code works: 3 green h's (hhh) means the fabric is rated HEAVY DUTY — suitable for normal use by an active family with children. 3 blue m's (mmm) means the fabric is rated MEDIUM DUTY — suitable for normal use in adult households. 3 yellow l's (lll) means the fabric is rated LIGHT DUTY — suitable for use in adult households where furniture is selected for aesthetic value rather than performance. 3 Red d's (ddd) means the fabric with other ratings. Look for this durability information on upholstery and swatches, furniture furniture deck labels, and product tags. The standards are voluntary but should start showing up in most furniture showrooms soon.

Check Cleanability and Care Required — the wearing quality of an upholstery fabric also depends upon the care you give the fabric. Regular vacuuming, prompt stain removal, and professional cleaning as needed extend the life of the fabric. Check this column next week for information on the new cleanability code.

Zeta Upsilon chapter meets

Mrs. Steve Lewis was hostess when the Zeta Upsilon chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority members held a potluck supper and business meeting. Plans for the skating party and cake walk were made for 6:30 until 9:30 p.m. May 26 at Roller Haven. All proceeds will go to the Carol Lowe fund.

Programs were presented by Mrs. Warren Huber on "What Needs To Be Done?" and Mrs. Don Jones, "What's In It For Me?"

Notice

Mrs. Kathy Cool Taylor, former elementary education teacher and professor at Kentucky Christian College, Grayson, Ky., is active with the youth group and choir director at the Steubenville Church of Christ, not a youth minister as formerly reported to The R-H. Mrs. Taylor was guest speaker at the Mother-Daughter banquet at the South Side Church of Christ.

Grandmothers go 'traveling'

The Fayette Grandmothers traveled to Bellefontaine this week where they met a member of the club, Mrs. William LeVan, at her Town House Home, and were guests at the Black Forest Holiday Inn. A brief business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Walter Taylor, with devotions by Mrs. Robert Harper, chaplain.

The group will meet June 17 at the home of Mrs. Harold Holland in Xenia. Those making the trip to the LeVan home were Mrs. Louis Thomson, Mrs. Bernard Eiselenstein, Mrs. Lee Cleland, Mrs. Marvene Deskins, Mrs. Harper, and Mrs. Taylor.

PRESENTS CRIB — Pictured above is the new crib and mattress that the Eagles Ladies Auxiliary no. 423 purchased for Fayette Memorial Hospital. Earning of funds, which allowed these women to purchase the bed, which will be used in the new pediatric area, has been one of their major projects to date, although they contribute to various organizations. The Ladies Auxiliary raises funds for such projects through bake sales, rummage sales, and from bingo. Pictured behind the bed are R.L. Kunz, hospital administrator; Teresa Combs, treasurer of the auxiliary; Kathryn Joslin, past president of the auxiliary, and Agnes Ola Wain, trustee of the auxiliary.

'Rural Life Sunday' observed at Madison Mills Church

Those introduced were the Merry Maidens 4-H Club — Ellen Delay, Lavonne Melvin and Marilyn, Marey, advisers; Country Cooks 4-H Club with Jerry Pendleton, advisor; Fayette Champs 4-H-Jerry Pendleton, advisor; Lucky Leaf Livestock 4-H Bill Brust and Alvin Johnson, advisers; Posy Garden Club—Mrs. Jess Schlichter, president; Madison Goodwill Grange—Gary Hidy, Worthy Master; Farm Bureau Council—Leland Dorn, chairman; and Miami Trace Future Farmers of America—Charles Andrews and William Diley, advisers.

In keeping with the Rural Life theme, Rev. Messmer's message pertained to country living. The church choir sang "Love Was When," and participating in the dedication service were Rhonda Dean, Doug Johnson, Micki Swyers, Don Melvin and Cynthia Blue. These youth presented God's altar with soil, water, seed, air, and the sower.

noon. The Posy Garden Club provided the floral arrangements for the tables. Martha Stamer, June Dorn, Ellen Delay, Marsha Swyers, and Linda Johnson assisted with hospitalities.

David Dorn was Master of Ceremonies for the afternoon program. He gave the Welcome and introduced Brenda Delay, who sang "Love is Like a Butterfly." Mrs. Ethel Wilson presented a piano solo, "Rock of Ages," Mrs. Esther Barrett told of Farm Bureau Council activities, Cheryl Blue, who sang "The House I Live In," Mark Ford, a piano solo "El Burrito," Fred Melvin, Miami Trace FFA activities, Caren Mowery, Lori Hollar, Jodi and Kathy Hanawalt, a quartet who sang "I Want to Teach the World to Sing," Mrs. Grace Alleman who gave the History of the Grange, Jay Johnson, who told of activities with the Lucky Leaf Livestock 4-H Club, Coleen Blue, a piano solo "I Write the Songs," Jodi Hanawalt, Country Cooks 4-H Club activities, Mrs. Leone Benner who gave several humorous readings, Pam Hollar, Merry Maidens 4-H Club, Linda Johnson gave the closing remarks and Rev. Messmer the Benediction.

Annual Men and Women's Day planned at Rodgers AME Church

Men and Women's Day will be observed Sunday at Rodgers Chapel AME Church 325 N. Main St., Washington C.H.

The public is invited to attend the annual observance at the church, when at the 11 a.m. worship service the Men's guest speaker will be Coach Jackson of Dunbar High School, Dayton. Music will be provided by the Men's Chorus.

At 3:30 p.m. Women's Day will be observed when Mrs. Patricia Lewis of Detroit, Mich., a well-known speaker and singer, will be present. Additional soloists will be Mrs. Delores Bell of the Southfield Missionary Baptist Church, Columbus, and the Young People's Department Singers of Quinn Chapel ME Church in Wilmington.

Women hold membership tea

A membership tea sponsored by the United Methodist Women was held in the Madison Mills United Methodist Church Wednesday evening. Organ and piano music was provided by Mrs. Paul Huff and Mrs. Steve Huff preceding the opening of the meeting. Mrs. Harold King presided at the guest book. Each honored guest was presented with a flower.

Mrs. Raymond Anderson, president, welcomed all those present. Mrs. Ethel Sullivan, president of the Big Plain United Methodist Church Women, told of some of the various activities of the UMW in her church.

Mrs. Carl Gerhard, president of the Columbus South District UMW, and Mrs. Torrey Kaatz, district chairman of Program Resources, presented a very informative skit entitled, "Millie and Gertie." The skit explained the workings of the UMW. Mrs. Anderson read "A Psalm for Women Who Serve the Lord," an excerpt from the book.

banquet set May 24

The recent meeting of the Jeffersonville Jaycee Wives took place in the home of Mrs. Ben Allen, when members were told of the potluck supper and awards banquet to be held May 24 at 6:30 p.m. in the Lions Club building in Jeffersonville. Each lady is to bring a meat dish and a side dish.

Members who were present were Mrs. Robert D. Coe, Mrs. Robert Steele, Mrs. Larry Hunt, Mrs. Johnnie Bobbitt, Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Paul L. McDaniel.

Fort Meigs, built under orders of Gen. Harrison in 1813 opposite the site of Maumee, Ohio, was besieged by the British and Indians under Tecumseh. A party of Kentuckians, charging from the fort, ran into an ambush and were slain with such cruelty it led Tecumseh to rebuke the Indians.

CALENDAR

FRIDAY, MAY 21

Spring Concert at 8 p.m. in Washington Middle School by vocal department of Washington schools. Adults—$1, and students, 50 cents.

Sunnyside Willing Workers meet at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Homer Carr.

Garden Club makes plantings

Members of the Washington Garden Club planted red and white cascade petunias, geraniums, lobelia and sinca at the two Ward Dead Memorial Sites and the Morris Sharpe Memorial. Those helping with the plantings were Mrs. Jean T. Craig, Mrs. Herbert Dawes, Mrs. Eugene Cook, Mrs. T.N. Willis, Mrs. Eulalia Wade, Mrs. Donald Meredith and Mrs. Robert Wilson.

On Wednesday morning, members of the Washington Garden Club who planted the two tree boxes at the Court House were Mrs. Dale Merritt, Mrs. Herbert Dawes and Mrs. Robert Wilson. They also planted the big circular bed at the Mahan Building at the Fayette County Fairground, with the same kinds of flowers, red, white and blue for the Bicentennial year.

Wilson Circle

theme, 'Mother'

Wilson Circle of Grace United Methodist Church met with Mrs. Hugh Payton as hostess. Mrs. Sam Wilson, circle leader, opened with the reading of "Mother." Mrs. Dwight Morner read devotions and this consisted of a group of articles regarding "Mother."

Miss Marian Moore reported on "Church Day."

Mrs. Denzil Leggett presented the former Pitzer sisters, now Mrs. Kenneth Miller, Mrs. Jack Flax and Mrs. Damon Merritt, who presented a musical program of a Bicentennial theme, in readings and songs.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Frank Dill, Mrs. William Lucas and Miss Janet Vance. The June meeting with Mrs. Richard Ware will feature a picnic.

Senior Citizens attend Tea for 80-year olds

Several members of the Senior Citizens of 723 Delaware St., attended the Tea for 80 year-olds or older, sponsored each year by the F and R Lazarus Company for all citizens. The Tea took place in the Assembly Hall with music by Harry Stull at the piano followed by the Golden Airs, the Senior Citizens Orchestra until 1:30 p.m., when Mr. Roy Briscoe of WBNS TV acted as Master of Ceremonies. He introduced the store management, who in turn extended greetings to all.

The Caldwells, world travelers, then entertained and presented "The Spirit of 76." There was singing and dancing, and refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Each present was also presented a very lovely gift.

Those attending from Washington C.H. were Mrs. Elva Horney, Mrs. Eulalia Wade, Mrs. Charlotte Timmons, Mrs. Verna Tottle, Mrs. Helen Thornton, Mrs. Verna Grim, Mrs. Louise Drake, Mrs. Florence Porter, Mrs. Mabel McCoy, Mrs. Grace Shaper, Emmitt Shaper, James Wackman and Russell Foucher.

Airplane charter business flourishes

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A round-trip ticket from here to London on a regularly scheduled commercial airliner costs between $666 and $806, depending on the time of year. A charter flight might cost as little as $250.

It is because of this vast price differential that so many Americans are expected to travel by charter this year. About 4.5 million passengers went that way in 1974, and 5.5 million in 1975.

This year, with the additional impetus of a recovering economy and a regulatory change, some charter flight officials are predicting the number of passengers will grow to nearly nine million.

Henry Huff, president of Trans International Airlines estimates that 25 per cent of all transatlantic air travel this summer will be by charter flights, compared to about 5 per cent a decade ago.

"Charter tours are cheaper than individual travel because they operate on the basic economic principle that wholesale is cheaper than retail," said Huff, whose company, based in Oakland, Calif., is the largest in the business.

The new ruling by the Civil Aeronautics Board now makes charter flights available to many millions of Americans who once were barred by government restrictions.

In the past a vacationer needed to belong to a "nontravel" organization.

Now the tours are open to almost anyone who has the cash, because the CAB has created a new group tour called the one-stop charter, or OTC.

To take part in an OTC flight to a foreign country an individual merely signs up through a travel agent at least 30 days before departure and agrees to spend at least $15 a day on hotel accommodations. Cutoff on domestic flights is 15 days.

A tour operator, who is in effect an independent travel wholesaler, "rents" an entire aircraft for a flight or series of flights to a tourist destination. At the same time he books a large number of rooms in one or several hotels. He then marks up a "travel package" which is sold to the public through retail travel agents, of whom there are about 12,000 in the United States. In many instances the package includes meals, sight-seeing and other services.

In most instances almost every seat on the charter plane is sold, compared with only about 50 per cent of seats on scheduled flights, thus making them economically more efficient. Bulk purchasing of meals and rooms does the rest.

As a result, Huff says, a 12-day tour to Hong Kong from East Coast cities, including round-trip air transportation, accommodations at a luxury hotel, breakfasts and sightseeing, costs $699. An individual traveling alone might pay $1,600 for air fare alone.

Meals and in-flight services on charter flights are about the same as those offered in economy class on scheduled service. The types of hotels vary, depending on the cost of the tour.

One of the biggest drawbacks is the lack of flexibility, since members of the group must leave and return on specified dates, thus preventing changes of plane en route.

The other brothers were George and Thomas, neither of whom was regarded with the hate that marked Simon and James.

Students form publishing house

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Students at Harvard College, seeking a better chance for a job after graduation, have formed their own publishing house.

"Being a young writer and trying to get into publishing can be frustrating," said John Whitman, a senior from Bethesda, Md., and editorial chairman of The Undergraduate Press. "There is no real set-out route to get into the field of publishing."

Whitman and three other undergraduates were chosen for the executive board in a competition last spring. Another competition now under way is aimed at getting 20 new members.

The Undergraduate Press is chartered as a regular campus organization. Students receive no course credit for their work.

The Press hopes to publish its first three books next fall.

They are planning: "Is There Life After Harvard?" a guide to job hunting and career planning; a book on French mannerisms and gestures, and an anthology of short prose.

The first was written by Harvard students, assisted by members of the staff of Harvard's Office of Career Services and Off-Campus Learning. Text of the French book is by Laurence C. Wylie, professor of French civilization, and photographs are by Rick Stafford, university photographer.

The anthology will contain work by Harvard undergraduates and by college graduates living in the Boston-Cambridge area.

"Our business people are looking around for small presses" to print the books, Whitman said.

Staffers also are looking into distributing firms, although some distribution will be done by the Harvard University Press, which also provided some of the original financing.

"Ultimately, we'd like to set up a college network" to distribute the books, Whitman said. That project would involve getting students at other universities to interest their university bookstores in selling the books.

Ford studies school busing turnabout

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, denying that his offensive against court-ordered school busing is connected with upcoming primary elections, is considering ways to use federal money to help school districts avoid extensive busing, administration sources say.

Ford is also considering seeking new legislation as part of "a whole range of approaches" to limit the use of busing as a desegregation tool, according to a White House source.

The source declined to give details on how federal funds could be used to reduce busing ordered by federal courts.

Though officials are reviewing administrative and legislative proposals to curb busing, the first action in the Ford campaign will come on the judicial front if Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi decides to use the Boston school case as a vehicle for seeking new Supreme Court guidelines on busing.

Levi was to explain his views on government intervention in the Boston case at a meeting with Ford this afternoon. Justice Department spokesman Robert Havel said Levi had reached no decision as of late Thursday and that he may not do so until after the session with Ford.

Meeting with a group of visiting reporters from Kentucky on Thursday, Ford suggested the test case could even be made in Louisville, where busing orders led to racial unrest last fall.

Ford's decision to seek alternatives to busing became known as he prepared for a Republican primary campaign in Kentucky where he is considered to be well behind challenger Ronald Reagan in the drive for the state's 37 delegates.

Wilmington businesses offer seniors discounts

WILMINGTON — Dorothy Horney, Clinton County coordinator for the Golden Buckeye Program, said today that 25 businesses in Wilmington and Blancheater have agreed to participate in the program.

"In addition to the businesses signed," Mrs. Horney said, "there are others which are considering signing and others yet to be contacted."

She said that since the program began here early this month, she has not had time to contact all of Wilmington and Blancheater businesses, nor to make any contacts in the smaller villages.

The Golden Buckeye is a program designed to encourage private retail and service establishments to offer discounts to senior citizens.

Mrs. Horney explained that the program will enable people over 65 to increase their buying power, without increasing their income.

She said businesses already signed to participate cover a broad range, including discounts on labor on car repair, meats, clothing, hobby supplies, drugs, and grooming.

State recreational facilities are participating, by allowing as much as 50 per cent discounts on golf courses and lodges, on certain dates.

Mrs. Horney said Wilmington businesses agreeing to participate and the per cent of the discount offered are:

Campbell's Breakfast Club, 102 E. Sugartree St., 5 per cent; Cassano Pizza and Seafood, Wilmington Plaza Shopping Center, 10 per cent; Clinton Art Craft, 14 N. South St., 10 per cent; De Mars, 28 W. Main St., 10 per cent on regular price merchandise; Denver House, 81 W. Main St., 10 per cent on regular price merchandise; and Farquhar Grocery, 97 N. South St., 10 per cent on meats on Tuesday.

Also, Foster's Department Stores, Wilmington Plaza Shopping Center, 10 per cent on regular price merchandise at both the men's and boy's store and the women's and girl's store; Gem Shop, 44 W. Main St., 10 per cent; Gladys Beauty Salon, 36 E. Locust St., 10 per cent on Tuesdays and Wednesdays; and Hiatt Jewelers, 34 N. South St., 10 per cent.

Also, Joyce's Fashions, 41 W. Main St., 10 per cent; Maher's Insulating, 1079 SR 134 S, 10 per cent on personal homes; Mary of Stephens Beauty Salon, 56 W. Main St., 10 per cent on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday; One Hour Martinizing, 103 E. Sugartree St., 10 per cent; S. & R Shoes, 35 N. South St., 10 per cent; and Superior Cleaning and Carpet, 76 N. South St., 10 per cent.

Also, Snyder's Shoes, 31 E. Locust St., 10 per cent on shoe repair; Texaco Service Station, SR 73 and I-71, 5 per cent on labor; and White's Travel Trailer Sales, 2076 US 68 S, 10 per cent on camping supplies.

Mrs. Horney said Blancheater businesses signed to participate are: Dorsey Rexall Drugs, 103 E. Main St., 10 per cent on prescription and Rexall merchandise only; Gene El Restaurant 107 E. Main St., 10 per cent; Michaelson & Son (Blancheater Five and 10 cent Store), 102 E. Main St., 10 per cent; N. L. Jewelry, 113 S. Broadway, 10 per cent; Walker's Prescription Shoppe, Main and Broadway, 10 per cent on prescriptions; and Western Auto Association Store, 118 S. Broadway, 10 per cent.

Utah transit riders shares in low fares

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — As other cities raise fares to keep mass transit systems going, the Utah Transit Authority says its 15-cent rides, backed by a sales tax, have lured riders back to its buses.

The secret of the UTA success lies in taxpayer approval in late 1974 of a 1/4-cent sales tax and an infusion, in less than two years, of about $20 million in federal funds.

The rise in ridership follows the lowering of fares to 15 cents for adults, which UTA officials say is the lowest general bus fare they know about anywhere in the United States.

One transportation planner who has had a hand in the growth says arrival of 203 more buses in the coming weeks will relieve the crowded, standing-room-only conditions of commuter hours.

"During the peak riding time now, a lot of people are sticking with their cars because there is standing room only on the buses," he says.

The new popularity of riding the bus in Salt Lake, Weber and Davis counties — with total population of about 760,000 — wasn't an overnight affair.

Two years ago, the bus system was limping along with an annual ridership of 4.4 million, higher than some previous years, but below the 5 million of 1966. The UTA's budget then received a subsidy from a state liquor tax fund.

By contrast, ridership last year was up to 8 million and estimates this year are for 14 million.

UTA general manager John A. Rankin points to long-range planning, the sales-tax subsidy and the low fares for saving the transportation line he's headed since 1970.

"The day of a bus system making it on its own is over in this country and probably everywhere in the world," says Rankin, known to his associates as a no-nonsense administrator who frequently hops a bus to check flaws in scheduling and other irritants to customers.

When he took over the UTA, the system covered only half of Salt Lake County and had 63 vehicles. When new buses, purchased with federal grants and local matching funds, are put on the routes this summer, there will be 360 buses.

The routes will cover a distance, north to south, of about 65 miles, and a passenger can cover that distance for 60 cents, although most rides in the system are only 15 cents.

A ride within two of the system's five zones will cost you only 15 cents, if you're an adult. Children, the elderly and the handicapped ride for a dime, but the elderly can ride free during off-peak hours.

A study indicates one of four elderly riders still pays 10 cents at all hours.

Low fares weren't accepted immediately in all three counties. Salt Lake and Weber voters adopted the sales tax beginning in 1975 and in exchange got fares dropped from 25 cents to the new 15 cents, with an additional 10-cent zone charge eliminated for most riders. That proved so popular that Davis County residents went along this year.

With a guaranteed income from the sales tax, the system went to the Urban Mass Transportation Administration and obtained about $20 million on an 80-to-20 matching basis. The bus authority ordered new buses, added routes and extended service to 11 p.m. in some areas and limited service on weekends and holidays.

The UTA's activities have attracted some criticism. State Rep. Samuel S. Taylor, a Salt Lake City Democrat, argues the rides are not low-fare. They are simply prepaid, he says, and he wants all fares dropped.

He also criticizes UTA promotional advertising, saying: "They're paying for ads when the press will give them publicity at no cost."

Consumers still find frustration

NEW YORK (AP) — The official statistics show that savings and loan associations have record amounts of money to lend, but a builder in upstate New York complains he can't make sales because his customers can't get mortgages.

"The 25 largest lenders around here haven't made more than a few mortgages in the past few months," he said. "You ask any of the real estate people around here and they'll tell you the same thing."

This is but one example of an American who feels he hasn't as yet participated in the economic recovery. You can find his like in a wide variety of pursuits, including unskilled workers and stock market investors.

As always, economic conditions vary geographically, and they vary also among occupations, age groups and industries, and even by sex. But some people seem to feel the exceptions are more common this year.

One explanation seems to be that some of the problem areas are very close to the basic needs of people.

While the employment situation is improving, for example, more than seven million Americans can't find jobs, and while consumer prices in general have been rising less slowly, the price of a new house has rocketed ahead.

Ironically, the news about a recovering economy seems to make the contrast even worse because it tends to raise expectations. The discouraged worker re-enters the labor force, only to find he can't find a job. The young couple, tired of renting, decides to buy — and finds the price too high.

The typical new single-family dwelling now is estimated to cost $43,700 — far beyond the ability of a couple with gross income of $13,000. And the initial cost is only part of the story; operating expenses also are rising.

The frustration of the homeseeker nevertheless is hardly that of the job-seeker who reads about the recovery and then finds it doesn't apply to him.

Many thousands of these people are now counted as unemployed for the first time in a year. That is, they were listed before as discouraged workers — those who had given up looking — and thus not counted in the labor force.

Now that their hopes are up but their opportunities aren't, these sadder of the sad have ascended into the ranks of the officially unemployed. At least they are now counted, if they are not included in the recovery.

Meanwhile, many Americans listen to some monetary and fiscal officials proclaim that the recovery is threatening to get out of hand and therefore needs to be restrained. They can hardly be encouraged.

No proliferation of numbers can convince the discouraged or the non-participant. As does everyone else, they believe that recovery begins with them.

Violence continues to plague Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli troops man the castle-like walls of Jerusalem, firing tear gas at roving demonstrators. Black smoke hangs over Arab towns, where swarms of children light protest bonfires of oil-soaked tires.

Soldiers patrol in armored cars, firing warning shots skyward. Arab students pelt them with stones and chant: "In blood and fire we will redeem our land."

Arab demonstrations and clashes with Israeli troops have become almost daily rituals in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River.

Ten Palestinian Arabs have died in four months of riots, and Israel is worried about the backlash.

To reduce the bloodshed, the Israeli Ministry of Defense has issued tear gas to troops accustomed to only live ammunition and is considering the use of rubber bullets.

Israeli officials admit that the clashes have stirred growing sympathy for the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) among the West Bank's 670,000 Arabs. But authoritative sources concede there is no sign that the demonstrations have been fomented by the PLO.

The demonstrations began last autumn and intensified in February when a court ruling, later repealed, permitted Jews to worship at religious sites revered by both Moslems and Jews but in Moslem zones.

Arabs accuse the Jews of trying to take over their mosques on the holy Temple Mount in Jerusalem, and they are angry at Jewish settlements being built on the West Bank.

The Israeli government is sensitive about the demonstrations damaging its image abroad, with descriptions and photos of Israeli troops pounding and shooting at demonstrators.

Officials point out that throughout the disturbances, the bridges across the River Jordan have been left open for Arab travelers. Some 60,000 Arabs commute daily to work in Israel, and life in the fields and olive groves has been untouched by the violence in the towns.

The military command has made no apologies for the demonstrators killed by Israeli gunfire, except in the case of a 17-year-old girl shot in Nablus. She was the distant relative of a former prime minister of Jordan and a member of an influential family.

The army said she was "a completely innocent girl" and the shooting was an accident.

Investigating the shooting, the chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur, questioned only the sergeant who fired the bullet, and did not interview Arab neighbors who claimed the girl was deliberately shot.

Israeli and Arab versions of almost every death have conflicted.

Military sources admitted that two of the Arabs were beaten before they died.

None of Israel's political parties so far has demanded an investigation into the shootings.

And the Israelis have made no move to soothe Arab fears of more Jewish homesteads being built in the West Bank, where 25 Israeli settlements now stand.

Showers continue in plains

By The Associated Press

Showers and thunderstorms continued late Thursday from the high plains of west Texas and eastern New Mexico into western Nebraska. More thunderstorms extended from South Dakota into southwest Minnesota and northwest Iowa.

Widely scattered showers and thunderstorms dotted the southern Rockies and southern Plateau.

Most of the rain ended in the Northeast, except for scattered showers and thundershowers and some drizzle from east-central Ohio through Pennsylvania and New Jersey. There were also a few showers Thursday along the Texas Gulf Coast.

Portions of Pennsylvania and western New York State had locally dense fog overnight. Fair skies were generally restricted to an area from the eastern portion of the central Plains through the mid and lower Mississippi Valley and eastward to the mid and south Atlantic Coast.

Skies were also mostly fair overnight over the Pacific Northwest.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 34 at Plattsburg, N.Y., to 81 at Phoenix, Ariz.

Pick-your-own fruit booming

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Consumers will have more opportunity to pick their fruits and vegetables on the farm this year, the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation says.

A trend is increasing among farmers, especially strawberry growers, to permit customers to pick their own produce—and save money in the process, said Reed Varian of the farm markets division.

"Pick-your-own allows the customer the best chance to get a full of good berries at a price 15 to 20 per cent lower than retail," said Varian.

15-year-old girl's face rebuilt

NEW YORK (AP) — Next time Ida Hays looks in a mirror, she won't recognize herself. Her hair is gone, her eyes are a bit black and blue. But it's likely Ida will scarcely notice or even care about the temporary embarrassment.

Her eyes will be more than an inch closer together than when she last saw her face; they're the normal distance apart, rather than grotesquely separated. And her nose has been reshaped.

Surgeons performed the facial feats Wednesday in an eight-hour operation, correcting the congenital disfigurement that had put the 15-year-old Ida's eyes twice as far apart as normal — they looked to be at her ears. Her tragic facial appearance was compounded by too wide a nose and a protruding lower jaw.

"Everything went well. We have high hopes of good improvement," said Dr. John Marquis Converse, head of a team of specialists at the Institute for Reconstructive Plastic Surgery who performed Ida's operation at the New York University Hospital.

"It was the most complicated case we've ever had" of its type, and it marked the largest movement yet achieved in placing far-separated eyes closer together, he said.

Ida wasn't transformed into a great beauty, the plastic surgeon said, but her appearance should be greatly improved.

Doctors say it will be about five days before Ida can take a look at the new Ida. She's under intensive care at a hospital with only the tip of her nose and her mouth visible through the bandages.

The surgery to redesign Ida's face was indeed complicated.

First, it involved removing the fore part of her skull, then reaching in to tilt her brain up and backward a bit to provide surgical working room behind her forehead. A drug, mannitol, helped make this possible by shrinking the brain temporarily.

Then surgeons cut out a piece of bone in the center of her face, creating an empty space into which the orbits — the round openings in the skull that contain the eyes — could be pushed closer together after they had been cut free for movement.

Moving the bone orbits inward left a space between them and Ida's temples. So the surgeons took pieces of Ida's hip-bone to form wedges filling in those gaps. Her facial skeleton was whole again, but her eyes had moved toward one another.

Her hometown of La Grande, Ore.,

population 11,000, raised money to help her once medical specialists established that she might benefit from reconstructive surgery. Contributions amounted to $10,000.

Ida's father, Bill Hays, said the "experience could make a very special person out of her. She had to be in some torment in growing up, and her understanding can help her help other people. That's the way she's planned her education, so she can help handicapped people."

Man finally gets degree

TIFFIN, Ohio (AP) — On his way to a college degree, Edward J. Handwerk of Orrville got sidetracked by a war—World War I.

It took him 58 years to get back, but Sunday, at the age of 81, Handwerk graduates from Heidelberg College.

Handwerk was 11 hours short of graduation in the fall of 1917 when he entered the Army.

He says financial problems prevented his return, but last summer he began finishing his studies, completing his work at Heidelberg.

Community Ed. report

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE AREA

The Fayette County Commissioners signed a proclamation Monday declaring May as "Bicycle Month". Community Education is doing its part in the celebration by performing its annual bicycle safety check at the city schools. The County Extension Office is performing the same type of check at some of the county schools. The number of bicycles being checked by Community Education is down a little this year as the Optimist Club held its safety check and rodeo earlier in the month. Of the bicycles checked, the biggest offense is the lack of a bicycle license. These licenses are obtained at the City Building and are well worth the small fee, especially if your bicycle is stolen or lost. There have been many cases where youngsters have gotten their bikes back because they had them registered.

The Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority and their Bike Ride for St. Jude Children's Hospital ends the Bicycle Month activities. Their ride is set for Sunday and will begin their festivities at 2 p.m. at the Huntington Bank parking lot. We hope that you will support the people making the 20-mile ride for it is a very worthy cause.

There are a couple of other events happening this weekend. James Francis Patrick O'Neill, of Offsides fame, will be here Saturday afternoon to be the auctioneer for DEAF Inc. and their sale at the Kroger's parking lot. Secondly, there will be a gymnastics show by the youngsters at the Washington Middle School on Saturday evening. The show will be in the gym and starts at 7 p.m.

Community Education is going to have a number of activities this summer. The main activity will be the recreation programs in conjunction with City Recreation Board and the County Extension Office. There will also be lessons in golf and tennis, a women's exercise class, and some academic courses. Watch this article for more information each week

Community play begins rehearsals

The "Spirit of '76" community bicentennial musical company held a production staff meeting this week to discuss lighting and set design.

Dance and choral rehearsals were also begun. Dancers are practicing at Hidy Glass, CCC Highway-W, and choral rehearsals will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday in the First Presbyterian Church at Market and Hinde streets.

Assistance is needed for the sewing of costumes, and anyone interested may contact Mrs. Wanda McMurray at 335-3560.

AUDITIONS for three Wilmington College productions will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in Boyd Auditorium on the campus.

The plays to be presented this summer include "1776", "Tom Sawyer", and "Last of the Red Hot Lovers".

Steven Haines, director for "1776" says he will need a large number of adult men to cast the musical.

Children's auditions will be held at 4 p.m. daily. Adults may audition at 7 p.m., and those who seek singing roles should bring a prepared song.

The Indians in the early frontier days of Ohio were never as numerous as many supposed, perhaps as many as 15,000 of which only 3,000 might have been fighting braves. But their guerrilla type of warfare kept the frontier in a turmoil for many decades.

Windshield damaged by thrown rock

A reported $185 in damage was sustained to the windshield of a car Thursday when it was allegedly struck by a rock.

Alan Witherspoon, 18, of 606 Charlotte Court, told Washington C.H. police officers that as he was driving south on High Street at 8 p.m. Thursday a juvenile threw a rock at his car and it damaged the windshield. The incident occurred near Belle Aire Elementary School. Witherspoon reportedly identified the subject who threw the rock, although no charges have yet been filed.

Esta Mustain, 1203 S. Fayette St., returned home Thursday after an absence of over two weeks, and found her house ransacked, she told police officers. The rear door had been pried open.

Lisa D. Ginn, aged nine, of 1300

Dayton Ave., was riding her bicycle on Jupiter Street sometime Thursday when it struck a parked car, and she was thrown to the pavement. She was injured, but not treated at the time.

Windmills to be power source

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tens of thousands of giant windmills could supply as much as 18 per cent of the nation's energy needs by 1995, far more than previously estimated, a federally sponsored study says.

Spinning silently in huge circles, wing-like blades as long as football fields could drive generators producing a total electrical output equivalent to 2 billion barrels of oil per year, the report said.

Spokesmen for Lockheed-California Co., prime contractor on the study presented at an energy symposium Wednesday, said past estimates put the contribution of solar energy — of which wind energy is a form — at only 2 to 3 per cent by 1995.

The report, sponsored by the federal Energy Research and Development

Administration, envisions 54,000 windmills placed in remote, out-of-sight locations mainly in the Western United States.

Ugo Coty, co-author of the study, said the year-long investigation was more thorough in its search for windy areas than any previous study.

About 87,000 reports from 768 weather stations were surveyed, he said. The team concluded that 20,000 square miles of open land is available and constantly windy enough for wind turbines. An average wind speed of about 16 miles per hour is required if a windmill is to be practical, said Coty.

Production of B1 bomber postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — After voting to delay production of the controversial B1 bomber, the Senate now faces decisions on whether to approve other weapons requested by the Pentagon. Votes are expected Monday on proposals to deny $322 million for production of 60 additional Minuteman III missiles and to delay building of additional Airborne Warning and Control System aircraft until NATO decides to buy the AWACS for European defense.

Reversing an earlier decision by the House, the Senate Thursday voted 44 to 37 to delay production of the B1 bomber until next Feb. 1, which is 12 days after the next presidential inauguration. Production of the first of a 244-bomber fleet could then proceed only if the president certified that it is in the national interest.

Sen. John Culver, D-Iowa, sponsor of the delaying amendment, said the proposal would allow "the next president" to review completed test data on the B1 and make a judgment "free of election year politics."

The House voted 210-177 on April 8 against a similar proposal to defer spending $860 million in B1 production money until Feb. 1.

The issue now goes to a House-Senate conference and will be subject to final votes in both chambers.

After the Senate vote, Pentagon spokesman William Greener said, "It was a shame that almost one-fifth of the Senate was not present to participate in the vote."

Culver said the Pentagon had already decided to begin B1 production to replace the aging U.S. fleet of B52 bombers, although tests of prototypes are only about half completed and costs continue to mount.

Estimating the cost of the B1 program at $21.6 billion, Culver argued that Congress would be "buying a pig in the poke" in approving production before tests are completed and alternatives are reviewed.

Before agreeing to delay the B1 program, the Senate voted 48-33 to turn down an amendment by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., to kill the B1 by denying all funding.

Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee defended the B1 as an essential part of the nation's "triad" of strategic bombers, land and sea-based missiles

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who has piloted a B1 test model, supports production of the supersonic aircraft, but said he would rather see the program killed outright than delayed.

He said B1 workers will face layoffs and begin quitting their jobs if Washington signals "we're not going to buy this plane or that we're going to delay four, five, or six months."

lay four, five, or six months.

READY FOR ACTION — In front of the Washington Area City Chamber of Commerce building, 131 S. Main St., stand John Luchat, president of the chamber, Dave Six, Bill Mathison, and Bucky Dorfard, captains of the annual membership drive teams, and Dick Kilian, executive vice president of the chamber. The drive for new members is now underway, and the captains are ready to contact anyone who is interested.

Chamber of Commerce membership campaign

Members of the Washington Area City Chamber of Commerce are currently engaged in their annual membership campaign. Bucky Dumford, Dave Six and Bill Mathison are serving as captains of teams, in which approximately 50 Chamber persons are involved, who are responsible for canvassing particular areas.

Dumford's team has been soliciting members in the agricultural sector of the community, while Dave Six and his group visits all the local retail and professional persons who might want to renew their membership or join the chamber for the first time.

Bill Mathison's team has been covering the industrial area. According to Chamber President,

Car demolished, minor injury

A Fayette County man was injured, a utility pole was broken, and two sign posts were damaged following a Friday accident, Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported.

A car driven by Walter H. Steinhauer, 60, of Marysville, was travelling north-west on U.S. 35, when it ran off the right side of the road at the junction with the Camp Grove Road. The car struck two sign posts, broke a utility pole, and was severely damaged after the 12:25 a.m. Friday accident. Steinhauer was injured, but not treated at the time.

Backing from a space in the Seaway

John Lachat, the chamber has been holding an annual membership since 1941. "So far we have had a total of 394 membership renewals and we are hoping to obtain 50 new members."

The drive, which is lasting for 11 days, will end on May 28. Lachat said that if anyone was interested in becoming a chamber member, they could call 335-0761 and ask for Dick Kilian, who is the executive vice president of the chamber.

The memberships are good for one year and will commence on July 1, 1976.

Lachat also announced that the chamber's annual dinner-meeting will be held on June 23 at the Mahan Building with guest speaker, Eldon Miller, the new basketball coach at Ohio State.

Ohio State.

discount store parking lot, a car driven by Betty C. Patton, 40, of Jeffersonville, reportedly struck a parked car belonging to Kimberly A. Whited, 22, of 238 Ohio Ave. There was slight damage to the Patton car and moderate damage to the Whited car as a result of the 2:25 p.m. Thursday accident.

Senior citizens hall of fame arrangements now completed

Fayette County residents are invited to attend the first annual Senior Citizens Hall of Fame banquet to be held on Wednesday, June 9, at the Rhodes Center in Columbus, Ohio.

Chuck White, from WBNS-TV, till be emcee for the day, with activities beginning at 12 a.m. when lunch will be served. Following this, the Olivedale Senior Citizen Chorus, of Lancaster, will entertain and introduction of guests and those who have won prizes will be announced by Martin Janis, executive director of the Ohio Commission on Aging. The Goldenaires, from the McDowell Senior Center, will provide music for dancing during the afternoon.

Chairman of the Fayette County Board of Commissioners, Robert Mace, will present to B.E. Kelley the hall of fame award from Fayette County. Other nominees for this honor were Homer Gleadell, Dr. John G. Jordan

Mrs. Walter Parrett, Fred Rost and Mrs. Pearl Stoughton.

Those interested in attending the event may make reservations by calling the Help-Anonymous office, 335-4144, between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. by June 2. Cost of the luncheon and transportation from Washington C.H. will be $4.50. Mrs. Marsha Davis, from Help-Anonymous, said that those going to the activity will leave from St. Andrew's Church at 10 a.m. and travel on a Washington School bus to the Rhodes Center.

The bus will return to Washington C.H. around 5 p.m. Should anyone need transportation to St. Andrews, it can be provided for if Mrs. Davis knows of this need in advance.

Oberlin College was the first college in the nation to have a music department, opened in 1865. Dana Institute at Warren, Ohio, came four years later.

Teays Valley to enter SCOL

County athletes honored

CHILLICOTHE—The South Central Ohio League honored over 70 athletes at Thursday night's annual Spring Sports Banquet at Unioto High School. Twenty-two of the athletes were from Fayette County: eight from Washington Senior High School and 14 from Miami Trace High School. Trace's Allan Conner and Court Houses' Randy Sparkman were repeaters on the all-SCOL baseball team. Conner was again picked for the outfield while Sparkman led all league third basemen in the voting by league coaches. Joining Sparkman on the first team were teammates Scott Johnson and

Jeff Elliott. Johnson, a junior, was picked for the first base slot while Elliott, who is the only sophomore on the squad, was one of two pitchers selected. Joining Elliott as an all-league hurler was Circleville's Biff Bumgarner. He was also named the honorary league captain. Circleville won the SCOL baseball crown this year. Although Washington C.H. finished near the bottom of the league standings with a 5-9 record, the Blue Lions placed the most players, three, on the 12-man team. Circleville had two with and utility man Brent Mancini. Hillsboro and Wilmington also placed two on the list. The second-place Indians placed catcher Steve Zink and shortstop Randy Sanders on the team while Wilmington placed Rick Newell at second base and Tony Berlin in left field. Unioto shortstop Steve Uhrig, Greenfield outfielder Jim Ganger and Madison Plains' Dave Saunders rounded out the all-star squad. Blue Lions Mark Fisher and Jeff DeWees were listed as honorable mention choices as were Miami Trace's Gary English, Jack James, Stuart Foster and Ken Darling. Wilmington, which went undefeated in softball this year, led the all-SCOL girls team with four players. Miami Trace placed two, Sherri Graf at second base and utility player Sally Gaylord. Washington C.H. had one player first baseman Sharon Redden, selected. Anne Haley of Wilmington and Tammy Zimmerman of Hillsboro were named honorary tri-captains of the all-star team. Greenfield's Mindy Gosset, Cindy Howland, and Pam Shady were chosen. Jeri Masters, Kerry Baker and Beth Harte of Wilmington and Linda Holvack and Darla Hughes from Circleville were also mentioned. Fayette County also had six honorable mention selections in Tammy Matson, Gail Graff, Jodi Hatfield, Alicia Upthegrove, Val Brown and Debby Morarity. League tracksters were also recognized at the banquet. Receiving awards for first place finishes in the league meet were Miami Trace's Dan Gifford (high jump), Bill Hanners (mile run), Bill Warnock (quarter-mile dash) and Greg Cobb, Bruce Ervin, Frank Dunn and Warnock (mile relay). The Washington C.H. half-mile relay team of Joe Cox, Greg Greene, Ed DeWees and Mark Forsythe were also honored. Five Miami Trace girls were honored for their winning performances in the league's first girls' track meet. Vicki Bennett, winner of the long jump, and the mile relay team of Gail Camstra, Cheryl Hale, Christy Stockwell and Laura Bailey were given awards. In the MEETING previous to the league banquet, it was announced by school principals that Teays Valley High School from Pickaway County will be admitted to the South Central Ohio league in 1977. The class AA school will put the league's membership back to eight schools. Unioto High School has dropped from the league and will not participate in SCOL sports next year. Teays Valley will become the 13th school to have enrolled in the league since its inception in 1923. Curtis Fleisher, principal of Miami Trace High School, was named president of the league Thursday succeeding Dr. John Muth of Wilmington. In other league action, the principals voted to keep ticket prices for 1976-77 league sporting events at $1.50 for adults and $1 for students.

Celebrity tourney set

Tea times have been announced for the First Annual Buckeye Hills Celebrity Golf Tournament which is slated for Saturday. Thirty-two foursomes with a celebrity in each will begin teeing off at 8 a.m. and continue until 1:10 p.m. Persons interested in following the golfers in a gallery are welcome. There will be a $1 charge and all proceeds will go to the fight against Muscular Dystrophy. Pairings and tea times follow with the celebrity listed first.

Phoenix imports Shine

Frisko edges Reds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With a little more help from Phoenix, the San Francisco Giants may yet rise from the ashes of last place in the National League West.

"Bring up some more players from Phoenix and we'll win a lot of games," newcomer Rob Dressler joked Thursday after his former Pacific Coast League teammate Larry Herndon had three of the Giants' 17 hits in a badly needed 6-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Tonight, right-hander Dressler who was 5-1 for Phoenix with a 1.12 earned run average through six PCL appearances, faces the Atlanta Braves' Andy Messersmith in the opener of a four-game series between the clubs stuck at the bottom of the NL West standings.

Dressler said, "There's a lot of talent down at Phoenix, like the right fielder Jack Clark who I think will be the National League's next big hitting star. All those guys need is a shot up here."

Gary Matthews' eighth inning sacrifice fly Thursday scored Herndon with the run that broke a 5-5 tie. The rookie center fielder, in his third major league start, led off with a single and went to third on a bunt single by Derrel Thomas and a throwing error by Reds' reliever Will McEnaney.

Dave Heaverlo and Gary Lavelle held the Reds scoreless in the ninth and San Francisco had snapped its latest losing streak at four games. The Giants had lost 19 of their last 23 games to drop 11 games out of first place.

"With guys like Matthews, Bobby Murcer and Willie Montanez in the heart of the batting order, the Giants are going to get their share of hits," said Cincinnati's Pete Rose, who has more than his share and a .385 batting average after two singles Thursday.

"I hope they keep getting hits now and beat the (Los Angeles) Dodgers for us," said Rose. He added, "Being 11 games behind in May is nothing to worry about. They shouldn't push the panic button."

Why, only a year ago, the Reds were mired in fifth place, five games behind Los Angeles. They finished first with a 20-game lead.

Herndon had a triple after entering Tuesday night's game, which the Giants lost 5-4, and Manager Bill Rigney decided to start him against the Reds' hard-throwing Don Gullett.

"He almost made the club in spring training," Rigney said about the 22-year-old outfielder recalled from Phoenix two weeks ago. "He can cover ground and he's shown us he can hit. We're going to give him a good look."

Five Giants had two hits apiece Thursday including Chris Speier who had a two-run single in the first inning. Chris Arnold stroked a two-run pinch hit single in the fifth, sending San Francisco ahead 5-4, but George Foster tied it with a homer in the eighth off Heaverlo, the winning pitcher.

Hey, Tom Seaver, where's that Cy Young-winning form?

"I'm just not being aggressive enough," says the righthander.

Seaver's lack of aggression is making pacifists out of the New York Mets. The high-salaried right-hander has lost three straight games, including Thursday's 5-3 decision to the Philadelphia Phillies.

Since Seaver has turned from hawk to dove, the Mets have been tailing off — losing seven of their last nine decisions.

The Phillies even teed off on Seaver's

best pitches. Mike Schmidt hit a strong Seaver curve ball over the fence.

"It was a good curve ball, down and away," said a disconsolate Seaver, now 4-3.

At one point, the three-time Cy Young winner looked so unlike himself that Manager Joe Frazier walked out to the mound and asked him, "Are you sick?" Seaver replied, "No." To which Frazier replied, "Well, the ball's not getting up to the plate fast enough."

In the other National League games, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-1; the San Francisco Giants nudged the Cincinnati Reds 6-5; the Houston Astros nipped the San Diego Padres 5-4; the Montreal Expos blanked the Chicago Cubs 3-0 and the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Atlanta Braves 3-2.

The Phillies jumped on Seaver for four runs in the first inning, two on Greg Luzinski's double, and held on to beat New York behind Jim Lonborg and Tug McGraw. Dave Kingman of the Mets also belted a home run, his 15th of the season, to keep abreast of Schmidt in the home run race.

The unbeaten Lonborg scattered nine hits in 6 2-3 innings to pick up his sixth victory of the season. McGraw, the onetime ace of the Mets' relief corps, pitched one-hit, threestrikeout ball for the final 2-3 innings to get his fourth save of the season.

Cardinals 4, Pirates 1
Mike Tyson's two-run single capped a four-run first inning and sent St. Louis over Pittsburgh. Right-hander John Denny, 2-2, scattered 11 Pittsburgh hits — nine singles and two doubles — in registering his first complete game of the season.

Astros 5, Padres 4
Joe Niekro and Ken Forsch combined to pitch a four-hitter and Forsch drove in the winning run with an eighth-inning single as Houston beat San Diego. Niekro went the first six innings but had to be removed from the game after he was shaken up in a home plate collision with the Padres' Willie Davis. Forsch came on to handle the Padres over the final three innings and record his eighth save of the year. The only hit he surrendered was Dave Winfield's fifth home run of the season in the bottom of the ninth.

Expos 3, Cubs 0
Andre Thornton, playing his first game with Montreal after being acquired from Chicago, drilled a two-run homer to spark the Expos over the Cubs. Thornton came to Montreal Monday in exchange for pitcher Steve Renko and outfielder Larry Bittner. Thornton was a first baseman for Chicago, but played right field for the first time since the 1973 season when he was with Richmond of the International League.

Dodgers 3, Braves 2
Steve Garvey lined a single to left with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning, scoring Bill Buckner from second base and giving Los Angeles its victory over Atlanta. The Dodgers' third straight triumph and eighth in their last 10 games moved them 1 1/2 games ahead of Cincinnati in the National League West.

Royals 8, A's 4
Triples by Fred Patek and George Brett keyed a five-run seventh inning as Kansas City whipped Oakland and plunged the A's seven games behind the Royals in the American League West.

The A's took a 4-2 lead in the top of the seventh on Don Baylor's second solo home run of the game and Phil Garner's RBI double. The Royals then batted around.

White Sox 3, Twins 2
Rich Coggins, Chet Lemon and Jack Brohamer each drove in a run and Rich Gossage scattered seven hits to lead the White Sox over the Twins. Lemon, who also scored a run and stole two bases, put the White Sox ahead to stay when he broke a 1-1 tie

Andretti goes after Indy pole

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Mario Andretti is expected to challenge Johnny Rutherford's pole position-winning speed of 188.957 miles an hour when the final weekend of qualification for the May 30 Indianapolis 500 begins Saturday morning.

Janet Guthrie, meanwhile, seemed almost in need of a miracle to get her speed up within reasonable striking distance for a spot in the 33-car lineup.

Andretti, with a reputation as an outstanding qualifier, has already topped 188 m.p.h. in practice in his McLaren and has consistently been the fastest of the two dozen or so cars still hoping to fight their way into the lineup in trials Saturday and Sunday.

"It's fun to run for the pole and have the fastest car," Andretti said after turning in the quickest practice run Thursday. "But I had a commitment to Formula I last weekend, so I'm just going to have to be satisfied with getting in the field and doing well in the race."

"If this was the first weekend of qualifying, I would really hang it out and go for the pole. But now it doesn't mean anything, except maybe to your pride. We'll just have to see what happens. I'll do what is comfortable, without taking unnecessary chances — with myself or the equipment."

Andretti said the extra week of practice, which he might not have gotten if he had qualified the first weekend, has resulted in some discoveries that may help build even more speed.

"I feel like I'll be able to race real hard in the race itself," Andretti added. "I'm really looking forward to it."

Andretti set the pace Thursday with a top speed of 185.529 m.p.h., which he said was not a "flat out" lap.

Miss Guthrie managed only 168.004 m.p.h. and had various minor problems, including a tow-in once when she stopped on the course. Teammate Dick Simon hit 173.210 m.p.h. in a test of the car — still well below what observers predict will be needed.

Only 10 spots remain and, so far, Miss Guthrie is not among the 10 fastest cars yet to qualify. The slowest driver already in the field is Jim McElreath at 179.122 m.p.h.

Unqualified cars which have turned in speeds at better than McElreath's speed already in practice include those driven by Andretti, Salt Walther, George Snider, Steve Krisloff, Jerry Grant, Al Loquasto and David Hobbs.

Expected to make his first appearance on the track today was Lloyd Ruby, another driver likely to exceed 180 m.p.h. in qualifying.

The fastest 33 qualifiers will start the 60th annual running of the world's most prestigious auto race May 30.

Jr. Champ competition scheduled for Sunday

The Washington C.H. Jaycees in connection with K-Mart will sponsor their annual Junior Champ Competition Sunday at Gardner Park.

Junior Champ gives boys and girls between the ages of six and 16 a chance to exhibit their track and field skills.

Bill Beatty, track coach at Miami Trace High School, is this year's honorary chairman of the event. Beatty in his first year as the Panthers coach led them to a second-place finish in the league this season.

For the first time, boys and girls will compete together in the 7-8 year old, the 9-10 year old and the 15-16 year old groups.

Boys and girls events will be separate in the 11-12 year old and 13-14 year old divisions.

The meet will consist of the long jump, the football throw, high jump, baseball throw and softball throw, and 20, 40, 60, 100, 220 and 440 yard runs.

Awards will be given to the top six finishers in each event. There will also be exhibition running matches for six-year olds at the meet.

Registration will begin at noon Sunday at Gardner Park and the competition will begin at 1 p.m. There is no entry fee and any youth is eligible to compete in his age group.

May 30 has been set as the rain date for this year's competition.

NO COMPROMISE...

... in this house. Dad will like the big two car garage, easy maintenance. Mother will fall in love with the modern newly carpeted kitchen. And the kids will be so happy in this neighborhood ... Also features 3 very nice bedrooms, with ample closets, large carpeted living room, utility room and newly decorated bath. Drive by 501 Comfort Lane, it looks small but you won't believe the size of the rooms until you call Betty Scott at 335-7179 or 335-6046 to make arrangements to see the inside.

Consumer price data released for April

WASHINGTON (AP) — Led by the first rise in retail food costs in four months, consumer prices increased four-tenths of a per cent in April, the government said today.

The increase was the biggest price rise since January and was twice as large as the March increase of two-tenths of a per cent. However, it still was well within the Ford administration's prediction for an over-all 6 per cent increase in prices during all of 1976.

The Labor Department said the price of food rose six-tenths of a per cent during April, the first rise since a six-tenths of a per cent rise in December. Food prices had declined during the first three months of 1976 by a total of 2 per cent.

There were higher prices during April for fresh fruits and vegetables, coffee, pork, poultry and dairy products. The price of beef fell six-tenths of a per cent, but the decline was smaller than in the previous two months.

The department said the Consumer Price Index stood at 168.2 in April, meaning that goods which cost $100 in a base period in 1967 cost $168.20 last month.

During the first three months of the year, consumer prices rose at an annual rate of 2.9 per cent, a low rate that most economists believe could not be maintained for long.

Food prices actually declined by 2 per cent during the January-March period. The Agriculture Department this week had additional good news for consumers, saying the over-all increase for food prices this year might be between 2 and 5 per cent, which would be the smallest annual increase in four years.

Economists, however, are more concerned about the trend in industrial goods, since food prices are considered volatile and not indicative of the overall inflation rate.

Prices for commodities other than food increased during the first three months at an annual rate of nearly 4 per cent.

One indication that the very low inflation rate may be about over was seen in the April wholesale price index, which showed an increase during the month of eight-tenths of 1 per cent, the biggest increase since last October.

Another potential trouble spot in the inflation outlook results from the pace of the economy's recovery from recession.

The Commerce Department reported Thursday that the nation's over-all economic output increased at an annual rate of 8.5 per cent during the first quarter.

The gain in the nation's Gross National Product was up from a preliminary estimate of 7.5 per cent and exceeded all predictions. Some concern now is being expressed by economists that if the economy continues to grow at such rates, it could lead to a big increase in demand for goods of all kinds, which would put new pressures on prices.

Meanwhile, there were these economic developments:

—Shell Oil Co. said it has raised its nationwide gasoline price by one cent a gallon. Shell said the hike was to account for increased costs of crude oil.

JA scholarship award

COLUMBUS — Bob Spangler, 7390 White Oak Rd., was awarded a $1,000 Eymann Fund scholarship by the Fayette County Junior Achievement Board of Directors Tuesday at a banquet in Columbus.

The scholarship is awarded each year to a senior Junior Achiever in Fayette County. The money is to be used for the recipients college education.

Spangler, a senior at Miami Trace High School, was a member of the Looftam mini-corporation this past year.

There are three such corporations operated by area high school students in Fayette County. The mini-corporations design, manufacture and sell small products each year.

The scholarship award was given at the Central Ohio Junior Achievement Banquet in Columbus.

Kim Wheaton of Greenfield received

the Central Ohio Junior Achievement scholarship for $250 and another Greenfield student, Brian Buck, who is a member of the local program, was honored as the second place finisher in the Central Ohio district's best purchasing agent poll.

Ava Hansel, a Miami Trace student, and Kevin Curren of Greenfield will represent the local program as well as the district at the Junior Achievement National Convention this August at Bloomington, Ind. The two students expenses will be paid by Junior Achievement.

Nearly 40 local Junior Achievers attended the district banquet and 60 students completed the local program this year.

The county Junior Achievers are preparing to start their annual fund drive. The program is sponsored by businessmen in Fayette County and Greenfield.

Variances approved

The Washington C.H. Board of Zoning Appeals approved four variances during its meeting Wednesday.

John and Patricia Lyons, 728 W. Elm St., received a variance to erect and occupy a building for business in a R-3 district. They will construct a 40-by-100 foot building at 222 and 224 W. Temple Street to house Washington Paint and Glass.

Although the area is zoned residential, there are other businesses on three sides of the site. Conditions for approval included that all signs, lighted or unlighted, be flush with the building and face other businesses, not homes. They must also seek a zoning change within one year.

The former Washington Paint and Glass location on N. Fayette Street was sold to the Huntington Bank.

Donald E. Smith, 205 Kathryn St., was permitted to encroach six feet onto the 30-foot clearance between the residence and the street. This allows an extension of the front porch.

Elva M. Schreckengast, 932 E. Temple St., received a variance to erect a larger sign and sell both new and used furniture at her upholstery shop at the corner of Temple and Lewis streets.

The board allowed only an unlighted

sign, flush with the building, no larger than 2-by-3 feet.

Shirley Oates, 514 E. Market St., was permitted to operate a beauty shop at the rear of her home. Conditions for the variance included a restriction to only one operator, and that any signs be unlighted and no larger than one foot square.

3 plead guilty to welfare fraud

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three women pleaded guilty Wednesday to charges of receiving welfare payments while on the state payroll, the Franklin County prosecutor's office said.

A trial on the charges had been scheduled this week until the employees decided to plead guilty to one count each of theft by deception, the prosecutor's office said. Other charges were dropped.

The employees are Mildred Deese, 31, a licensed practical nurse at the Central Ohio Psychiatric Hospital; Charley J. Hughes, 29, a clerk-typist for the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation; and Charlotte M. Gossett, 27, a clerk-typist for the Ohio Youth Commission.

Delay new truce in Lebanese war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Bolstered by pledges of support from radical Arab states, leftist Moslem forces delayed action today on a new truce to end Lebanon's civil war.

Hisham Shaar, general director of internal security, said that the number of dead reported by police from nearly 14 months of warfare exceeds 25,000, with 79,000 wounded.

He said this terrible toll did not include casualties among Palestinian refugees or Palestinian guerrillas fighting with the Moslem forces.

Scattered fighting was reported between Moslem and Christian militias overnight, including battles with rockets and mortars around Moslem enclaves in the Christian-held half of Beirut. Police said the clashes killed at least 23 persons.

The over-all leader of the Moslem militants, Kamal Jumblatt, scheduled a meeting with Lebanese leftists, Palestinians and delegates of radical Arab states, calling it the Arab Front for Participation in the Palestinian Resistance.

They were to discuss the Moslem-leftist posture toward a cease-fire plan proposed by President-elect Elias Sarkis.

Jumblatt's position was strengthened by strong new expressions of support from Iraq and Algeria.

Aly Ghannam, member of the ruling Iraqi Baath party's national command, arrived in Beirut for the front meeting and said Iraq "supports the Lebanese nationalist movement and protection of the Palestinian resistance."

Algerian envoy Mohammed Yazid returned to Beirut Thursday and delivered a message of support to Jumblatt from Algerian President Houari Boumedienne.

Earlier this week, Libyan Prime Minister Abdul Salam Jalloud, during a Beirut visit, expressed support for Jumblatt "in war or peace."

Iraq, Libya and Algeria are known to have been supplying Lebanon's Moslem-leftist side with arms and money.

The entry by Iraq and Algeria through the new alliance highlights the political and diplomatic division in the Arab world over Lebanon.

Sarkis' peace plan, as reported in various Beirut papers, includes a cease-fire in place, renouncing of force by both sides, and a round-table discussion of reforms demanded by the Moslems.
